Rickard's Last Show.

VARIOUS devices for creating "artificial sunlight," applying ultra-violet and infra-red rays, artificially made, to the human body are valuable IF PROPERLY USED.

IN THE hands of amateurs, using them on children, with lack of knowledge as to the proper time of "exposure," they may be most dangerous. The Academy of Medicine warns you that such unwise use of these "rays," irritating the tissues, may cause cancer.

IN A bronze coffin that cost $15,000, "Tex" Rickard lies today in Madison Square Garden. Those that paid to see men fight there will enter the Garden for nothing to look upon one that has just lost a fight that no man wins.

MANY that devote little time in thinking may think hard for several minutes, looking upon the great fight promoter, remembering that there is one fight in which every man must lose.

Whatever makes men think is useful. Mr. Rickard, lying in state in his great "sports arena," will be as useful as he ever was in life.

AN AIR-MAIL pilot flew on Monday from New York to Boston in 80 minutes, 212 miles. How that would amaze conservative Bostonians of earlier years and delight Benjamin Franklin, who spent many days going from Boston to Philadelphia.

FROM Miami this morning, Postmaster General New starts a new air-mail line to Cuba, Porto Rico and on South. Gradually all of South America will be connected with all of this country by United States air mail.

IF YOU have an opportunity to buy a GOOD bank stock BUY it.

Stockholders in the National City Bank, of which C. E. Mitchell is president, divided yesterday what Wall Street calls a "Plum," amounting to $87,500,000.

Buy something good in the United States, and KEEP IT.

CANADIAN officials, traveling in flying machines where missionaries once paddled in canoes, are on their way to purchase the last remaining Indian lands in Ontario.

For $8 cash, $4 a year, forever, each of 1,500 to 2,000 Indians will sign away 128,320 square miles of land.

No imagination can estimate the wealth that these Indians will relinquish, the unknown treasures underground, gold, silver, copper, oil, and above all, the value of so many fertile square miles of the earth's surface.

The rooster in the fable, finding a diamond, wished he had found a grain of corn. What you can't use is worthless. The Indians could not use their land. They can use $4 a year.

SOME times farmers succeed, but, usually they must leave the farm to do it.

Benjamin N. Duke, who died yesterday morning in his Fifth avenue house in New York, began as a farmer, working with his brother, James Duke, on their father's farm. They grew tobacco, started a small factory, introduced cigaret making machinery, and made hundreds of millions, and, farmers note this, they bossed the middle man instead of being bossed by him. Ask Mr. Hill of the American Tobacco Company, or Mr. Belt of Lorillard's how that is done.

JOHN HERTZ, able citizen, of Chicago, sells his Yellow Cab Company, says he is going to play. "A few months in Florida, a summer in England, where he will watch his horses run," that's his program.

TO STOP work for such a man is impossible. "A few months in Florida, and a summer in England" will make him realize it. The Ethiopian can't change his skin, or such a man as John Hertz his need of real activity. Besides, "to rest is to rust," and rusting is unpleasant.

ADMIRAL MOFFETT, flying chief of the Navy, delighted with the Question Mark's 150-hour flight, says it brings a "non-stop flight around the earth within the realm of possibility."

A non-stop flight around the earth will be a commonplace, everyday thing, within a few years.

MACHINES up six miles, above high winds, storms, air pockets and all the rest, will keep on going round and round. If you want to go to Peking you will fly up, change from a small plane to the big airship and come down in another small plane in China, India, where you will. Nothing difficult about it, except realizing that it can be done.

Pittsburgh Mother Seeks To Gain Child Gone 3 Years

MRS. MATTHEW MITCHELL AND DISPUTED BABY

Mrs. Marie Krupp (inset), 6331 Shakespeare street, is seeking possession of the three-year-old youngster she claims is Lawrence Krupp, Jr., her son, now with Mrs. Matthew Mitchell, Anderson street. When the child was three months old, according to Attorney George Little, Mrs. Krupp claims she left it with Mrs. Mitchell, agreeing to pay $5 a week, and then lost track of Mrs. Mitchell and the baby.

MOTHER FIGHTS FOR 'LOST' BOY

Mother love is behind a woman's wish to obtain possession of a bright, 3-year-old boy she avers is her son and whom she has not seen since he was a few months old.

On one side is the mother, Mrs. Marie Krupp, 6331 Shakespeare street. On the other is Mrs. Matthew Mitchell, of Anderson street. The prize is the boy, who Mrs. Krupp claims is Lawrence Krupp, Jr.

The case reached its legal phase this afternoon when a hearing on a habeas corpus petition offered by Attorney Little was opened before Judge Richard W. Martin in Common Pleas Court.

According to Attorney George Little, representing Mrs. Krupp, the latter's long search for her son ended about three weeks ago when she identified a newspaper picture of a little boy with a dog as that of her lost baby.

Mrs. Krupp's story, according to Little, is that she was deserted by her husband a few months before the boy was born. When the baby was three months old Mrs. Krupp found herself unable to support it, Little says, and boarded the baby with Mrs. Mitchell, agreeing to pay $5 a week for its keep.

Mrs. Krupp, Little says, lost track of Mrs. Mitchell and the baby and believed the child dead. Then she saw the picture of the boy she believes is her son. Now she wants him.

THOUSANDS PAY TEX HOMAGE

The turnstiles were up for all to come who would say so-long to the man who loved to shuffle crowds.

And they came. Scores, hundreds, thousands. Men, women and children.

When the gates opened this morning they began filing past the $15,000 bronze casket in the center of the arena at the rate of two a second.

At least one out of every 10 in the mourning line was a woman. Yet it was not a crowd such as rioted at the funeral of Rudolph Valentino. It was a man's crowd. Rich man, poor man, beggar man, thief—some from curiosity, some from honest grief.

Shortly before noon there were 5,000 persons in the upper tiers. Some had even brought sandwiches with them.

While Rickard made millions for others, his personal fortune may have dwindled to approximately $500,000, according to estimates made in some quarters today.

POLICE PROBE PAWNSHOPS SELLING GUNS TO MINORS

A police crusade aimed at pawnbrokers or other places which sell firearms to minors was ordered this morning by Public Safety Director James M. Clark.

Magistrate A. D. Brandon of Morals Court held for court on larceny charges James Porter, 17, of 4115 Haldane street; Walter Butler, 16, of 4120 Haldane street, and James Kennedy, 18, of 4128 Lydia street, arrested last night in Melwood street by Policeman Louis Lefkowitz.

Their arrest was the sequel to the theft of an automobile, belonging to D. L. Wilcoff, 5606 Fair Oaks street. Lefkowitz' suspicions were aroused by a parked car. When he questioned the boys, he told Brandon that the Butler boy drew an automatic pistol and attempted to throw it away. Questioned by Brandon this morning, the boy is said to have told him that he purchased the revolver in a Wylie avenue pawn shop for $5. Both a city ordinance and a state law forbid the selling of firearms to minors, it is said.

Brandon communicated with Director Clark. The latter then instructed the pawn division to check up on all pawn shops in the city and to revoke the license of any pawn broker suspected of selling firearms to minors. The boys were held in $1,000 bail each.

'HEX' FEAR REVEALED AT TRIAL

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service.

YORK, Pa., Jan. 9.—In the palm of his hand for years John Blymyer, "pow wow doctor" on trial for the murder of Nelson D. Rehmeyer, saw a mental photograph of the man he killed. There the vision was, every time he opened his fist, worrying him and affecting his mind and health.

This remarkable testimony was given on the witness stand today by Dr. Julius Comroe, of York, formerly connected with the Philadelphia Hospital, an expert in mental diseases.

EXAMINED SIX TIMES

The doctor had examined Blymyer six times since January 23, 1923, the last time last night.

"Blymyer had a fixed idea he was being persecuted," Dr. Comroe said. "He thought someone was pursuing him. He couldn't eat or sleep, and it affected his health."

The defense claims Blymyer believed he was "hexed." That is that he was convinced Rehmeyer, a 60-year-old farmer, was a "witch" and had cast an evil spell over him and others. So on the night of November 27 Blymyer and two companions, Wilbert Hess, 18, and John Curry, 15, went to the Rehmeyer farm house and bludgeoned the "witch" into insensibility and burned him to death.

"JUVENILE MIND"

Dr. Comroe testified that upon examining Blymer as late as last night he found his mental intelligence to be "that of a juvenile." His general demeanor was shy and

ROME, Jan. 9.—On my arrival at Virgo Bay, I remember only the scenery of melancholy, grayish mountains, here and there covered with patches of snow, girdling in a circle the little bay linked to the memory of the Andree expedition—and then the deck of the Citta di Milano, filled with sailors.

A motor launch came to meet us. I was lifted up and carried on board the ship amidst the hurrahs of the crew. I had a mortal sadness in my soul, which the warmth of my welcome did not in the least expel. I remembered only the face of an officer who had tears in his eyes, and Aponte, the journalist, who insisted on kissing my hand. All the rest is submerged in darkness.

They carried me to a cabin. The photographers, the cinema operators hurried up to beg me to pose. I refused to do so. It seemed an insult to my grief. After I had escaped them I looked at myself in a mirror for the first time after 32 days. I was horrible, unrecognizable.

A bristly and grayish-beard covered my face. I asked for a bath, my sole ardent desire. I was wearing repugnantly dirty clothes. It seemed that I had only just become aware of them. All of a sudden I saw the coating of dirt here and there on my skin and smelt the bad

GIRL CLUE SNARES KILLER

The sights of Pittsburgh on a cold Sunday afternoon, and a girl friend at his side—those were the diversions Edward Kaltenbaugh, 21, farm hand, enjoyed the day after he had, according to a confession to Canton (O.) police, slain John Oser and Oser's wife, Bertha, on their dairy farm near Canal Fulton, O., for an automobile "to ride the girl friend around" and 20 $1 bills.

Kaltenbaugh's confession to Canton police today and information furnished police by that same "girl friend," Miss Gladys Espy, of New Castle, revealed that Kaltenbaugh and she had spent most of last Sunday here while search for the Osers' slayer was being made in three states.

TRACED THROUGH GIRL

Through that same "girl friend," also, Kaltenbaugh was tracked down last night by New Castle police and Sheriff Ed Gibson, of Stark County, O., and arrested in his home at London, near Grove City. He meekly surrendered when the officers found him cowering under a coat in an attic.

A chance remark made by Oser a day or two before the dual slaying led authorities to Kaltenbaugh's trail. The remark was made to a friend, L. C. Lawrence, who told Sheriff Gibson about it.

"Well, it looks as though I'm going to lose Eddie," said Oser. "He has a girl in New Castle."

In the presence of Sheriff Gibson and New Castle police officers, Kaltenbaugh signed a complete confession before he was taken to Canton, to be lodged in a cell in the Stark County jail.

"It came over me all of a sudden," he explained, police said. "I wanted the automobile, so I shot Johnny (Mr. Oser). Then Mrs.

FIVE INDICTED IN MISSING BOY CASE

By WILLIAM PFARR,
Staff Correspondent.

WOOSTER, O., Jan. 9.—The Wayne County grand jury today indicted Elias Arnold and four members of his family for child-stealing in connection with the disappearance of 4-year-old Melvin Horst from his home in Orrville, O., a fortnight ago. Those indicted beside the elder Arnold were his sons, Arthur and William; his daughter, Mrs. Dorothy McHenry and her husband, Bascom McHenry.

This action revealed definitely that authorities believe the motive to have been revenge. As his 18 witnesses had completed their testimony before the jury, Special Prosecutor W. J. Moughey expressed the belief that Melvin would be returned to his family, alive and well.

SHADYSIDE PERMIT RAPPED

The proposed ordinance to change zoning classification of property at the northeast corner of Fifth and Morewood avenues to permit erection of an apartment house was disapproved today by the City Planning Commission in a report to Council.

The neighborhood, now restricted to one-family dwellings, standing far back from the street, would be spoiled by the proposed new building, the commission held.

MANY PROTESTS

Changes in the zoning classifications already have been carried to such an extent, the report stated, that people, lacking assurance the neighborhood where they have their homes will be protected from undesirable encroachments, have in many cases left the city.

The Planning Commission's adverse report is but one of numerous protests against the scheme received by Council.

Strong condemnation of the plan came from the Pittsburgh Housing Association, Allegheny County League of Women Voters, the East Liberty Chamber of Commerce, and a citizens' committee specially organized to combat the project.

WANT PROTECTION

The Housing Association, in its protest, signed by John Ihlder, executive director, declared the proposed apartment house would be a blight on the neighborhood.

"There already are those who scoff at the assertion that zoning affords them protection," he said. "They say 'any day Council may re-zone the lot next door to my house to permit an apartment house that will fill the lot and tower over my dwelling and cut off the light and air from my windows.

"There already is in Pittsburgh ample space zoned to permit apartment house."

BOY SMOKERS FACE QUIZ IN TUBE CITY SCHOOL FIRE

McKeesport High School youths who are known to smoke will be questioned in the investigation of the cloakroom fire which yesterday threatened destruction of the 35-room school building, Dr. J. B. Richey, superintendent of schools, said today.

"We are making a thorough investigation," said Dr. Richey. "We believe the fire was caused either by a lighted pipe left in someone's overcoat or by defective wires in a chandelier which could have set fire to the clothing and caused sparks to ignite the clothing below. We know the boys who smoke and we shall question them."

About 300 male students lost their clothing in the blaze. No girls' wraps were kept in the cloakroom, Dr. Richey said. Each one was asked today to list clothing destroyed, appraising it at its value if more than a year old and at full value if less than a year, preparatory to possible action by the school board in reimbursing the students. The list made up by the students totaled a little more than $7,000.

STATE CONGRESSMEN ALL BACK REAPPORTIONMENT

COUNCIL HITS AT SMOKE NUISANCE

President James F. Malone has called a conference between city Council and Harry B. Meller, chief of the city's smoke regulation bureau, at 2 p. m. Friday, to discuss plans for eliminating the smoke nuisance.

At a meeting of the finance committee yesterday, Council ordered the presentation of legislation authorizing the employment of 10 technical men as temporary inspectors to assist in abating objectionable smoke.

The additional inspectors would be selected from engineering classes specializing in studies of soft coal as fuel at University of Pittsburgh and Carnegie Tech and would be placed under Meller's supervision. They would be exempt from civil service rules and would work four hours a day for three months at 75 cents an hour.

PREVIOUS QUIZ RECALLED

Apparently doubting that more inspectors would solve the problem, Charles Anderson recalled a meeting between Council and Meller some time ago when the latter was asked if objectionable smoke was not more prevalent than at any previous time.

Meller was quoted as replying that objectionable smoke could be observed only at two plants and that they were then correcting boiler defects which caused the smoke.

Anderson pointed out that the agitation died down until recently when newspapers proclaimed daily that the smoke pall was greater than ever before as a result of the dense black clouds emitted from "every building in town as well as from factories and [illegible] boats."

"Everyone in the city should be compelled to comply with the smoke regulating ordinance and if the present employes cannot enforce the law they should be replaced with others who would," Anderson said.

MALONE URGES CAUTION

Malone concurred in the necessity of enforcing the existing ordinance but he urged caution in attacking the problem. He pointed out that the solution might be found in the proper firing of boilers. Malone suggested a campaign of education, not only in Pittsburgh, but elsewhere, to teach users of soft coal how to get the best results by eliminating smoke.

He declared Council did not want to be too severe in criticizing the use of soft coal as fuel and sounded a warning of the unfavorable effects of the agitation against the use of natural gas.

Malone declared the mining of soft coal was one of Pittsburgh's basic industries and that every effort should be made to preserve it.

$5,000 VERDICT FOR FAGAN IN DAMAGE SUIT

Patrick Fagan, district president of the United Mine Workers, was awarded, for false arrest, $5,000 damages in a suit against the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation, by a jury in Common Pleas Court, today.

Fagan was taken into custody June 1, 1927, by coal and iron policemen who were guarding a group of non-union miners at the Wabash building, Liberty avenue and Ferry street. The men had been assembled at the Wabash building to be transported to the company's mines at Coverdale, where union miners then were on strike.

Fagan's counsel, Attorney Oliver K. Eaton, contended that the police were not legally on duty and that their authority did not extend within the city limits. He also stressed the fact that a fine of $10 for disorderly conduct, laid against Fagan by Justice of the ePace Ira Edmundson, of Mt. Lebanon, following the arrest had been remitted when Fagan appealed to the county courts.

FARM EMPLOYE CONFESSES HE KILLED TWO

Oser came out of the house and I shot her."

Kaltenbaugh, according to his story, drove Oser's automobile, a new six-cylinder sedan, to New Castle Saturday night, immediately after the murder. He arrived there at 11:30 o'clock, and went directly to the home of Miss Espy, where he often had spent nights during the previous six months. Miss Espy had retired, but she arose in answer to the sound of the auto horn.

PAIR VISIT PITTSBURGH

But, before he left, he made an engagement with Miss Espy for the next morning. At 8 o'clock Sunday morning, he returned, without the automobile, and they came to Pittsburgh by train.

It was a cold day, and, Kaltentenbaugh told police, there didn't seem to be much doing, not even enough to excite a farm boy. So they spent what was left of the morning sitting in the Pennsylvania station.

At noon they ate in a Liberty avenue restaurant, and then walked about "to look at the tall buildings," Kaltenbaugh told police. They caught a 6 o'clock train back to New Castle.

FORGERY CONVICT

Kaltenbaugh is one of 12 children of a widowed mother, Mrs. Sarah Kaltenbaugh. In 1926 he was convicted in Mercer County of forgery.

The victims of the double slaying were buried today in Canton. A large crowd followed them to their graves and the Osers' 10-year-old son, Harold, saw the burial.

He, it was, who found his father "asleep" in the milk house on the dairy farm last Sunday morning and rode his pony to a neighbor's house to ask help because he couldn't "waken pa."

According to Canton dispatches, Stark County Prosecutor Henry Harter, Jr., will move immediately to have Kaltenbaugh indicted for murder. The grand jury now is in session. Harter said he would ask the death penalty, and Kaltenbaugh, when he heard of the prosecutor's intention, smilingly opined that he "probably would get the electric chair."

FIVE INDICTED IN LOST BOY CASE

MOTHER IS CALM

The boy's mother, Mrs. Zorah Horst, mother of three, answered all questions simply and calmly. She was born and reared on a Marshallville (Ohio) farm and 10 years ago married Raymond Horst. She hasn't read the newspapers since her son vanished 13 days ago.

"I suppose," she was asked by a reporter, "that if you had your son back you'd be willing to let the guilty persons go free?"

"I want my son back above all and sometimes I tell myself that it doesn't matter whether the persons who took him are punished or not."

Calm, mannered, Mrs. Horst appeared to be moving through these days as she, the wife of a tinner in moderate circumstances, always has.

SAVES CHRISTMAS TREE

But at night, after Mrs. Horst has put Elgi Dora, 2, and Ralph, 8, to bed, she switches on the light in the front room of their modest home and allows it to burn through the night. In a corner of that room stands a Christmas tree. Beneath it a toy automobile stands by itself.

"You're leaving your tree up rather late, aren't you, Mrs. Horst?"

"I'm going to let it up until Melvin comes home," she said.

80 Stockings Stolen

Police today were investigating the theft of 40 pairs of women's silk stockings from the Frank bootery, second floor, Jenkins Arcade building. The stockings were valued at $100. Entrance was gained to the shop some time during the night.

Message Unspoken "Read It," Says Governor

PIERRE, S. D., Jan. 9.—(AP.)—Something novel in the way of delivering an opening message to a hostile legislature, was resorted to here yesterday by Gov. W. J. Bulow, who suggested that the Republican dominated body obtain his recommendations from the newspaper accounts.

When the assembly convened, the governor read the first three paragraphs of his mesage and then said:

"It's going to take an hour and a half if I read this. I don't want to read it. You don't want to sit that long. I want you to read it and abide by the recommendations."

Amid laughter and applause, Bulow sat down.

WOMAN JUROR CENSURED

For having failed to reveal that she knew one of the attorneys in the case at issue, Mrs. Mary Sweeney, of 19 South Jackson street, Bellevue, was censured by Judge Harry M. Rowand in Common Pleas Court today and withdrawn as a juror in a damage suit against the Pittsburgh Railways Company. The court recently ruled each juror must be questioned upon possible acquaintance with counsel. The case proceeded with 11 jurors, but later was non-suited.

Notables Win Prizes For Nationl Songs

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—Winners of the ten $100 prizes in the preliminary contest sponsored by Mrs. Florence Brooks-Aten to select a national anthem to supplant "The Star Spangled Banner" have been announced. The final contest, in which $5,000 in prizes is to be awarded, will be decided February 16.

Among the 10 are Edwin Markham, Arthur Gulterman, Grantland Rice, and Berton Braley, all of New York, and John Moffit, Jr., of Harrisburg.

BLONDES WIN

SYLVIA ADAMS VALERIE RAEMIER

Sylvia Adams, brunette, and Valerie Raemier, blonde, were two of the subjects when New York scientists found that blondes react faster than brunettes. A blonde on the average will register a shock in about thirteen-hundredths of a second and a brunette in about fourteen-hundredths.

MELLON STAYS, BELIEF IN CAPITAL

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Despite the threatened opposition from Progressive Republican circles, President-elect Herbert Hoover has now indicated rather clearly that he intends to retain the services of Andrew W. Mellon, of Pittsburgh, as secretary of the treasury in his new cabinet.

Political students were convinced today that the presence of Mr. Mellon at the Hoover headquarters suite at the Mayflower Hotel yesterday as the luncheon companion of the President-elect, means only one thing, namely: That Mr. Hoover had definitely decided to tender the treasury department portfolio to the Pittsburgh man and so informed him.

While there is a general lack of official information from any source, the consensus here is that Mr. Mellon is thought to have been offered the post and is believed to have accepted. So far as Washington is concerned, it only remains for the formal announcement to be made.

Cumberland Plans $310,000 City Work

CUMBERLAND, Md., Jan. 9.—City Council has passed orders asking legislative authority to submit to the voters this spring proposed bond issue aggregating $310,000 for municipal improvements.

SEE VICTORY ASSURED THURSDAY

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,

Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Friends of reapportionment legislation, which comes before the lower House Thursday, today were confident of victory following the action of the powerful Pennsylvania delegation in voting unanimously to support the bill.

The significance in Pennsylvania's action is seen in the fact that 18 of the 36 members of the delegation voted against the measure when it was up for consideration at the last session and recommitted by a majority of only 22 votes. Thus proponents appear to have gained enough votes to overcome the strength shown by the opposition before.

DECISION IN CAUCUS

Decision to support the bill was reached at a caucus Tuesday, held in the office of Chairman Louis T. McFadden, of the House Banking and Currency Committee. It was hailed as all the more important, too, because it has not been determined yet whether the state will be included among those which will gain additional representation in Congress under the next decennial census of 1930.

BLOC ORGANIZED

Meantime, plans went forward today for perfecting the reapportionment bloc in preparation for the battle on the floor tomorrow. Representative Clarence J. McLeod, of Detroit, called a meeting of leaders in the fight to urge that every available member be on hand when the balloting starts.

While friends of the measure feel that victory is at hand they are anxious to avoid the possibility of defeat by presenting full strength. The bill will be taken up under special rule, granted by majority leaders of the lower chamber.

SPECIAL SESSION URGED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—A resolution was adopted by the Pennsylvania House delegation yesterday urging a special session of Congress as soon as practicable for the revision of tariff and consideration of farm relief. The resolution will be presented to President-elect Herbert Hoover today.

The resolution was adopted at a caucus attended by all but two members of the House delegation.

Mission Officers In Annual Meeting

The Rev. E. M. McFadden was re-elected general superintendent of the New Covenant Mission at the thirtieth annual business meeting of the mission officers in the Downtown Y. M. C. A. yesterday. The Rev. George A. Long was elected president and the Rev. W. S. Trosh, W. J. Peacock and James S. Huey were named vice presidents. The Rev. W. J. C. Samson was elected secretary and treasurer and the Rev. John J. VanGorder, of Butler, and the Rev. W. A. McRoberts were re-elected directors.

BLONDE'S 'SHOCK' QUICKER THAN HER DARK SISTER'S

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—The men who say "It's a woman" who drives so badly in front of them, should go to the Museum of Peaceful Arts here.

The Touch Reaction machine measures to a hundredth of a second how quickly you jump, and how long it takes for a sensation to get to your brain and back again in time enough to steer your auto right.

It looks like a break for the girls, and particularly for blondes.

The normal time it takes the electric shock to travel up the arm to the brain and back is twenty-three hundredths of a second. The five pretty girls from "Whoopee" and "Show Boat" all did it fifteen hundredths of a second or less.

The blondes, Misses Josephine Adair and Valerie Raemier, did it in fourteen and thirteen hundredths of a second, respectively, while Miss Betty Irene Gray took fifteen and Miss Sylvia Adams fourteen and a half hundredths of a second.

It looked dark for the brunettes when Rose Marie Mariella tossed off a reaction in seven hundredths of a second. The pretty brunette used to sling plates in Child's before her looks won her a place in a Ziegfeld show, so perhaps that is where she got her speed. Her customers didn't have to wait.

Soon or later, according to Dr. F. C. Brown, the machine's inventor, the Museum will also be able to measure the public's reactions to sight and sound.

"It may mean that eventually certain industries will prefer blondes to brunettes," said Dr. Brown. "Possibly stores will use such a machine to measure the effect on the number of sales."

Dinner to Celebrate Metro Plan Success

Civic leaders of all communities in the county will attend the dinner of the inter-community affairs committee of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce tomorrow night in recognition of the success of the Metropolitan Plan at the November election. The dinner, which is to be held in the chamber auditorium, also will honor members of the Metropolitan Plan Commission.

The speakers will be A. L. Humphrey, George H. Wallace, Samuel A. Taylor, Morris Knowles and Prof. Thomas H. Reed, of the University of Michigan. Fred C. Haller, chairman of the inter-community affairs committee, will preside.

GIRL STUDENT-PILOTS HERE FLY DESPITE COLD WINDS

BETTY YOEST TWISTS 'PROP'

Many good fliers have quit "the game," it is said, because they didn't like to "twist the prop." This menial necessity, however, has no terror for Miss Betty Yoest, one of the most promising students of Capt. Hal Bazley, Bettis Field instructor.

FLORENCE M'CAIN

KATHRYN MEISENHELTER

Spark-plugs must be fixed. It's really very simple. Watch Miss Kathryn Meisenhelter, Bettis Field student who wants to learn all there is to know about the plane she's learning to fly. The number of women pilots-to-be in Pittsburgh is growing.

GIRLS LEARNING TO FLY DEFY ZERO WAVE

Pittsburgh women like to fly. Where, a year or two ago, they were "thrilled to death" at the thought of a flight, now they want to take the controls.

Eight Pittsburgh girls are learning to fly, some of them "putting off" the finishing lessons until warmer weather. Mayer Field, Bridgeville, boasts two women students with a like number training under William Austin at Rodgers Field.

Last Sunday's wintry breezes, with the thermometer hovering around the zero mark, failed to daunt four young women training at Bettis Field where Cliff Ball, Pittsburgh-Cleveland air mail contractor, and Capt. Hal Bazley, civilian instructor, provided the planes and the instruction. The Misses Betty Yoest, Florence McCain, Kathryn Meisenhelter and Helen Stinner not only went aloft for their customary spins but tinkered with the "contraptions" as well.

15 HUSKY DOGS SENT TO BYRD

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 9.—(AP.)—Fifteen young husky dogs today were on their way from the Pacific Northwest to the frozen Antarctic to join Commander Richard E. Byrd's expedition. They were aboard the liner Niagara, sailing from Vancouver for Australia.

The dogs must reach Dunedin, N. Z., before February 7, in time to be forwarded by steamship to the expedition's base on the edge of the great ice barrier. They are being sent by E. J. Farr, agent for the White Pass and Yukon Railway, in response to a request from Commander Byrd.

Hurt in Collision, Woman Asks $25,000

Nannie F. Grant, Chambersburg, Pa., who was injured in an automobile collision in Bigelow boulevard, July 19, last, when a car owned by the Indiana Printing and Publishing Company, of Indiana, swerved and struck her machine, has brought suit for $25,000 damages. The accident occurred near the intersection of Thirty-third street. The plaintiff, through her counsel, Brasley, Rubin, Baiter & Cole says she was hurt about the head, back, spine and internally.

Pneumonia Shows Gain at Johnstown

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Jan. 9.—Though local health authorities are making effort to check the influenza-pneumonia epidemic that has gripped this community, 27 more cases of pneumonia were reported within the last 24 hours. Health officials stated today that while the grip contagion seems to have been checked there is no let-up in the number of pneumonia cases. There are nearly 2,400 children absent from the schools here on account of illness.

Woman First Victim Of Cold Wave Here

The first death attributable to the cold wave occurred today when Mrs. Mary Salamanda, 39, of 1721 Liberty avenue, succumbed to pneumonia, in St. Francis Hospital. She was taken to the hospital after police found her lying unconscious at Penn avenue and Fisk street yesterday, in the near-zero weather.

Wills His Estate To Doctor Who Refused Fee

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 9.—(AP.)—Legless "Happy" Harry Dagon has paid a debt of honor.

Threatened with death by blood poisoning 18 years ago, "Happy" had both legs amputated. The operating surgeon, a Dr. Dowe, of Danville, N. Y., refused to charge for the case.

"Happy," once a printer, and since the operation a news vendor here, died Saturday. His will, just made public, bequeaths the residue of his estate, said to be "considerable," to Dr. Dowe.

ATTORNEY ILL, NOT MISSING

Attorney W. F. Daniels, for whom friends and associates are said to have been conducting a quiet search for several weeks, is in Cleveland attending to matters of business, Attorney Joseph F. Mayhugh, one of Daniel's legal associates declared today.

Because he was stricken with influenza, while in Cleveland, Attorney Daniels neglected to communicate with friends and members of his family here, according to Attorney Mayhugh, but he was sufficiently recovered to return to Pittsburgh last night and after conferring with Attorney Mayhugh, returned to Cleveland.

Attorney Daniels has business interests in Cleveland and expects to practice law there, Attorney Mayhugh stated. Attorney Daniels was defense counsel at the recent trial of Sam Jaworski, who was sentenced to the penitentiary for his part in the dramatic rescue from county jail of his condemned brother, Paul Jaworski.

Man's Own Blood Leads to Capture

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 9.—A trail made by his own blood is said to have led to the arrest of Ellis Humphrey, 29, Negro, of Red Hill, near California, Pa., last night. Humphrey was arrested by Chief County Detective W. B. Dinsmore, of Washington, following his alleged shooting of Dominick Christopher, 19, a miner, in his home at Daisytown last night. Christopher is in a critical condition in Washington Hospital. Humphrey was shot as he ran from the scene following the shooting of Christopher.

NORTH SIDE GIRL GONE, 'IN-LAW' BLAMED

A woman pleaded with her son-in-law in Morals Court today to bring back her 16-year-old daughter who has mysteriously disappeared.

"Tell me where you have Bertha," sobbed Mrs. Barbara Herbert, addressing her son-in-law, Edward Humphreys, 32, of 911 Sandusky street, arrested in connection with the disappearance of the girl Sunday night, his sister-in-law.

"Honest, mother, I don't know where she is," declared Humphreys.

Oscar Leininger, 18, of 2826 East street, testified he had escorted the girl home Sunday night and that they had been followed by a man answering Humphrey's description. After he left Bertha, he testified, the man accosted her and the two were talking when he last saw them.

Humphreys was held over by Magistrate A. D. Brandon. missing persons bureau wired authorities in the Ohio towns named to seek the girl.

Humphreys' wife, Edith, 25, sister of the missing girl, also was arrested in connection with the case. She became ill at North Side Police Station and was taken to Allegheny General Hospital where police said she gave birth to a child last night.

Economics Courses Starting at Tech

Tomorrow is announced as registration day for special part-time courses in home economics at the Carnegie Institute of Technology. The courses are intended for women who have sufficient leisure, and are interested in intelligent development of the problems of the home. Courses will be given in menu planning and mean services for the home, weaving, dressmaking, and applied design. The class in weaving begins the week of February 11. Other classes start next week. Registration for all four courses will be held tomorrow between 11 a. m. and 2 p. m. in Margaret Morrison Carnegie College.

Blind, She Loses Race to Save Mate's Life

HUGO, Colo., Jan. 9.—(AP.)—A blind woman, Mrs. George S. Davis, struggled over ditches and cross roads two miles, feeling her way along a barbed wire fence, to a neighbor's last night, to get help for her husband who was dangerously ill. She was bleeding from wire cuts and badly bruised from many falls and nearly exhausted when she arrived. The neighbors found her husband dead.

Judge Put in Jail For Contempt Of Court

CHILDRESS, Tex., Jan. 9.—(AP.)—County Judge W. B. Howard is in jail here serving a 24-hour sentence for contempt of court.

The sentence and a $50 fine were imposed by District Judge A. J. Fires when Judge Howard, acting as an attorney in several cases, reached the courtroom late after he had been warned to be on time.

COUNTY PLANS NEW ROADS

Authorization was granted by the county commissioners yesterday for Director of Public Works Norman F. Brown to advertise for bids for the construction of Ingomar extension road, McCandless township, estimated to cost $104,000 and for the Washington Pike road, Greentree borough, estimated to cost $152,000; and to prepare contract plans for the Tarentum and Culmerville road, Fraser township, estimated to cost $155,000. Action on the Turtle Creek and Monroeville road, estimated to cost $157,000, was held over.

Credo Leader Urges Closer Inspections

L. C. Lyon, local auditor, Gulf Refining Company and first vice president of the Credit Association of Western Pennsylvania, addressing the Credo Club in the Chamber of Commerce on "Pickaxe Analysis" stressed the fact that credit men should go below the surface in investigating financial statements of their customers and those applying for credit. He cited numerous cases from his own experience where such an investigation revealed an entirely different condition from that apparent on the statement.

Girl Flier Makes Forced Landing

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—Lack of fuel, strong headwinds and cold forced Miss Eleanor Smith and Capt. William Lancaster, of the Royal Air Force, to make a landing here yesterday. They were flying from Hampton Roads, Va., to Hadley Field, N. J.

FURY OF EAST LIVERPOOL BLAZE

FIRE WIPING OUT EIGHT EAST LIVERPOOL (O.) BUILDINGS

This fire swept eight business establishments and residences yesterday in St. Clair avenue, East Liverpool, O., causing damage estimated at $150,000. Here the fury of the fire is shown in the ruins of the Buckeye Lumber and Building Company's structure.

CITY PLANS DOWNTOWN, NORTH SIDE RIVER WALLS

The construction of three-and-one-half miles of river walls along the downtown and North Side wharfs is being contemplated by the city and plans for this project are being prepared by city engineers, E. K. Morse, consulting engineer, said last night in addressing more than 100 engineers at a meeting of the Civil Section, Engineers' Society of Western Pennsylvania in the William Penn Hotel.

While not at liberty to disclose the exact nature of a report to be submitted soon to the mayor and council, Morse did mention some of the high lights of the report. The report, to be submitted by Charles M. Reppert, chief engineer of the Public Works Department, will favor and recommend the river walls and river-rail loading facilities, Morse said.

CANAL ADJUTANT

Such an improvement likely will force construction of a canal from Pittsburgh to Lake Erie, Morse declared. Such walls would give protection against floods and also serve to reclaim 60 acres of public street area, and in addition, they will afford additional space for parking and a boulevard around the heart of the city.

Reppert was present at the meeting last night and joined in the discussion on that following Morse's address.

This proposed river front improvement is one of the biggest projects ever undertaken in the Pittsburgh district, he said. Conferences will be held with representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and with the Coal Exchange before the report is submitted.

RIVER FREIGHT BOOM

Capt. T. M. Rees, here, also spoke and asked that no change be made that would endanger packet freight and wharf boat needs or that might prohibit handling various classifications of freight.

Vast increases in river freight were predicted by Arthur E. Chockett, instruction bureau manager of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation. He told of how the corporation had shipped the first heavy freight from Pittsburgh to Minneapolis last October entirely by water routes.

Mifflin Township Board Re-Elected

The three commissioners of Mifflin township were re-elected last night at the annual reorganization meet. G. Fred Simmen, John T. Potts and William A. Hickey were renamed to their respective positions of chairman, vice chairman and secretary. Simmen and Hickey are entering their sixth consecutive terms in their respective positions. No change was made in the police department, all officers being reappointed. Harry A. McWhinney was re-elected township solicitor.

Westinghouse Men To Hold Banquet

The Rev. A. K. Travis, of Donora, will be the principal speaker at the twenty-sixth annual banquet of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company Foremen's Association in Kaufmann's dining room Saturday night. Other speakers will be F. A. Merrick, vice president and general manager; E. R. Norris, general works manager, and J. M. Hipple, works manager, and the toastmaster will be C. G. Bunnell, purchasing agent.

Delayed "Richelieu" Premiere Tonight

Production of "Richelieu," the famous play by Sir Edward Bulwer-Lytton begins tonight by the Department of Drama of Carnegie Institute of Technology for a run of seven performances. Public presentation of the play was postponed a week because of the delayed reopening of the institute. Prof. Chester M. Wallace, head of the Department of Drama, will stage the production.

Endurance Plane Chief Attended Pa. School

TWELFTH DIES AT "PEN"

With the death of two more prisoners at the Western Penitentiary yesterday the death list at the penitentiary during the last three weeks has been raised to 12. Most of the deaths are from pneumonia or influenza. Dr. John Fredette, chief surgeon at the prison, declared that the influenza epidemic at the prison was well under control and at present there were only 12 cases of pneumonia and six of influenza in the prison hospital.

J. Howard Webster, 55, of Venango county, and Percy Vandell, 31, a Negro, were the victims yesterday. When the epidemic was at its height, there were at one time 50 or 60 influenza cases and about 20 of the influqnza-pneumonia cases at the prison. The prison population is about 1,400.

Woman Free After 3 Months for Bare Legs

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 9.—(AP.)—When Mrs. Mary Kausekas, 35, of Shenandoah, was called to trial yesterday for being a common nuisance, it was discovered that the charge was based on her going about the streets with bare legs. She had been in jail three months awaiting trial.

Judge R. H. Koch, in charging the jury, said:

"We see bare legs in the chorus and at the beach and they are no nuisance there."

Council has decided to postpone the sale of a vacant fire engine house on Penn avenue, near Fifteenth street, at the request of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

The railroad company is extending its terminal and is negotiating with the city for further improvements that would include the acquisition of property on the south side of Penn avenue to provide space for the widening of the thoroughfare to 120 feet from Eleventh street to about Sixteenth street.

Juror's Hat Stolen; County Refuses $4

In more ways than one, it doesn't pay to be a juror. Such is the opinion of John A. Donatelli, 252 South Rose street, who, while serving as a venireman at small remuneration, suffered the additional misfortune of having his hat stolen from the jurors' cloakroom. Donatelli yesterday billed the county for a modest $4. But the county commissioners ruled that the county was not responsible.

BALKANS BROIL; GREAT ARMIES AT LEASH

King Alexander's coup d'etat in Jugoslavia, giving him dictatorial power in that turbulent kingdom, again has attracted the world's attention to the Balkans. A survey of the small states of the Balkans and Central Europe today indicated that the movement for disarmament had made little impression in that region.

By ALFRED TRYNAUER.

International News Service.

VIENNA, Jan. 9. — The small states of Central Europe and the Balkans are keeping standing armies totaling 1,000,000 soldiers. In addition, they have unofficial armed organizations estimated at from 1,800,000 to 2,000,000 men.

That is the prominent feature of the inventory taken by the Central European economic conference in Vienna of the 1928 developments in this entire region, comprising 10 states—five kingdoms and five republics.

Their population is from 20,000,000 to 30,000,000 less than that of the United States, yet their official and unofficial "peace" forces are almost 30 times bigger than the United States regular army.

These same statistics reveal that, during the "militaristic era" preceding the World War, 30 per cent less men were kept under arms in the same area than today.

MANY TROUBLES BREW

During the past year serious tension developed in many localities. Jugoslavia was at loggerheads with Italy, Bulgaria and Albania. All these troubles, it is claimed, resulted from Italy's attempt to win predominance in the Balkans and to check Jugoslavia, which had similar aspirations.

Poland has had constant strife with Soviet Russia, although the Moscow government now has an offer pending to Poland, Lithuania and Rumania to sign an anti-war treaty similar to the Kellogg pact.

Austria, politically the weakest of all the Central European states, had a conflict with Italy over Italy's treatment of Austrian residents of South Tyrol, which is now Italian in nationality.

CROATIAN PRESS CURBED

VIENNA, Jan. 9.—(INS.)—Five of the biggest Croatian newspapers at Zagreb (Agram), have been suppressed under the Jugo-slavian dictatorship, according to advices from that city today.

An attempt by Croatian deputies to meet in the Diet House at Zagreb was prevented by police. The building was sealed. The Croatian deputies thereupon met secretly, presumably to organize opposition to the new Belgrade government.

Overcoats Disappear, Year's Coldest Day

Selecting the coldest day of the winter in which to steal overcoats, thieves late yesterday provided themselves with warmer clothing at the expense of John G. Cornman, 3701 Parviss street, a draftsman in the City-County Building, and Joseph Clark, 1447 Western avenue, North Side. Cornman was absent from his office, room 301 City-County Building, for a short time. When he returned his overcoat, containing a pair of gloves and keys, was missing.

Coolidges at Party Given by Sargents

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—President and Mrs. Coolidge were guests of honor last night at a dinner at the Willard Hotel given by Attorney General and Mrs. Sargent. Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford, Frank W. Stearns, of Boston, and Gov. and Mrs. William V. Stickney, of Vermont.

Fliers Leave Dayton On Hop to Panama

WRIGHT FIELD, DAYTON, O.—Jan. 9.—(AP.)—Maj. Paul Block and Lieuts. G. C. McDonald and D. J. Canfield hopped off at 10:45 a. m. today in a Fokker transport monoplane which they are to deliver to the air corps at France Field, Panama.

M'CRORY HEIR KILLED IN DEER HUNT

ORLANDO, Fla., Jan. 9.—(AP.)—Van C. McCrory, son and sole heir to the millions of John C. McCrory, chain store operator, was accidentally killed by one of his closest friends during a deer hunt yesterday.

Raymer E. Maguire, Orlando attorney, and a relative by marriage, shot the 32-year-old vice president of the McCrory chain while the two were traveling horseback through the 10,000-acre McCrory estate in Orange county.

Investigating officers reported that the shooting was clearly accidental. McCrory was shot once in the back, and died of hemorrhage of the lungs before medical aid could be obtained.

Get Oil Pump Order

OIL CITY, Pa., Jan. 9—The National Transit Pump and Machine Company, of this city, has received an order from the Asiatic Petroleum Company for nine large steam pumps which will be used in the oil fields of Venezuela.

Weather Conditions.

The temperature rose rapidly everywhere from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic coast, due to the decreasing pressure in the Atlantic coast high, and the rapidly developing low pressure area, which now covers all the Plains States section, with its center over the Panhandle of Texas and Western Oklahoma. Lowest barometer reported was 29.50 inches, at Amarillo, Tex.

The disturbance is producing cloudy weather over the Plains states and the Mississippi Valley states, and rain is falling in most of the Plains states. Rising barometer in the Canadian Northwest and over Montana and North Dakota is causing falling temperature conditions over that section.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling everywhere. The Allegheny and the upper Monongahela pools are frozen over. Stage at Pittsburgh is 12.3 feet. Dam No. 2, 4.2, and Dam No. 6, 8.9. The dams will be raised today.

The winter essential

Sugar-sweet...juice-heavy grapefruit

The pick of the Florida grapefruit crop—that's Seald-Sweet. Look for the name on the fruit and wrapper. Eat and drink grapefruit every day—it builds up the alkaline reserve that prevents colds and other illness. It is an essential element in everybody's diet—and a delightful one as well.

Seald-Sweet FLORIDA Grapefruit

This Seald-Sweet Juice Extractor on sale at hardware, housefurnishing or department stores—gets all the juice out of each Seald-Sweet orange or grapefruit. Exceptional value at $1.00.

Influenza

—kill the germs in nose and throat

COMMON COLDS are the first sign that deadly germs are at work weakening the body's resistance to influenza and more serious respiratory diseases. The most effective protection is to prevent a cold or sore throat from starting by killing the germs in the nose and throat.

To keep the nasal passages free from dangerous infection, proceed according to these directions. Spray the nose and throat night and morning with Zonite—1 to 2 teaspoonfuls to a glass of water. Hold the head well back and continue spraying until you can feel the liquid dripping into the post-nasal cavity.

This mild solution of Zonite will soothe the tender membranes and help them to heal while actually killing the germs in the nasal passages. Zonite does more than retard the growth of harmful germs. It stamps them out—kills them outright. It is a far more powerful germicide than the strongest dilution of even carbolic acid that can be allowed on the body, yet Zonite is absolutely non-poisonous.

Your doctor will commend your use of Zonite in the atomizer or as a gargle and mouthwash, for he knows the necessity of so powerful a germicide to kill the stubborn germs of coughs and colds. He will be glad to have you use it because it is safe.

At all drug stores—30c, 60c and $1. Full directions with every bottle

Note: It is a well known fact that workers in plants making or using chlorine gas have been shown to be practically immune during epidemics of influenza. During the World War a great new antiseptic was discovered having chlorine as its active principle. In a stabilized and electrolytic form this is now sold everywhere under the name Zonite.

The Zonite antiseptic principle is contained also in Zonite Ointment. Rub inside nostrils and beneath nose to relieve the irritation of head colds. Dries quickly.

COUNTY'S BANK FUNDS TOTAL $15,642,823

The county has a balance of $15,642,823 in the bank, County Treasurer John Francies informed the commissioners yesterday. The report on the finances was as of December 31, 1928. A large part of the sum consists of unexpended bond funds. Treasurer Francies also reported the county employes' pension fund balance for the year at $231,391.

On request of Controller Robert G. Woodside, the commissioners authorized the expenditure of $10,000 to retain Ernst & Ernst, consulting accountants, to direct the installation of a new accounting system in all county fee offices. This action is an outcome of the county audit probe.

The commissioners also authorized the expenditure of $5,000 for general improvements at the county jail.

Director Norman F. Brown, of the public works department, was authorized to advertise for bids on material to be used by the department during the year, totaling $640,000.

The commissioners authorized a petition to Quarter Sessions Court asking permission to change the name of Fleming Park road in Stowe, Kennedy, Robinson and Moon townships, to Sam Robison boulevard in honor of Sam Robison, a veteran member of the county planning commission.

Influenza Threatens

Children's coughs and colds are serious. You can't tell by the start of a cold how serious it is going to be. Even doctors and trained nurses cannot distinguish the early stages of flu from a bad cold.

Don't take chances. At the first sign of a cough or cold start with Glessco. Don't wait an hour! Three generations of mothers have put their trust in Glessco. It relieves the cough and breaks a cold right up. It puts a sick, croupy child back on its feet before more serious trouble has a chance to develop.

Every time you break a cold with Glessco you know that's one cold that won't develop into flu! All druggists and most general stores have Glessco.

Avoid colds or "flu" by doing two easy things

Keep your system in good condition—protect your nose and throat

THERE is no use worrying all winter for fear you will catch cold or get "flu". Do the following two things and forget it: First, keep your system in good condition, and, second, keep your nose and throat well protected. The chances are you will avoid contagion.

As a first precaution, many doctors are prescribing Nujol. It is not a laxative or cathartic but a pure, natural substance that helps your system function at all times the way nature intended it to. Like pure water, it is harmless. Physicians agree that, particularly in times of epidemic, purging by laxatives and cathartics is not advisable.

Many doctors are now prescribing Nujol, as in no case does it cause exhaustion or weakening of the system in any way. Take it every night; it will keep you in first class condition. You will have a far better chance to resist colds or "flu" or any diseases that are going the rounds.

As a second safety measure, use Mistol, as it protects the nose and throat against the germs of influenza. Use it every morning, the first thing, before you go out. Again, when you come home at night. Don't be afraid to use it freely; it will do no harm.

Never has colds

Just tilt your head back and apply Mistol with the special dropper which comes with every package, until you feel it trickling down your throat. It will clear your head wonderfully, relieve any inflammation; it will help dry up a running nose. It has a soothing effect on the throat too. Gargle it for a sore throat or a little irritating cough.

The combination treatment of Nujol and Mistol is a double safeguard against colds and influenza. Start this wise twofold precaution now. Put worry out of your mind. Nujol and Mistol are on sale at all druggists.

"OWE NEW HEALTH TO KONJOLA" IS HEARD OVER CITY

Remarkable Restorations to Health Being Accomplished Daily; Happy Hundreds Indorse New Medicine.

It was predicted less than two weeks ago that the people of this city would very quickly find out about the merits of this new medicine, Konjola, that is causing such a sensation in Pittsburgh and vicinity. With each passing day more and more local residents are calling at the McCulloch Drug Store, Penn Ave. and Sixth St., this city, where the Konjola Man is explaining the merits of this medicine, to find out for themselves about the powers of this medicine. Among the many callers are men and women who have already been benefited through its use. The prevailing sentence heard throughout is "I owe my new health to Konjola." It is a medicine containing the juices from 22 roots and herbs, combined with other recognized medical ingredients of the finest quality. It works with the sufferer's own food, restoring a more normal, healthy action to the important functionary organs of the body. Among the vast number of people who voluntarily indorse Konjola is Mrs. Alma E. West, 212 E. Second street, Oil City, Pa. Happy to be free of her health troubles Mrs. West gladly writes:

MRS. ALMA E. WEST

"When I think of three years of suffering from stomach trouble and nervousness being ended by three bottles of Konjola, I fail to find words to express my amazement and my admiration for Konjola. I had tried everything, and found no relief. I was 21 pounds below weight, tired all the time, irritable and totally run down. My appetite failed me utterly and I was restless at night. My husband, who had found Konjola the only solution of his stomach trouble, insisted that I try Konjola, but I was in such a frame of mind that I felt that there was nothing to help me. He finally insisted so vigorously that, more to please him than anything else, I started the Konjola treatment. I had a most agreeable surprise. I began to feel better with the very first bottle, and by the time I had taken three bottles of this astonishing remedy I had regained six pounds and was feeling better than I had for three years. Imagine my joy at being able to eat anything without the terrible after-pains. My nerves have been calmed and I am no longer irritable. I can hardly believe that any medicine could bring about this transformation so quickly, particularly when all other medicines had failed to do the least bit of good."

This is not a rare nor extreme case of the speed and thoroughness with which Konjola works; there are thousands upon thousands of others on the Konjola records.

Konjola is different from any other known remedy in this section. It contains twenty-two juices extracted from natural plants, which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of this Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that has been going on for years. At the same time, many weak and rundown systems have been restored to a new state of health thru this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product, until now, Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this section.

THE KONJOLA MAN

is at the McCULLOCH DRUG STORE, Penn Ave. and Sixth St., Pittsburgh, where he is explaining the merits of this remarkable remedy to all who see him. Free samples given.

5 MEN INDICTED UNDER U. S. AUTO ACT

Walter Nelson and Eugene Hill, who escaped last fall from the Uniontown jail while awaiting removal to Pittsburgh to answer a charge of transporting a stolen automobile in interstate commerce, were indicted Tuesday by the Federal grand jury for alleged violation of the National Vehicle Motor act.

Others indicted under the same act were Sam DeMar, Archie Lauer, alias [illegible] S. Lauer and Alfonse Pacifico.

5 Drown as Plane Plunges Into Ocean

SAINT RAPHAEL, France, Jan 9.—(AP)—Mystery today surrounded the plunge of a French naval plane during a test flight which carried five men with it to their deaths. The machine, a large all-metal tri-motored seaplane, was being tested by Lieut. Compandon, chief tester of the naval depot. He was accompanied by Lieut. Requin and three mechanics. The plane, flying at 300 feet, four miles off the coast, plunged headlong into the sea. The machine was found 15 feet below the surface. The body of Lieut. Requin was recovered.

Three of French Ship Crew of 27 Rescued

SOLLER, Majorca Island, Spain, Jan. 9.—(INS.)—The French steamship, Ville de Paris, reported by wireless today it had picked up three members of the crew of the French steamer, Malakoff, which sank off Majorca last Wednesday night in fog and storm. At the time of the disaster it was said the ship sank so rapidly that only six members of the crew were able to take to the lifeboats. The survivors reported 27 missing.

Jenny Dolly Gains in Fight on Appendicitis

PARIS, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—Jenny Dolly, one of the American Dolly sister dancing pair, has been passing safely through the crisis of an appendicitis attack and an operation, which had been planned, has been postponed until she is thoroughly recovered, probably within two weeks.

FRENCH PRINT EXHIBITION OPENED

An exhibition of contemporary French prints opened at the Department of Fine Arts, Carnegie Institute, yesterday.

It consists of about 100 etchings, lithographs and dry-points. The period covered by the exhibition goes back 40 years, since it includes the artists who have died since 1900.

It presents works by such artists as Albert Besnard, Pierre Bonnard, Georges Braque, Eugene Carriere, Charles Cottet, Andre Dauchez, Hermine David, Edgar Degas, Jean-Louis Forain, Marie Laurencin, Auguste-Louis Lepere, Odilon Redon, Pierre-Auguste Renoir, Steinlen, Toulouse-Lautrec, Utrillo, Vlaminck, Vuillard and Waroquier. Many of these artists are well known in Pittsburgh through paintings they have had in various internationals.

The exhibition comes to the Carnegie Institute under the joint auspices of the French Association for the Expansion and Exchange of Art and the American Federation of Arts. The exhibition will continue through January 31.

Cost Accountants To Meet Tonight

At a dinner at 6:30 tonight in the Fort Pitt Hotel, John A. Reuscher, comptroller, Bank of Pittsburgh, N. A., will address the Pittsburgh Chapter, National Association of Cost Accountants, on "Cost Accounting for Banks." At the chapter's monthly business meeting, which will follow at 8 o'clock, A. E. Oxenreiter will speak on "Merchandise Control for Retail Establishments." J. C. M. White will lead the discussion.

Washington Infantry To Hold Ball Feb. 22

Plans were outlined last night at the monthly meeting of Washington Infantry, in Memorial Hall, for the holding of a military ball in addition to the usual banquet that marks Washington's birthday next month. From plans already under way, the ball will be one of the biggest social events staged by the infantry in many years, committeemen report.

Concert Postponed

The Scotch concert scheduled by the Men's Club of the Second Presbyterian Church, Eighth street, for Friday night, has been postponed owing to the death of a member of the club.

Hollywood Happenings Chronicled Along With News Of Theaters

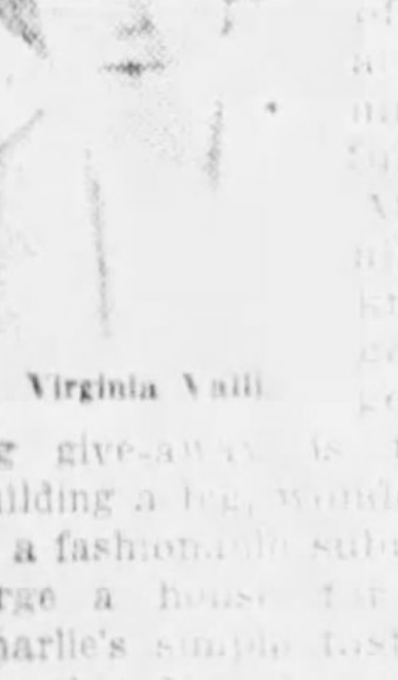
By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1929, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 9.

THOMAS JEFFERSON, who has been signed up for a role in "Buddy" Rogers' new film, comes to the movies with a heritage of more than two centuries of theatrical background. Long generations of Jeffersons have been stage actors, the original member being a Thomas Jefferson who played with David Garrick in London back in 1717. The part of "Rip Van Winkle" has been enacted by members of the family for the past 87 years. This Jefferson's grandfather was the first "Rip" and played it for 20 years. Joseph Jefferson, his father, the greatest of all "Kips," played the role for 45 years, and his son has enacted it for 23 years.



Virginia Vaill

Folks given to the reprehensible—a good word ... of gambling—are making bets that one of the next Hollywood marriages to be heard of will be that of Charlie Farrell and Virginia Vaili. At present there are half-hearted denials when either of the couple are accused. They admit to being "awfully good friends." And of course, all Hollywood knows that they go everywhere together. But the big give-away is that Charlie is building a big, wonderful, new house in a fashionable suburb. It's far too large a house for a bachelor of Charlie's simple tastes, and they do say that Virginia is lending a talented hand in its architecture. So if you're given to betting—here's a tip.

Movies Mourn Actor's Death

WE of the present generation know that Marc McDermott, whose recent death saddened Hollywood, was a big star of the screen full 20 years ago. McDermott, a prominent English actor, came to the movies when they were really in their infancy. As far back as 1912, Marc was with the old Thanhouser Film Company. He, Francis X. Bushman and Maurice Costello ran neck and neck in fan popularity. Marc and Lottie Pickford, Mary's sisters, were its stars. Marc's first screen roles were enacted in an old car barn in the Bronx, New York, where the Edison Company had its studios. He was a fine actor. And a very fine gentleman.

CAMERA RECORD :-: OF ACTIVITIES :-: IN FILMLAND

Ruth Taylor, who was what gentlemen prefer in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," will have a part in "The Wild Party," Clara Bow's first all-talkie.

Gloria Sherman, contest winner as a perfect redhead; Alta Faulkner, most perfect figure, and Virginia Parent, perfect back, whose ankle is measured by Harry Beaumont, director of "Broadway Melody," for "Follies" roles in which all these girls are aspirants.

Betty Compson and Richard Barthelmess as they appear in "Scarlet Seas," story of adventure and mutiny on the bounding main, in which they play opposite each other. They also will be seen together in "Weary River," sound and vocal photoplay.

Alice White

Alice White, who has just jumped to the first rank of First National stars during her first year of stardom, has been eating off the mantelpiece lately as the result of several days' work on a sequence of "Hot Stuff." Despite the title of the picture, much of its action takes place in an ice-skating rink. And Alice isn't so good on ice skates. At least, she wasn't when she started. Now she can cut figure eights with the best of them. But that doesn't help the mantelpiece situation. Incidentally, Louise Fazenda has the role of Alice's Aunt in the film. Can't you imagine Louise on ice skates?

Student Body In Metro Film

THE entire student body of the University of Southern California will appear in Metro's photodrama of college life. At present the picture is called "U. S. C." and the shooting is going to be done right on the campus. Anita Page is to be the heroine, and Doug Fairbanks, Jr., will have an important role. Eddie Nugent, who has skyrocketed to a position of prominence on the Metro lot, has also been selected for a big part.

As soon as Joan Crawford completes "Our Modern Maidens" she will go to work as the feminine star of "The Single Standard," which somehow sounds like another "Flaming Youth" film and fit successor to "Dancing Daughters" and "Modern Maidens."

Joan Crawford

"Lord Byron of Broadway" sounds like a crackerjack title for a Bill Haines film. And it is the name of the picture Bill will do as soon as he finishes work in "The Gob." The new year is sure to be a big one for Billy. Metro is constantly on the lookout for big stories which fit the star's personality. And it is understood there are a dozen or more under consideration.

Fannie Hurst Story as Film

THE brilliant Irishman, Director Herbert Brenon, is almost set to begin shooting his new picture, "Lummox." The conferences with the author of the story, Fannie Hurst, have been concluded, and now Brenon is awaiting the arrival of Joseph M. Schenck in New York to discuss final details.

Two things have been decided definitely. Edna Murphy is to play an important role in the photoplay. And some of the sequences are to be made in New York. There has been no actual selection of an actress to portray the famous "Lummox." Those whose names have been mentioned include Anna Q. Nilsson, Blanche Yurka, the stage player; Belle Bennett, Louise Fazenda and Greta Garbo.

Ben Hecht, it seems, has set the photoplay style for 1929 as he did in 1928. Hecht is the author of "Underworld." The success of this picture brought the deluge of crime and crook films which have filled the theaters. Now Ben has signed to write two originals. Reminiscent of "Underworld," the title of one is "Upper World." Phesumably Hecht's colorful characters will be all dolled up in the soup and fish for this one. Charles MacArthur will bring the wicked old "Barbary Coast" of San Francisco to life with a yarn titled "Gold Coast."

William Penn's Screen Gets Talkies

Al Jolson, in "The Singing Fool" with complete Vitaphone, talk, sound and music score, will signalize the reopening of the William Penn Theater, Federal and Isabella streets, North Side, with a midnight show, Sunday. The production will run throughout the entire week, marking the introduction of talk and sound pictures in that theater.

The theater is closed this week, permitting the Harris Amusement Company, which owns and operates it, to completely renovate, refurnish and redecorate, as well as to insure the perfection of the installation of Vitaphone.

Bakers Pick Bedford

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 9.—(AP.)—Bedford Springs was chosen as the scene of the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Bakers' Association at the conclusion of their mid-winter meeting here. The convention will be held June 10 to 12.

Sound and Talk For Kenyon Screen

The Kenyon Theater will inaugurate a regular program of sound and talking photoplays Monday. The production which will mark this new form of entertainment in that theater will be "The Barker," staring Milton Sills. The Kenyon will continue its policy of changing its bill twice weekly—Mondays and Thursdays.

Vitaphone is the device that will be used in the Kenyon. In addition to feature sound and talk photoplays, short "film-vaudeville" acts will be offered on the sound screen.

"LIL" BOOKED IN COMING BILLS

Tomorrow morning, in the box office of the Alvin, seats go on sale for the one week engagement, beginning next Monday night, of Mae West in the New York success, "Diamond Lil," coming to Pittsburgh with the entire New York cast intact, direct from a year's run on Broadway. Matinees will be given Wednesday and Saturday. The engagement is limited to one week.

Gus Van and Al Schenck, known as the highest-salaried song team on the American stage, will top the Keith-Albee-Orpheum two-a-day vaudeville at the Davis next week. This, the Stanley Company holds, is the most important act the Davis has booked since the inauguration of the new policy Christmas week.

"Echoes of 1929" is coming to the Nixon next with Tommy "Bozo" Snyder as its star, assisted by Sam Green and other entertainers. The engagement is for one week only. This musical comedy has sketches by the star and Tim Blymm, the latter being a composer.

Thurston, the magician, appearing in the Pitt this week, wields a pen as well as a wand. During his vacation last summer he completed his autobiography, which will be published during the winter. He also did some work on his pet hobby—a life of Cagliostro, greatest of all the charlatans of history. For this work Thurston has been collecting material for the last 15 years. Two years ago Thurston published a series of articles on his experience as a wizard.

CLEAN KIDNEYS BY DRINKING LOTS OF WATER

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.

BOULDER DAM APPROVED BY CALIFORNIA

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 9.—By unanimous vote, the California State Legislature has passed a measure which ratified the seven-states Boulder Dam compact, as agreed upon in 1922 at a conference of representatives of the states interested in the Colorado River development.

Significantly, the ratification as explained by Senator Ralph E. Swing, author of the bill passed yesterday, is of a document, negotiations upon which were participated in by Herbert Hoover, then representing the United States.

Heretofore, California had ratified the pact with reservations, but, as Senator Swing pointed out, a pledge was given that the compact would be approved unconditionally by the State Legislature, after the Congress should have passed the Boulder Dam bill.

Therefore, keeping to that assurance given the six other states in the pact, the Legislature acted yesterday.

AGREEMENT IN 1922

The compact is one which was agreed upon in 1922 at a conference of representatives of the seven states, Arizona, California, Colorado, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming, participating.

"It was the suggestion of President-elect Hoover," said Senator Swing, "that there should be an unconditional ratification of the compact."

The Senate, and subsequently the Assembly, passed the ratifying bill under a suspension of the rules and thus forwarded in the day the complete legislative action necessary.

So far as further action is concerned in the other compact states, Arizona and Utah have yet to move in line with the provisions of the Boulder Dam bill itself.

"If later developments require the California Legislature to take other steps," said Senator Swing, "we shall be prepared to move."

Palm Beach '400' To Have Bathing Beauty Contest

PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 9.—(AP.)—Palm Beach plans a bathing beauty contest that will be different. Entrants will be confined to members of the colony's "four hundred." The gallery will be limited to husbands and close friends of the beauties.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Dobyne, of Beverly Farms, Mass., originated the contest which will be held Friday morning around the pool of their Ocean boulevard estate.

Quickest Relief For Colds

He Will Turn Your Ability Into Cash!

Through the Amazing New Secret of "Eye Drinking"

G. E. MARCHAND, known as "The man who makes men rich," has consented to give a few months of his time to showing ambitious men and women how the amazing new discovery, "Eye Drinking," will enable them to advance at once.

New Scientific Principle Revealed

Mr. Marchand, a poor boy, distinguished himself by earning a million dollars before reaching thirty-seven. He gives all credit to this startling discovery and says that any man or woman can get the secrets of making money 22 times faster than by any other method.

Living Models

During his short stay in our city, Mr. Marchand will give Free Public Programs. At each program he will show with moving pictures, demonstrations and living models exactly how to turn your ability into cash—at once.

Come and See For Yourself

How to use the scientific secret that makes men rich.
How to have 100% confidence in yourself.
How to have a money-making personality.
How to advance toward financial independence.
How to express yourself to win.
How to get the highest price for your ability.
How to become popular and powerful.
How to be your own boss and independent in a paying business.

Double Your Income

This is an opportunity of a lifetime, for Mr. Marchand says: "If any man or woman fails to double his or her income after seeing our Free Public Program, they may blame themselves, for we are going to show them exactly how thousands have leaped ahead to quick advancement."

Entirely Free

The programs are entirely free. There is on admission charge and no collection. Come and bring your friends if you are really ambitious. You will have the most profitable evening of your life.

AIRCRAFT AND AIRWAYS PLANS GETTYSBURG LINE

Application has been made to the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission by Aircraft and Airways, Inc., Pittsburgh, to operate a passenger air line between Gettysburg and Pittsburgh.

The company is a subsidiary of Aircraft and Airways of America, Inc., a Delaware corporation. It is the distributor for the Mahoney-Ryan planes in Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York and New Jersey.

Three applications were made to the commission, one to incorporate the company, one for the Gettysburg-Pittsburgh line and the other to conduct a general aerial service from Bettis Field, Pittsburgh. In its application to start the Gettysburg-Pittsburgh line the company says it plans to operate four Mahoney-Ryan [illegible] broughams [illegible] Ford-Stout [illegible] with a [illegible] capacity [illegible] passengers and two pilots. If the [illegible] develops, more planes will be added, the petition says.

The company also plans to [illegible] freight in its planes.

Travel between Pittsburgh and Gettysburg will be [illegible] a day, the petition says, if the company is given permission to operate.

F. Lemoyne Page, of Pittsburgh, is president of the proposed new air line which has a capital stock of [illegible].

Double Funeral for Sisters, 70 and 60

BUTLER, Pa., Jan. 9.—Double funeral services will be held tomorrow for Misses Caroline Kalb, 70, and Anna Barbara Kalb, 60, sisters, who died at their home near [illegible].

They had spent all their lives on the farm where they died. A brother, Charles F. Kalb, of Butler, survives.

Clarksburg Woman Burned to Death

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Jan. 9.—Mrs. [illegible] Moss, [illegible], was burned to death when her clothing caught fire at an open grate at her home at Worth [illegible] and her aged husband, David, was painfully burned in trying to beat out the flames. Mrs. Moss was a daughter of Asa [illegible], the first person born at [illegible].

Oklahoma Plans Monument to Hoover

PAWHUSKA, Okla., Jan. 9.—(AP)—In memory of a visit paid by Herbert Hoover to the territory surrounding Pawhuska during pioneer days, members of the Business and Professional Women's Club plan to erect a monument dedicated to the President-elect, on a site where he did geological work while still a youth.

The shaft will be built from rocks from every county in Oklahoma, and will stand on the spot where Hoover first discovered and named a rock strata known as "Pawhuska lime." The monument will be dedicated March 4.

ADVERTISE YOUR WANTS IN THE SUN-TELEGRAPH

What's on the Air

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

SEVEN of radio's satellites will shine tonight in an "all star" special program from WABC, the new key station of Columbia network. Beginning at 11 o'clock these well known personalities will parade before the microphone—Two Black Crows, Maj. J. Andrew White, Ruth Etting, Phil Baker, Florence Moore, Henry Burbig and Belle Baker.

WABC operates on a wavelength of 309 meters. The program will not be broadcast over the network, it was said last night at WJAS.

CHICAGO OPERA

Pittsburgh stations have some very good programs, full of variety.

We have the Chicago Civic Opera Company with us again over KDKA at 10 o'clock. The production is "Marriage of Figaro," in Italian, with Virgilio Lazzari in the leading role. Scenes of the old South will be conjured by Aunt Jemima at 9:30 o'clock. A violin soloist will make an appearance with the Foresters at 8:30 p. m., while Miss Ethel M. Edwards, coloratura soprano, will give a short recital at 6:15 o'clock. Miss Edwards returned recently from Italy where she studied under the celebrated voic teacher, Oscar Anselmi.

Clarke Moss, tenor, will sing "Beautiful Garden of Prayer," on the gospel song half-hour over WCAE at 7 o'clock.

Richard Crooks, young American tenor, will sing "Old Heidelberg" and three other solos during the Quinby Symphony period at 7:30 p. m. It will be his first radio appearance since his recent operatic and concert invasion of Germany and other European musical centers.

"Sonny Boy," sung by The Revelers, will be a feature of the Palmolive Hour at 9:30 while the Troubadors an hour earlier will offer a medley from the new musical comedy "Hello Daddy."

GUESS WHO?

The WJAS program at 10:30 tonight has us guessing. We are trying to decide who is the "famous movie star" who will debate "talkies" with Herbert Brenon. It seems to be a close secret in the Columbia studios at New York.

A new "hour," called "Daguerrotypes and Silhouettes," will take the air at 9 p. m. Memories of olden days will be recalled by the master of ceremonies. This "hour" replaces the Millionaires.

Morton Downey, whistling tenor, will be heard on the La Palina Smoker at 9:30 o'clock. This should be an excellent program, winding up with Olive Kline singing "Blue Room." Miss Kline and Mr. Downey will sing a duet, "Dear When I Met You."

Music from Wagner's "Nibelungen Ring" will be heard in the Musical Episode at 8 p. m. while the Merrymakers at 8:30 offer a concert "full of vim, vigor and variety."

WAGNER IN BAYREUTH.

King Ludwig, the Mad King of Bavaria, had lifted Wagner from obscurity and had given him as a gift the magnificent Bayreuth Opera House, to be used exclusively and for all time as the home of Wagneria opera alone. In honor of the great composer, whose recognition was now assured, festivities were planned in the opera house itself, and it is these festivitis that will be reproduced and broadcast.

The initial performance of Wagner opera in Bayreuth was the Nibelungen Ring, and it was the night before this performance that the celebrations took place. All society was present, including the King himself, and bits of all the Wagner operas were presented by the singers and musicians of that time.

8:30 P. M.—Merrymakers.

MEMORIES OF OLDEN DAYS.

Memories of olden days will be brought to the minds of all those listening to the hour that Daguerreotypes and Silhouettes will broadcast.

As the master of ceremonies dips into his collection of daguerreotypes, he will bring forth old pictures that will inspire appropriate music as an accompaniment.

The theme song, "Nellie Was a Lady," will be rendered by a male quartet and guitar.

MORTON DOWNEY, TENOR.

Morton Downey, ballad singer extraordinary and star entertainer of the Casanova Night Club in New York, will be the star. He will be assisted by Olive Kline, concert and recording soprano, and by the Rollickers Male Quartet.

CHAMBER MUSIC.

Usually chamber music is rendered by small groups of musicians, such as string quartets, quintets, etc., but on this occasion the large concert orchestra will play a group of selections by the old masters.

10:30 P. M.—Night Club Romance.

FAMOUS MOVIE STAR.

Herbert Brenon, famous movie director, and an attractive young movie star will air their views tonight. Mr. Brenon and the star, who is to be announced, agree on most fundamental problems, but there is just one important point on which they differ, and that is the "talkies." The star is all for them, and Mr. Brenon believes just as strongly that "silent drama" should stay "silent." With a night club as their setting and jazz music as their intermittent background, these two important people in the movie field will argue the subject pro and con and will let the radio audience benefit by their opinions.

Young Announcer To Make Debut As Pianist

One of Pittsburgh's youngest radio announcers will make his debut as an entertainer tonight. Paul J. Miller will appear at KQV at 9:30 o'clock as "Captain of the Keyboard" in a special half hour program. The specialty is described as "a whirlwind display of piano technique in the form of discordant runs, syncopation, solos, and stories." Mr. Miller became one of the first announcers in Pittsburgh when KQV took the air in 1922.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Buds Making Plans for Winter

AFTER things we've anticipated for a long time are over, we usually feel rather "let down." One might expect the debutantes of this season, whose swan song this month will hear, to feel a bit like Cinderella after the clock struck 12. After being the guests of honor at many a gay party and after having one's days filled with social engagements, it will be rather hard for them, haven't you ever thought, to return again to everyday life? Fortunately for the buds just plain every day life for them would be overwhelmingly exciting for a Cinderella.

And then the buds, being resourceful young things, typical of their generation, waste no time sighing that the balls are over, and now are busy planning diversion for the coming months.

In the meantime there're a few more entertainments to be given this month for the buds. Most of these, as I said yesterday, were planned for earlier dates, and postponed because of illness.

I'VE just heard of a new entertainment for Rhoda Gamble, debutante daughter of the William K. Gambles, of Oakmont, who will be honor guest at another party late in the month. Mrs. Ruth Denny of Howe street will entertain at a dinner dance in the Longue Vue Country Club for Rhoda on January 25.

Early that week Kenneth Kimbrough, of Mississippi, will arrive here to be the house guest of the Gambles. On January 29 Mrs. Gamble and Rhoda and Mr. Kimbrough will go to Lexington, Va., to attend a fancy dress ball at Washington-Lee College.

Later they will go to New York, from where Mr. Kimbrough will sail for Europe. Rhoda and her father will leave early in February, I believe, for Florida.

JANE ALLDERDICE, one of the most popular debutantes of the season, will be leaving the city in a few weeks, I daresay. This week she is with her mother, Mrs. Taylor Allderdice, and her sub-deb sister, Nancy, at the Rolling Rock Country Club.

AFTER a gay season Bettie Burger Dunlap, debutante daughter of the Will Knox Dunlaps, will devote her attention to more serious things for a while. She will sail on Friday for Europe. There she'll join some friends and spend the coming six months studying at Sorbonne.

ANOTHER bud, Clara Dorothea Jenkins, daughter of the T. Clifton Jenkinses, of Morewood avenue, will leave today for Bryn Mawr to resume her studies. Her family will be away for February and March, I believe, although Mrs. Jenkins has not yet completed her plans.

THE Daniel M. Clemsons will leave tomorrow for Pasadena, have you heard? They will be at the Hotel Huntington for the winter season.

SO fast do events follow upon each other's heels that before this debutante season is quite over we are hearing plans for the bud season of 1929. And rumor has it that there might be as many as 45 young girls presented to society next year. In that case next year will be the most notable season in years.

I've heard that Margaret Mann, who is studying at the Walnut Hill School at Natick, Mass., and her sister, Eleanor Mann, who is a sophomore at Wellesley College, daughters of Bishop and Mrs. Alexander Mann, may come out next year.

And two more sisters will be presented together—Margaret and Anne Rose, daughters of the Don Roses, of Sewickley, at a tea dance on Friday, June 28.

ONE of yesterday's smaller social affairs was the bridge party which Mrs. Kenneth R. Todd gave in her home in Fair Oaks avenue for her sister, Jane Dermitt, of Montclair, N. J., whose engagement to Oliver Blair, son of Dr. and Mrs. Alexander C. Blair, of Fifth avenue, was announced just after New Year's. Sharing honors with the out-of-town guests was Elizabeth Buchanan, of Denniston avenue, who is to marry Kenneth Edward Niemann on January 26.

MRS. WILLIAM CALLEAR, of Oakmont, will sail on Saturday on the Carinthia for a cruise around Africa with her daughter, Miss Cora Mae Callear. Miss Callear recently returned from a several months' trip to Australia and the South Sea Islands.

MISS CAROL BETTY NIEBAUM, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry John Grant Niebaum, of South Evaline street, has chosen Tuesday, March 12, as the date of her marriage to Paul George Beyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin G. Beyer, of Main street.

History of Piano Told Musical Club

"THE PLACE OF THE PIANO IN MUSICAL HISTORY" was sketched for a large audience of Tuesday Musical Club members yesterday afternoon by Mme. Olga Samaroff, whose activities are now largely confined to the lecture and teaching field. The piano is the one instrument on which an artist can play with complete feeling and without the artistic compromise necessary when accompanied, Mme. Samaroff said. Her talk was illustrated by two of her pupils, Mme. Elly Bontemps, a beautiful Viennese, and Paul Nordoff, an American student, the former playing Bach's D Major Toccata and the latter a prelude, aria and finale by Cesar Franck and Ravel's "Ondine." At the close of the program there was an informal reception for Mme. Samaroff and then the customary tea, for which the hostesses were Mrs. John S. Sloan, Mrs. Lester K. Sprowls, Miss Hattie Wainwright, Mrs. Louis Young, Mrs. Walter Rosenbaum, Mrs. David V. Murdoch, Mrs. Albert T. Morgan and Mrs. Oliver J. Haller.

THE Pittsburgh Drama League has announced its fifth annual amateur players' contest to be held during the week of April 14 in East Liberty Carnegie Library. As before, the Samuel French trophy and $100 will be awarded the group giving the best production of a one-act play, $50 to the second best, $35 to the third, $25 to the fourth and $15 to the fifth. The trophy, which is held by the winning group for one year, becomes the permanent possession of the group which may win it for three successive years. Registration of intention to enter must be made by March 1, and the name of the play and its cast submitted by March 15. The contest, which is open to any non-professional group in any city, is again directed by Mrs. Lane Thompson.

THE annual scholarship bridge of the Pittsburgh Panhellenic Association will be held February 2 in McCrory's dining room. Delta Zeta members are in charge of this year's affair under the chairmanship of Mrs. Lewis K. Stevens. Assisting are these committee heads: Mrs. J. K. Taylor, Miss Marian Taylor, Miss Katherine Morrison and Mrs. E. J. Wilson. The local association is an alumnae organization of 1,245 members which annually gives its scholarships to the University of Pittsburgh, where there are several undergraduate chapters of its sororities.

MRS. H. S. ADAM is hostess for today's meeting of the Bryn Mawr Farms Woman's Club and is being assisted by Mrs. Dayton Ulrey, Mrs. E. R. Sampson, Mrs. J. S. Erickson and Mrs. D. S. Aungst. Mrs. W. Riley Alter, with "The American Home" as her subject, is the speaker.

MISS Thyrsa W. Amos, dean of women, University of Pittsburgh, will address the Uxority Club at its luncheon meeting in the Congress of Clubs tomorrow. Trumpeters from Taylor Allderdice High School will furnish a musical program.

MRS. W. J. KEIM, Mrs. J. C. O'Melia, Mrs. W. Batchelor and Mrs. John Willner were hostesses for yesterday's meeting of the Hilltop Y. M. C. A. Mothers' Club. The musical program was deferred and announcement was made that the Hi-Y dinners would be omitted during January.

TWO speakers are announced for tomorrow's meeting of the Housekeepers' Club in the Congress clubhouse. Miss Elna Smitten, of the American Red Cross, will tell of "First Aid for the Homemaker" and C. H. Lehmann will give a food talk. Mrs. J. C. Armor will be director of program and Mrs. C. H. Brautigan will be hostess. A board meeting is to precede the general session. The Housekeepers will accompany the American home department of the Congress on its trip to the Heinz plant on February 7.

WALTER CHAMBERS, aviation editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, and Mrs. Chambers, addressed the Woman's Club of Oakmont yesterday afternoon. Mr. Chambers described his balloon trip from Bettis Field on Memorial Day, and Mrs. Chambers, her first balloon journey, which was made from Altoona on Labor Day. Mrs. F. F. Canuti was leader for the meeting.

MISS FREDERICA HAYS, of the Travelers' Aid Society, spoke, Miss Norma McAdams gave readings and Dr. Catherine Bartley sang before the child study group of the Dormont Mothers' Club last night. Miss Hays' topic was "The Stranger in the School."

MEMBERS of the Ladies' Auxiliary to Ascalon Commandery, Knights Templar, will meet in Utility Hall, Philadelphia Building, tomorrow afternoon.

NOW— in these NEW CONVENIENT SIZES

Cocoa blended with milk as in your favorite milk chocolate

COCOA blended with milk like your favorite milk chocolate . . . The same smooth, creamy, rich flavored cocoa you have been getting—cocoa, milk and sugar blended like your favorite milk chocolate.

But now you can choose between two new sizes. The Trial Size fits neatly on your emergency shelf. The Family Size is economical for everyday use.

You make Peter's Milk Cocoa right in the cup by adding just boiling water. So you get none of that unpalatable "cooked taste" of boiled or heated milk.

Yet in Peter's you have all the nourishing elements of fresh, rich, full-cream milk. For the milk is already in Peter's—all except the moisture. The boiling water replaces that moisture. At all grocers.

NOBILE WANTED TO GO BACK TO ARCTIC WASTE

Planes Ordered

Meanwhile, I desired Tornberg, Christell and the captain of the ship to join me in my cabin and to decide what to do—to telegraph to Rome for the small sporting airplanes provided with skiis, and meanwhile to provide for the fixing of the skiis to the Finnish trimotor.

I then renewed my request to Tornberg to send a hydroplane that night to the camp, to drop down pemmican and other provisions which I held to be urgent. Immediately after this meeting, I sent the following message to my companions:

"My Dear Ones: Be tranquil. I am here. A Finnish airplane is being fitted with skiis, but as a prudent measure I have asked two or three small airplanes from England. You will receive by means of the Swedes another six batteries, cigarets, a tent, some medicine, powdered milk, 50 kilograms of pemmican, a stove and some combustibles.

"But I hope it will not be necessary to use all these things, because I hope to re-embrace you soon. Have you decided to transport the tent to the camping ground? Perhaps it would be best. Give me news of all and be brave as always. Your

"NOBILE."

My body was on the Citta di Milano, but my spirit was down there with my dear companions. It was as if I had been torn with violence from my family. My heart, which had also been strong during the hardest trials, seemed not to be able to support the grief of this separation.

I was in this state of mind when the captain of the Citta di Milano came to me and said:

"General, the fact that you were the first to leave will probably be criticized. It would be opportune to give some explanation."

I fell from the clouds. Give some explanation? I did not understand. Did the captain of the Citta Di Milano know nothing, therefore, of the order brought by Lundborg?

Stunned

I related how things had happened and a little later I summarized the narrative in a wireless note addressed to the under-secretary of Marine, in Italy. I must confess, however, that, though very surprised at the question asked me, I had not the slightest suspicion of the ignoble story my enemies and those of Italy were raising against me, because I was busy speculating on the accident that had occurred to Lundborg.

But afterward my eyes were opened to the reality, unpleasant as it was, little by little, by some word, some vague phrase.

I was stricken, stunned. It was a sudden atrocious offense. And how could it be, with my past, after all the proofs I had given of my supreme disregard of life and the things dearest to life, that any one dared to discuss, to criticize the reasons that had inspired my action? How could anyone dare to suspect that, by allowing myself to be transported first by Lundborg, I had had the intention of saving myself first and not that of going away to assume the post of command, at a place where alone it was possible to act, to strive to do the utmost for the rescue of my lost companions?

It was indescribable bitterness. It filled me with such a profound disgust for humanity that I desired to return there on the ice. The Finnish airplane being fitted with skiis would soon be ready. I sent for Sarko, the official observer, and learned from him how many persons it could carry. Four, five. Then I should go. As soon as it was ready he would let me know, so I could also go in it; and I should have guided it to the tent, where I would have descended to give place to my companions, and there I should have remained.

In fact, on the 25th of June, the day after my return, I sent the following wireless to my companions of the tent:

"Good, don't be anxious about the fog. I have decided to come and take you with the aeroplane on skiis as soon as it is ready and the weather good. Meanwhile, I have hurried the advance of the Krassin. Greet Lundborg.

Marooned

LIEUT. VIGLIERI

GIUSEPPI BIAGI

Marooned with members of the Nobile expedition in frozen Arctic wastes were Lieut. Viglieri and Giuseppi Biagi, Italian members of the party. Gen. Nobile today continues in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph his story of the ill-fated flight of the Italia.

To return under the tent, on the ice, in the middle of that pack, which had also been my hell for a whole month. This was the idea which obsessed me and held me.

Was it merely a jest—the desire perahps, to throw my scorn in the face of all malignant men, to show them how little had been my wish to come away, that I was disposed to return there, and should return there? No, not this, but a deep instinct to flee from humanity. Down there it was better. If one suffered physically one's self, and still more, perhaps, in seeing one's companions suffer, it was nothing in comparison to this.

There, the enemies were the ice, the fog, the drifting, the wind, the crevices, the bears, but one could face these enemies with serenity of spirit and a calm heart.

Better to Flee

No, it was better to flee, better to return there. I did not feel I had the strength to face the malice of men.

I shut myself in that little cabin of the Citta di Milano, kept prisoner in that small space by a broken arm and leg. And what did it matter if I no longer kept the promise I had made to my companions to watch over them from my natural post of command, from the only post where it was possible for me to act for them? There are some moments when cowardice takes possession of us. My disgust was too strong.

It was impossible to breathe within those four wooden walls. I needed the pure and free air of the pack. Under the little torn and dirty tent I had left my soul, the better part of myself. It was better to return. It would be easier to live.

MUSIC

OLGA SAMAROFF

Tuesday Musical Club

The annual "Artist's Program" was given by the Tuesday Musical Club yesterday afternoon, in the club rooms in Soldiers Memorial Hall. Olga Samaroff, one of America's most distinguished pianists, appeared in the role of lecturer, and much disappointment was felt that she did not play her own illustrations, which she left to two of her very talented disciples.

Mme. Samaroff traced the history of the piano (and piano music) from the invention of the instrument to the present day, giving excerpts from Bach, Cesar Franck and Ravel. As a lecturer she would do well not to consider the audience too well informed, and to play many compositions, familiar perhaps to herself, but not to amateurs in general. Her lecture material is by no means fresh, and it is a pity that this very musical lady has forsaken the concert stage.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

Doctor's Discovery Reduces It Quickly and Dizzy Spells Disappear.

Thousands who have dizzy spells, sleeplessness, nervousness, shortness of breath, pains in the head and impaired energy have been told by physicians or insurance examiners that they have high blood pressure. The serious results are well enough known to check it at once. High blood pressure caused by overtaxing the heart often brings on serious conditions.

Norma reduces high blood pressure. Often one bottle will do it. Many have so testified. It is a doctor's prescription and is much used by women at the changing time of life who usually have blood pressure above normal. Ask for Norma at May Drug Co. or any drug store.

Real Estate

Pittsburgh is on the threshold of its greatest development by reason of cheap transportation on the three rivers, W. T. Mossman of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation told the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board at their noon luncheon yesterday at the William Penn Hotel. He said that water transportation is the thing which assures Pittsburgh its supremacy in the steel industry and guarantees growth and prosperity.

The official report of the Bureau of Building Inspection for 1928 shows 7,061 permits for work valued at $40,254,060, compared with 7,893 permits for $37,139,462 issued in 1927. New homes, however, declined in number and valuation, the year showing 1,749 permits for $13,414,469 compared with 2,044 permits for $15,733,151 in 1927.

The Commonwealth Real Estate Company sold for the Bessie D. Gregg estate to Miss Mary A. Tea the land at 3400-02 Penn avenue, corner of Thirty-fourth street. The buyer owns the building and has occupied the land as tenant for many years.

C. Edward Keck of the Freehold Real Estate Company and James C. Wilson of A. D. Wilson & Co., will attend a meeting of the Pennsylvania Real Estate Association in Harrisburg tomorrow. Mr. Keck is a member of the advisory board of the association, and was president of the association in 1927. Mr. Wilson is vice president of the association.

A three-story brick building containing stores and apartments at Woodstock avenue and Calumet street, Swissvale, has been sold through the Union Real Estate Company for Jacob Hoffman, for $15,000. The lot is 30x90 feet. The same firm sold for Harry Katz to Joseph Goldstein a seven-room brick and shingle house with garage at 2265 Tilbury street, Squirrel Hill. Thomas S. Christo has accepted a position with the Union Real Estate Company and will specialize on investment properties.

Listerine

SORE THROAT
because powerful against germs

SORE throat, and its sequel, a cold, are caused by germs.

You can often escape them by using Listerine full strength at the first symptom. Millions employ it as first aid.

Because, full strength, Listerine is powerful against germs. It kills even the stubborn B. Typhosus (typhoid) germ, for example in 15 seconds. Repeated tests show it. Yet Listerine is so safe you can use it in any body cavity.

When sore throat doesn't yield quickly to Listerine, it is a matter for your doctor to treat.

Write for our great free book, "Personal Hygiene." Address Dept. S. 58, Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo.

Avoid COLDS this way

Countless colds start when germs are carried to the mouth on food. By using Listerine on the hands before every meal, you attack such germs and lessen the risk of cold. Remember this, mothers, when handling baby's food.

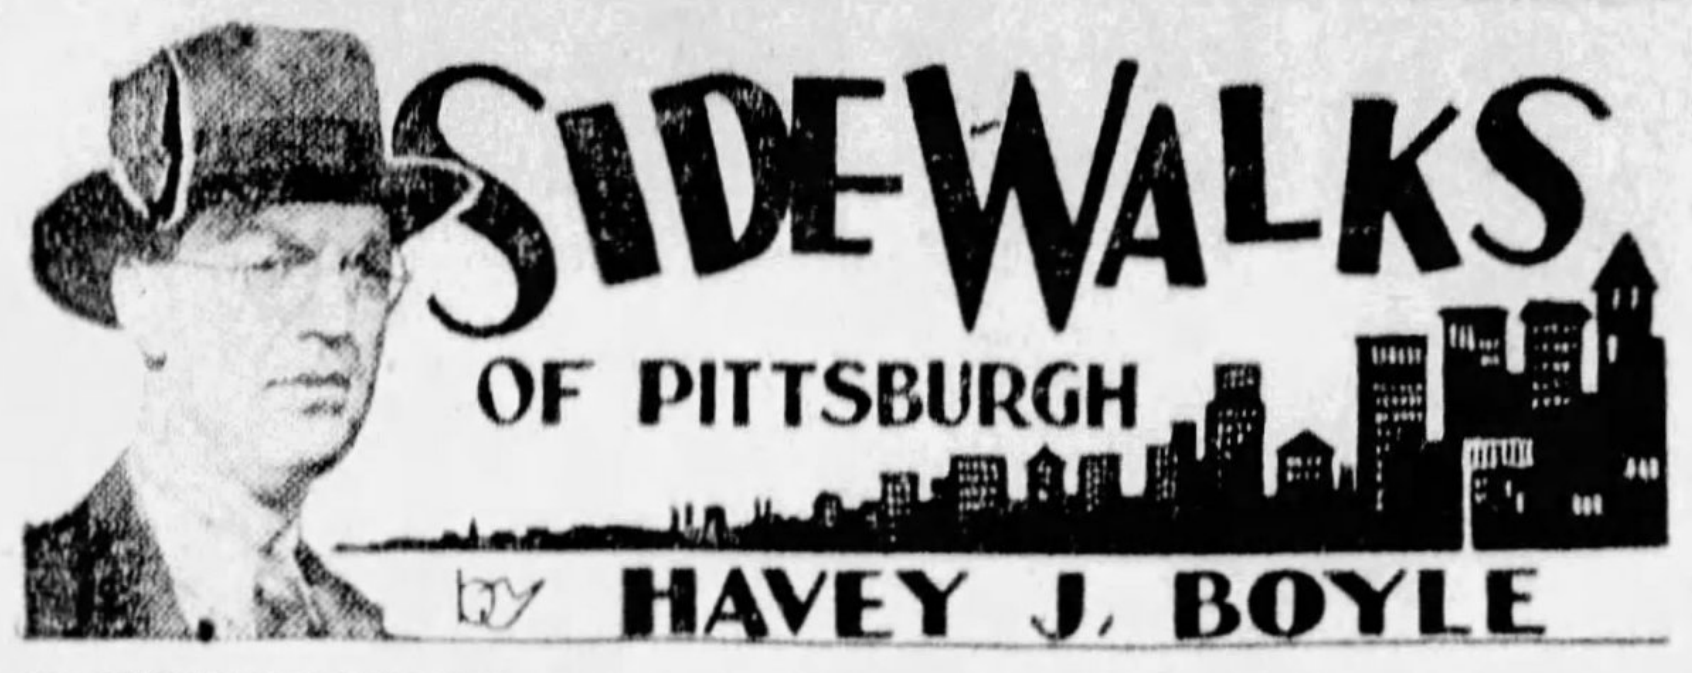
BUS SERVICE FOR BELLEVUE PLANNED



SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

PITTSBURGHERS came to know Tex Rickard, buried today, first at Toledo where he was staging the financial debacle known in boxing history as the Willard-Dempsey bout. A few local boys came to know him when he matched, some years earlier, Frank Moran, the Pittsburgh heavyweight, with the then champion Jess Willard, in New York. It was not until Toledo that the Pittsburgh sporting group came into close contact with the famous promoter. A lot of Pittsburgh men spent more than a week in Toledo prior to the Willard-Dempsey bout and there they got a chance to study Tex.

Eddie Edwards, the North Side caterer, managed to deal himself a hand in the Willard-Dempsey affair by impressing Mr. Rickard with Mr. Edwards' ability to collect tickets. He became a door-tender.

Jim Routley's contact was not so fortunate. Routley, at present assistant chief clerk in the County Commissioners' office, was, during the Toledo affair, a Pittsburgh boxing promoter, and to him many Pittsburgh fans turned to get seats for the Toledo affair. Routley over-estimated his demand, but when he went to turn in his unused tickets he and Bill Davis, a partner, came near visiting the Toledo hoosegow. Financial affairs at Toledo were so mixed up that no promoter, facing a deficit, could afford to be gratified when unused tickets were sent back with a request for a refund.

I HAD some slight contact with the promoter when he was putting on the first Dempsey-Tunney bout in Philadelphia. Such contact quickly developed the observation that while he was a man with many friends he had but few intimates. He had a reserve built on his own well-defined understanding that most of the persons surrounding him were always about to ask a favor, big or little.

Outlines that remain after a series of conversations include a carefulness to spread what hair remained over the head to relieve the baldness that was apparent in spite of such attention. In his speech there was an impediment ever so slight. Young men about him were called "Young Feller," and for "seen" he always said "seed."

PRIOR to that fight in Philadelphia Rickard was a man of a thousand worries. He secretly believed the match was a one-sided affair (with Dempsey an easy victor) but outwardly he professed to believe it was the best match he ever had made. He was not at all certain that troubles of Toledo would not revisit him. No one was more surprised than Rickard when the gate receipts passed a million and climbed to something like $1,600,000.

* * *

Aside from the money involved in his ventures, he stressed the fact that "good people" flocked to his shows. A lady in an evening gown at the ringside was particular balm, and he could name the Governors and United States Senators and multi-millionaires who purchased tickets.

HOW DO YOU DO SENATOR
VERY WELL

ONCE away from the mob he at times excited a sympathy. In spite of his prestige there were times when, summoned to straighten this or that matter, he took off his hat, rested on his cane, and mopped a worried brow in a manner that indicated his job was certainly not all fun. Once, after a day of many vexatious, he looked 10 years older than his late fifties.

* * *

A gambler in Goldfield, the proprietor of the Great Northern in Alaska, an adventurer in the pampas of South America, and a world-famous fight promoter, he leaves a name and exploits behind that rival fantastic fiction.

2 BANKS ELECT IN N. BOROUGHS

Two of the three banks of the North Boroughs elected directors at the annual meetings of stockholders yesterday.

PLAY PLANNED BY Y.M. & W.H.A.

Final dress rehearsals are being held for the musical comedy, "Hip, Hip Away," to be presented next Wednesday night in the Morris Baer Memorial auditorium under the auspices of the physical educational department of the Young Men's and Women's Hebrew Association, Bellefield avenue.

The comedy, written by Beatrice Tolochko, consists of three acts, filled with dancing, singing and comedy that runs throughout the entire production. The cast, composed entirely of members of the Young Men's and Women's Hebrew Association, has been rehearsing for the last six weeks and the finishing touches will be completed by Sunday night when the last dress rehearsal is held in the Morris Baer Memorial auditorium.

The male dancing lead is taken by Harvey Haber, who shares the starring role with Bee Tolochko. Other headliners in the show are Samuel Port, Philip Levy, Helen Cohen, Ann Hirsch, David Herman and Ann Watkins.

PICK ARCHITECT AT MT. LEBANON

Mt. Lebanon municipal officers stayed right at home when it came to selecting an architect for their proposed new municipal building. Without going beyond its own limits it appointed William H. King, Jr., of 210 Martin avenue, Mt. Lebanon, to draw the plans for its new official home. Mr. King has spent practically his entire life in the Pittsburgh district. He is a graduate of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, and later completed his studies at the famous Beaux Arts, in Paris. He has an office in the Magee Building. Work on the new building is not expected to begin for some months.

Fare Robs Cab Driver Of $15 and His Taxi

Henry Schlart, cab driver, of 417 Charles street, Knoxville, was held up by a fare in Buena Vista street near Perrysville avenue and robbed of $15 and his cab. The robber engaged the cab in the lower North Side and ordered Schlart to drive to Buena Vista street. Upon reaching the destination the man stepped out of the cab and at the point of a revolver robbed Schlart.

Church Arranges Communion Services

A service preparatory to communion services Sunday will be held Friday night in Emsworth Presbyterian Church. The Rev. G. Meade Dougherty, pastor of the Ben Avon Methodist Episcopal Church, will be the speaker.

ROAD'S COST PUT UP TO COUNTY

Mt. Lebanon and Baldwin townships will be unable to help finance the cost of improving Elwyn road, the county commissioners were informed yesterday.

A communication to the commissioners declared: First, that the finances of the townships would not permit a sharing of the expense with the county; and, second, that no benefit from the improvement would accrue to the townships, because the road would be merely a connecting link between two sections of the county and city.

The total estimated cost of the improvement is $245,000. The commissioners held the matter over.

HURT BY AUTO, ASKS $25,000

Hammond H. Jamison, 4724 Carson street, struck by an automobile owned by Charles E. Bradford, as he was crossing Sarah street, July 23 last, has brought suit against Bradford who lives in Lincoln way, McKeesport for $25,000 damages for injuries to his body.

He claims that Bradford was negligent in the operation of the car. Jamison says he was cut about the body as well as bruised, his left shoulder also being sprained.

Injured by Truck, Files Damage Suit

Maggie M. West, Virginia and Bluff streets, Homestead Park, wants $25,000 damages from R. H. Cunningham & Son, Grant street, for injuries to her arms, her head and back when run down by a truck owned by the defendant. The accident happened November 6, last, as she was crossing Main street in Mifflin township. She alleges negligence on the part of the driver through her counsel, A. H. Rosenberg.

Council Asks Reason For Number of Poles

Edward G. Lang today will receive from Council a request for the reason for the issuance of so many permits to utility companies to erect poles on both sides of Dallas avenue, between Wilkins avenue and Forbes street. The request was contained in a resolution by John S. Herron.

Fall Causes Death Of East End Woman

Mrs. Caroline Schuhman, 75, of 3481 Beechwood boulevard, died last night in the Homestead Hospital of pneumonia superinduced by injuries suffered December 3 in a fall down the stairs of her home, according to the coroner's report.

'Hubby' Pens Note, Then Leaves, Wife Sues

Her husband left her a note saying that as his wife had told him he was not fit to live with, he was leaving for good, Agnes Ella Schultz, 43, of 856 Beach avenue, testified before Judge Harry H. Rowand in Common Pleas Court in asking a divorce from Joseph Julis Schultz, 48.

Mrs. Schultz denied to the court she had ever told her husband any such thing as written in a note he had left on the living room table. In fact she told the court that during their three years of married life, they never had a quarrel.

The note offered in evidence, stated that Schultz would send his wife a check each week, but since he left, Mrs. Schultz contended only two checks had come to her for $5 each. Schultz is a hotel steward by occupation, while Mrs. Schultz has served as a cashier in downtown restaurants. The couple were married in 1920, the desertion taking place three years later.

BETTY WEAKLAND

BETTY PREACHING THE GOSPEL

This week and for the next two Betty will conduct evangelistic services at First United Brethern Church, Wilkinsburg. Asked of reformation, she raised her Bible and said, "In this can be found the answer to all things; only Jesus has the power to reform."

18TH ZONE VETS HOLD ELECTION

Officers were elected for 1929 Tuesday night at a meeting of the Eighteenth Zone Veterans' Association, composed of men who were inducted into service from the Twenty-second and Twenty-fifth Wards.

The following were chosen: President, Elmer G. Thumm; vice president, Louis Kaufman; secretary, W. J. Gumbert. The officers along with Robert Elrod and Martin Comey were elected directors.

The association has to its credit about $13,000 in the Dollar Savings and Trust Company, awarded by the local courts. The money was raised by North Side residents, prior to the signing of the armistice for the benefit of the soldiers in France. Under the court's decree the money may be used in behalf of needy widows or children of deceased veterans to the extent of $100 for each claim. Four claims have been paid thus far. The officers stand ready to aid needy families of veterans in the zone, they say.

Shop Window Broken And Watches Stolen

Several watches and cigaret lighters were stolen early today from the display window of the Samuel Wolfe jewelry store, 6259 Frankstown avenue, according to police at the Frankstown Avenue Police Station. Robbers shattered the window with a hammer, snatched out the articles of jewelry and escaped in an automobile. The hammer was found in the window. The loot amounted to about $100.

GIRL EXHORTER FOREGOES REFORMS

Twelve-year-old Betty Weakland, of Cleveland, O., the country's youngest evangelist, has come to Pittsburgh to preach the Gospel, and, by her own admission, has naught to do with reformation, its evils or its virtues.

Betty's visit in Pittsburgh will last three weeks during which time she will be the guest of the Rev. and Mrs. Earl C. Weaver, 816 Coal street, Wilkinsburg. She is conducting evangelistic services in the First United Brethern Church, Coal street, of which the Rev. Weaver is pastor. With Betty are her father and mother, the Rev. and Mrs. J. Roy Weakland.

NO REFORMER

Betty was affronted with questions concerning reformation in big cities and evolution—and other such topics which little girls of 12 years usually know nothing about—Betty, wearing her almost contagious smile, raised her Bible, and replied:

"In this can be found the answer to all things; only Jesus has the power to reform."

Having attended a few schools in her travels around the country, Betty is for the most part educated by her private tutor or her father. She shyly adimts a natural distaste for studies.

FOND OF ATHLETICS

City Asked to Buy Playground Site

The General Homes Corporation, Union Trust Building, has submitted to Council an offer to sell to the city for $100,000 about seven acres of land fronting 1,140 feet on Marshall avenue near Brighton road for playground purposes.

Outdoor Radios Classed With Calliopes

Radio loud speakers placed in open store windows which add to the din of streets were placed in the same objectionable category as one-tune calliopes at a meeting of Council yesterday.

The safety committee was discussing an ordinance prohibiting calliopes and other similar "musical" instruments from using the streets when a motion prevailed to defer action until the city solicitor could add an amendment including loud speakers directed toward the sidewalks.

THREE EAST END WILLS FILED

The following wills have been filed for probate in the office of the Register of Wills:

Mrs. Sarah K. Richardson, 531 North Highland avenue, left an estate of $70,000. The Highland avenue residence and the bulk of the estate went to her husband, Frederick Richardson, who was named executor. A sister, Mrs. Christine W. Walsh, received $10,000; David M. Kirk, a brother, $1,000, and $10,000 was distributed among various nephews and nieces. The Industrial Home for Crippled Children received $500.

Mrs. Mary Walsh, 500 Sheridan avenue, left the income of a $10,500 estate to James and Ella Walsh, her brother and sister. Upon their deaths the estate is to go to her grandchildren. The Union Trust Company was named executor.

Thomas J. Egan, 1721 Bluff street, left an estate valued at $10,000 to his three children. He named Edward Egan and Mrs. Anna Tracy executors.

Society to Pray For Missionaries

Prayers for the safety of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Marshall, missionaries in China, will be offered at the monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society, Bellevue Presbyterian Church, tomorrow afternoon in the home of Mrs. John L. Gerber, 1011 California avenue, Avalon. The Mrs. J. H. Sheasley Circle will have charge of the program. Mrs. B. B. Bragdon will lead the devotionals.

BIDDERS TOLD CITY CANNOT SELL PLOT

Many prospective buyers of a city-owned plot of ground on Stanton avenue, Eleventh Ward, will be advised by Council today that the property is not for sale.

The plot was bought by the city with funds from a bond issue approved by the people for an extension of Highland Park, and City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt gave an opinion yesterday that it could not be legally sold.

Council had received numerous offers for the site and on motion of President James F. Malone, the city clerk was instructed to notify all bidders of Waldschmidt's opinion and to return the deposit fees. Offers for the property ranged from $19,000 to $28,000.

Owing to a division of opinion as to Council's power in the matter, Waldschmidt was asked to consider the propriety of going to the Legislature for an interpretation of the city's right to dispose of land acquired through people's bond issues or condemnation proceedings.

5 Driven to Street By North Side Fire

Five persons, three of them children, were driven to the street by smoke from a fire in the basement of their home at 1819 Buena Vista street, North Side, late yesterday. James Talensleg and his wife Anna, with their three children, were those routed. Damage was estimated at $500.

Approval Sought For Plan of Lots

Approval of Pleasant Hill Addition plan of lots as laid out by Bertha M. Dodson in the Twenty-eighth Ward is sought in an ordinance which has been received by Council.

Faulty Flue Causes Fire in Dormont

Dormont Volunteer Fire Department responded to the home of J. W. Ross, 1125 Mississippi avenue for a chimney fire. Slight damage resulted.

APPLICATION ALREADY FILED

Bellevue will have bus service by the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, a subsidiary of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, promptly, if the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission approves the company's application for a certificate of public convenience.

"We have procured a garage on the North Side to be used for the Bellevue busses in conjunction with other needs, and will be ready to start service in a few weeks, if the commission authorizes us to operate," said Thomas W. Noonan, general manager of the motor coach company.

"It will require from three to four weeks to get the coaches after the order is given to the manufacturer. We would need six at the start and more, perhaps, later, as the need developed."

The Pennsylvania Railroad protested the establishing of a bus route at a hearing before the Public Service Commission last September. Briefs were asked for and these were filed. It is expected that a decision will be forthcoming in the near future.

The plans of the coach company as developed at the hearing, were to run busses at 12-minute intervals during the rush hours, and at 15-minute intervals at other times. The route would terminate in Lincoln avenue near Jackson street. The fare would be the same as on other bus lines of the company, 25 cents a single fare, or a strip of nine tickets for $2.

Injured in Crash, Sue for $25,000

Suits were filed in Common Pleas Court by Sankie H. Klooz, wife of H. Fred Klooz, of the Roosevelt Hotel, and Marie S. Klooz, against James Lignore, of McKees Rocks, for $25,000 damages for personal injuries. The defendants' automobile ran into the car which Marie S. Klooz was driving November 27, 1927, hurting the plaintiffs about the head, back and body and legs. The accident occurred on the Manchester Bridge. Sadie H. Klooz claims $15,000 damages and Marie S. Klooz $10,000 through their counsel, Ben Paul Brasley.

Council Told Street Is Found Impassable

Thomas A. Davis, justice of the peace, of 2956 Banksville avenue has forwarded to Council a letter calling attention to the almost impassable condition of Strachan avenue between Hillsdale avenue and Ordinance avenue, Twentieth Ward.

He declared the absence of sidewalks compelled pedestrians to use the roadway, filled with large ruts. Davis requested the placing of cinders for a walk and slag to fill the street openings.

Hits Meter Hole, Sues for $20,000

Daniel McEvoy, who ran into a hole in the road, made by a meter box of the Equitable Gas Company has brought suit against the latter for $20,000 damages, because of injuries to both of his legs. The accident happened in Friday street Shaler township, November 12, last. The hole was filled with water and as McEvoy drove along the road could not see it for that reason. He claims through his counsel that the company was negligent in permitting the obstruction to exist.

EIGHTH GRADE PUPILS OF WOOLSLAIR SCHOOL IN COUNCIL CHAMBER

Pupils of the advanced grades in Pittsburgh's grammar schools learn their lessons in civics in a practical manner. Scarcely a day passes during the school year without a class visiting City Council chambers. Here eighth grade pupils of Woolslair School, Liberty avenue and Fortieth street, with their principal, R. H. Henderson, attend a council meeting.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.

These so-called peace treaties are a funny thing. The Democrats had one years ago, but nobody wanted peace, just because the Democrats suggested it. We have had ten years of peace without any treaty, but now the Republicans want to make it even more peaceful.

You ask 'em, "Does it prevent war?" "No." "Does it prevent peace?" "No." "Is it for anything?" "No." "Is it against anything?" "No."

I think the whole thing is just to find out if we can write.

Yours, WILL.

TWO INDICTED IN SALES OF OPIUM

Two Chinese laundrymen, Yee Lai, of 2029 Fifth avenue, and Sam Wing, of 1643 Fifth avenue, were indicted yesterday by the federal grand jury for alleged violations of the Harrison narcotic act. The bill of complaint against Lai accuses him of selling 380 grains of smoking opium on various dates between November 27 and December 28, and the complaint against Wing alleges sale of 270 grains of smoking opium between November 4 and December 10.

The alleged sales were made to government informants operating under the direction of William T. Duffy, government narcotic agent in charge of the Pittsburgh district. True bills were also returned against Anthony T. Fickle and John Eickelberger, of Johnstown, and Daniel Martorella, of Pittsburgh, who were described by government agents as being "ounce" dealers in narcotics.

Leader of Cleveland Jewry Here Tonight

Rabbi Abraham Nowak, spiritual leader of the Temple on the Heights, Cleveland, will deliver an address today, starting at 8:15 p. m., in the B'nai Israel Synagogue, 327 North Negley avenue. His subject will be "Whither Mankind?"

In addition to a program of instrumental numbers, Mrs. Goodman A. Rose, wife of Rabbi Goodman A. Rose, of the Beth Shalom congregation, Squirrel Hill, will present several vocal selections. The program is being sponsored by the Men's Club of the congregation and will be in charge of I. A. Melnick, its president.

Admission to the lecture is free.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

FLYING TO GLORY

By L. LAMAR MATTHEWS

DIXIE BAIRD walked alone down the ugly side street that lead to her dilapidated home. Suddenly a peculiar whirring sound caused her to glance upward. The next instant an airplane crashed into the top of a giant water oak a few feet away.

Dixie ran toward the wrecked plane and swung herself up into the tree, where it had lodged. The aviator lay still, his body held by the thick branches of the spreading oak. He was not dead as she thought, only stunned, bruised and scratched from the fall. She was sitting in the fork of the limbs with his head in her arms, when the flyer opened his eyes.

"Hello little Angel," he said. "Is this Heaven?"

She laughed in spite of her distress.

There was nothing she could do for the injured man, except sit there and hold him until some one happened along. At last two workmen came by and she called to them for help. They hailed a passing auto and Elliott Drake, the flier, was carried to the hospital. Dixie did not see Drake again for several days, but the sound of his voice, the look in his eyes, the pull of his personality stayed with her, followed her, haunted her.

Then one morning he knocked at her door.

"I came by to thank you," he began. Dixie answered him with a smile. Without a word she tripped down the steps and walked away with Elliott Drake. It seemed to her that sha had been waiting always for just that—to walk away from her hateful surorundings with a man like him.

Most of that day she stood by watching with eyes that danced and glowed while he tinkered with his plane.

"I'll take you up sometime and let you holler through my megaphone at the folks down on the ground," he promised. "Grand!" she replied. "I'll adore it. But why do you carry a meraphone?" "That's how I earn my living," he answered; "It's an old advertising stunt, you know."

One morning Dixie actually climbed into his plane beside Elliott Drake and went flying off into the heavens.

"It's marvelous!" she exulted. "I'd give my heart to learn to fly."

"I might teach you for that consideration," he smiled.

And so it was agreed that Drake would teach Dixie how to pilot a plane.

During the weeks that followed she was usually to be found in the vicinity of the field across the river, where Drake made his landings. She learned rapidly, but he would never allow her to go up alone.

"Some day I'll fly on off to glory," she laughed, but she had no idea that she prophesied the truth.

One Saturday two months after her first lesson in flying, Drake told Dixie that he was going to a fishing camp down the river and expected to remain over the week-end. She was at the landing field when he left and there she stayed all afternoon.

About sun down, Sammy Pool, a neighbor's son, came by driving a truck.

"Take me home, Sammy?" she called.

"Sure, hop in," answered the boy.

She sat swinging her feet from the high seat half-way listening to Sammy's chatter when a terrified figure came bounding through the bushes and leaped on the back of the truck.

"Drive man! Drive fast!" yelled the stranger. "The dam's busted up stream and the bridge'll soon be gone."

Sammy stepped on the gas and the truck shot forward.

"Stop!" shrieked Dixie.

Sammy stopped involuntarily.

"Drive on and spread the alarm," she begged, "I'm going back to the flying field." And off she sped while the man and boy drove on across the river.

There wasn't a soul but the watchman in sight when Dixie reached the landing field.

Drake's plane with his advertising megaphone was in the hanar. Just how she got it out and started on her perilous flight she never knew. But she accomplished it somehow.

All along the river banks were the wooden shacks of colored people, their small farms spread out around their homes. At this time of day they would be out in the yards laughing, shouting, singing, talking—utterly unaware of the danger rushing down upon them. Dixie called to them in words that they could understand. "The dam's busted! Run! Run! Run for the hills!" And because of her courage and daring hundreds of humble folks escaped with their lives.

Elliott Drake was on a tiny island in the middle of the river. He was frying fish over a bed of coals when a voice from the sky startled him.

"That's Dixie!" he exclaimed, straining his eyes to watch the circling plane overhead. What was she saying? Something about a dam.

Jumping into his canoe, he rowed like mad to the river bank and sped through the wood to a high cliff above the stream. He was standing there when the muddy torrent came rushing down upon the little island he had left. He was still there when a fellow-aviator saw him and picked him up.

On went the gallant plane with its brave girl-flier. Miles and miles down the river she flew, shouting her warning to people in danger. Some of them only had time to climb into the tall trees, but they all escaped with their lives.

That night Drake came to see Dixie at her home. She was no longer just a sweet kid, whom he was teaching to fly. She was the girl he loved, the woman he wanted for his wife.

"I told you I'd teach you to fly if you would give me your heart," he said. "Now I've come to collect."

"I gave it to you long ago," she whispered, as he folded her in his arms.

Judge's Overcoat Filled; Filler Arrested

The Christmas eve mystery of Judge Sylvester Snee's missing overcoat, scarf and gloves was solved today when city detectives arrested Andrew Logan, 65, 1824 South Eighteenth street, at the court house. Logan, the detectives said, was wearing the jurist's coat and scarf.

They alleged he entered Judge Snee's chambers December 24, while the judge was on the bench, and walked out with coat, scarf and gloves. The jurist valued his loss at $100.

Logan will have a hearing tomorrow.

300-Pound Tooth, World's Biggest, In Boston

BOSTON, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—The largest tooth in the world, 11 feet two inches long and weighing more than 300 pounds, has just arrived at the Harvard Dental School Museum. It came from the jaw of a mastodon, and scientists estimate that it is more than 50,000 years old.

The tusk was found embedded in the bank of the Porcupine River, a tributary of the Yukon, in Alaska, by Dr. Adelbert Fernald.

PITTSBURGHER ELECTED HEAD OF MOVIE COMPANY

Joseph I. Schnitzer, a son of Pittsburgh, has been elected president of FBO Productions, one of the leading motion picture producing and distributing companies.

Not yet 41, Mr. Schnitzer is one of the veterans of the motion picture business. He was born on Webster avenue on March 4, 1887, and attended the Franklin School, Grant School and later the Ninth Ward School here.

When he left school he was associated with the Pressed Steel Car Company of Pittsburgh and later with the Pittsburgh Provision and Packing Company. Despite his business duties, he found time to play on the Davis A. A. football team, one of the champions of its class. He also managed and played with the Montgomery Athletic Club baseball team.

Foreseeing the tremendous possibilities in motion pictures, he joined the Pittsburgh Calcium Light and Film Company as manager of the Des Moines branch.

SENT TO NEW YORK

In 1912 he went to Indianapolis as manager of the Central Film Service and remained with that organization until it was taken over and merged with the Universal Film Company, after which he became division manager for Universal with headquarters in Indianapolis and subsequently was sent to New York by Universal Film Company as general sales manager.

From 1920 to 1922 he held the post of president of Equity Pictures Corporation, going from Equity to the vice presidency of FBO Productions, Inc., in 1922. He was made senior vice president of FBO in 1927, and on December 3 was elected president.

All the members of Mr. Schnitzer's family are residents of Pittsburgh. His mother and his sister, Mrs. M. N. Landy, live at 3006 Beechwood boulevard. His brother, A. H. Schnitzer, is local manager of the FBO branch in Pittsburgh. Other sisters, Mrs. Cleve Adams and Mrs. A. Lefkowitz, also live in Pittsburgh. Before his death, his father was a representative of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in the Pittsburgh district.

GOOD ADVICE ON AVOIDING INFLUENZA GIVEN BY HEALTH OFFICIALS

Plenty of sleep, wholesome food, fresh air, regular exercise—these are strongly recommended by health officials in the many sections of the country where influenza is prevalent. It is most important now that every precaution be taken to prevent the spread of the disease.

If possible keep away from crowded places, and especially from persons who are sneezing, sniffling and coughing. Use plenty of water, inside and out. Wash regularly before eating. Keep your hands away from your face at all times. If you have a cold take the best care of it and consult your doctor.

Many people have made it a practice to use Vapex regularly, a drop on a folded handkerchief every morning. This is of great assistance in avoiding colds and kindred ailments. Breathe the Vapex vapor frequently during the day, especially while mingling with crowds. The odor is pleasant and refreshing. The strength of one application lasts for an entire day, even increases for several hours. Buy a bottle of Vapex from your druggist, in the little square bottle and the package with the green triangle.

Blood in Health and Disease

FROM a careful study of hundreds of cases of the most varying character it would appear that a basic healing principle of the most far-reaching importance has been discovered.

A principle that takes nature into partnership, gives her the elements she needs to work with and enables her to carry to the broken-down tissues of an ailing body just the elements she needs in order to restore health.

People all over Pittsburgh are telling their own story how they were rescued from Anemia, High Blood Pressure, Faulty Metabolism, Bright's Disease, Rheumatism, Hardening of the Arteries, Neuritis and the supposedly incurable diseases, all of which sounds lik magic, yet these astonishing benefits have been clearly demonstrated.

The curative force and power lies within the body, and you can be made well and free from pain and disease if your Blood Cells are normal and clean.

Ancient Wine

THE oldest wine in the world is on exhibition at Speyer, Germany. It is Roman wine, recently dug up, and is estimated to be 1,600 years old. It is partly solidified, for Romans put honey in their wine.

"NANCY DEANE" by ROY L. FOLEY

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Nancy Deane, golden haired, dark eyed, has lived all her life with the O'Days in Washington, Pa.; for two years she has worked in the station lunch room to help pay the rent. There she meets John Blair who invites her to go to the circus. Nancy loses her job and learns she is really the granddaughter of the rich Montgomery Deane in Pittsburgh and that her mother, Julie Abbott, a circus performer, is coming to town and wants to see her. Nancy goes to the show with John and sees Julie drop from a trapeze; she rushes wildly to the hospital where her mother dies, telling her she loved her father. Nancy suddenly decided to go to Pittsburgh and Blair, whom she has grown to admire, gives her a letter to a college friend who runs the "Wear-Ever Mills." On the train she meets Ginger Varden, a model, who takes her to her own boarding house and invites her to share her room. Nancy is shocked at its disorder and doesn't know quite what to think of her new companion.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"THE Carmondy," Ginger told Nancy, was a rooming house in the east end of town. And from conversation between Ginger and Jerry she learned that it was run by a Mrs. Carmondy. The rooms were "reasonable," they told her, but its chief asset was the fact that Mrs. Carmondy could mind her own business.

She decided to take a chance on Mrs. Carmondy's rooming house. What impulse tempted her to make the decision she could not explain, except she was tense with the spirit of adventure.

She was absolutely on her own. She was thirsty for life and excitement. Here was a girl beside her, not much older than Nancy herself, who seemed to be ever so sure of herself, gay, bubbling with the joy of living, for all her complaints about her sunburn, unafraid.

And here was a youth named Jerry, good looking, well dressed, owning a fine car. He was so sure of himself.

"Those golden curls of yours would straighten right out in despair." Nancy repeated his words in her mind.

She opened her purse, took out the address of the Blue Triangle that was written on a slip of paper in John Blair's very decided handwriting, and slowly tore it into bits.

If Mrs. Carmondy was "broad-minded," the mind must be in proportion to all her other dimensions, Nancy thought. When the trio, Ginger, Nancy and Jerry, stepped from a taxi in front of the big, dingy brick rooming house on Biddle street, Nancy's heart thumped.

"Whatever am I doing?" she thought. "Am I crazy?"

Mrs. Carmondy had just come into the front hall to turn on one of the dust covered electric light bulbs, as they appeared on the porch.

"I got a new roomer for you," Ginger said. "Miss O'Day, I want to acquaint you with Mrs. Carmondy."

Nancy's "How do you do, Mrs. Carmondy," was uttered so faintly that she hardly heard herself. She gulped, and tried to smile. She wanted to scream and run from this house and these strange people.

"Sorry, dearie, but there ain't one room vacant just now, and I won't have an empty 'til the day after tomorrow when Mr. Schmaltz goes."

Nancy breathed more easily again. She was just going to pick up her baggage, glad to escape into the dark street, when Ginger spoke up.

"What do you say if Nancy stays with me for a couple a' night 'till Schmaltz goes? Eh, kiddo, what say?"

The next moment Nancy found herself following Ginger to the third floor and into a room with a sloping ceiling. When Ginger threw open the door a wave of stale, hot perfume laden air struck Nancy in the face. She sized up the room at a glance.

The one drawer of an imitation bird's eye maple dressing table was half open, its contents tumbling out. A half empty box of melted chocolates, a messy looking box of talcum powder, bottles, lotions, rainbow colored perfumes, a Kewpie doll with red hair and a pink paper dress—all these were littered about.

Jerry Durant, with little beads of perspiration running down his face and neck, wilting the collar of his pale green silk shirt, let Ginger's heavy and expensive looking suitcase, and Nancy's pitifully light and cheap one, drop to the floor.

"Lord, girl! it's good to see you back in the old place again," he said to Ginger, "the old town's been a morgue without you."

As he stood there, wiping his forehead with a green bordered handkerchief, a picture of John Blair flashed through Nancy's mind. She couldn't help contrast these two men, both of whom she had come to know in such a sudden manner.

Jerry was sleek haired with a pink skin. In his light suit, tailored so perfectly, he looked like a clothes ad. John Blair never did. John was given to tweed suits and somehow he never looked "slicked up." No, he didn't have the style of Jerry.

Nancy rushed to the window and flung it open. She was stifling.

CHAPTER VI.

"MY goodness, when does this party start?" Nancy was saying to Ginger several hours later.

The hands of Ginger's rather silly looking little watch, its face framed with sapphires, were pointing to five minutes after ten. The watch was lying on the dresser, a sprinkle of pink powder across its face. Nancy wondered how a girl living in such a dingy, ill-kept room could afford a watch like that.

"Lawsy, it's early yet," yawned Ginger. She was lying on the bed in a rose-colored satin dressing gown elaborately trimmed with ostrich feathers, buffing her already too pink finger nails, holding her hands out every little while to study the effect.

"The boys won't be here for a half hour yet. It always takes them to 10:30 to dig up something fit to drink," she said, scrutinizing the touch of sunburn that she imagined was on her forearms.

"Boys, what boys?"

"Why, THE boys, silly."

She came over and put her arms around Nancy.

"The boys," she repeated, "Jerry for me, and Vic for you. You'll love Vic. All the girls are mad about him. Thought I'd surprise you so I made the date for you on the phone downstairs. Vic's wild about blondes. He just won't look at a brunette. That lets me out or I'd never be passing him over on a silver platter this way. You can bet your last cookie on that.

"Vic always says he likes a girl to be sort of innocent like. And she simply must be blonde. He says he likes to teach 'em things and then watch their eyes open.

"So just pretend you're a demure little golden head, sweet one. But willing to learn, understand. And you'll go over big. With a capital B. Vic's a sweet kid."

"But, Ginger, I couldn't think of—"

"Of course you can think of—whatever you were going to say. I repeat, Vic's a sweet kid and I just wish I was blonde enough to make him love me the way he's going to fall for you, my dear."

Ginger started putting on her dress. It was a powder blue, very short and very tight, very revealing. All the soft curves of her graceful body were accentuated by it. The skirt didn't quite touch her knees. The slippers, then, with extremely high French heels. She put on a long chain of pearl beads, knotted them at her throat and then twisted them about so that the knot was at the back of her neck and the beads hung down her back.

It was a new way of wearing beads to Nancy. She thought it somewhat extreme. A few more applications of powder, another smear of carmine on her lips, already made into a cupid's bow that would make Constance Talmadge sigh with envy, and Ginger was ready to receive her callers.

She had timed herself almost to the minute.

There was a loud knock at the door, and then, without waiting for Ginger, it was flung open and there stood Jerry Durant. His face was flushed even more than in the afternoon. Behind him was the man whom Nancy guessed was Victor Fleming. Both came into the room as though it were a common occurrence. For the twentieth time that day Nancy received a new kind of shock. But she knew enough not to protest.

"I certainly am a country girl," she told herself. "I guess I must have been miles behind the procession up there with Mud and [illegible]."

She felt as though she were an old-fashioned has-been who had let the world go by.

"Vic, I want to make you acquainted with my new girl friend, Nancy O'Day."

If she only wouldn't say "I want to make you acquainted," was the thought that came to Nancy.

Ginger put her manicured hand in his and led Vic across the crowded room to Nancy.

"Mighty glad to meet you," said Victor.

He was big and well dressed. He held out his hand, and Nancy knew he shouldn't have done that. Didn't he know that men don't offer their hands when introduced to women? Evidently not. Or else he didn't care.

Up in the Clouds

By Madge Geyer

Madge Geyer

THAT'S an expression you hear a lot nowadays! It's just as much of an accepted fact as walking on solid ground, now that the aviators dot the sky on their daring journeys. And many a girl walking down the paved street is really "up in the clouds" too. In more ways than one. For her heart follows her Beloved who is piloting his plane somewhere up there, and she wishes she could be sitting on one of the billowy bits of fluff that dot the sky and follow him on his lonesome way.

She's up in the clouds for sheer happiness in her love! And her thoughts ever travel the cloud route to be with her beloved constantly.

So when you hear that "someone's up in the clouds" you can know that Dan has selected an aviator sweetheart for her, and wish her happiness and luck on her perilous though happy journey.

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Decides to Investigate Mary's Expenditures

AS I picked up Mary Harrison's bank book and folding checkbook from the hall floor where they had dropped without her knowledge, I opened my lips to call her and tell her of her loss. Then with a sudden flash of memory urging me to an action which in any other circumstances I would have abhorred, I hushed the call and opening my own bag slipped the small leather books inside it.

I was not quite sure whether or not I really meant to examine them later, but the conviction was strong upon me that I must not shut myself away from the opportunity to look at them if I later chose to do so.

For most vividly was I recalling a time when the lack of espionage upon Dicky's young niece almost had resulted in a tragedy for her. Intuitively, I felt that there was no Jack Leslie in her life now, nor anything as menacing as that episode when she, unknown to us all, was the celebrated masked dancer at one of Broadway's most widely known night clubs. I believed that her remorse and repentance at that time had been genuine and that she was too thankful for the providence which had kept her from Jack Leslie's grasp, and successfully veiled her identity from a curious world, ever to deceive us like that again.

But I knew that however repugnant the task, I must find out why the girl with a liberal allowance was stinting herself so markedly in the matter of clothing. Her mother was dead, her aunt, who was her guardian, was in a distant city, her grandmother was too old and feeble to deal with such a question even if I could be cruel enough to trouble her with it. I was the woman nearest to her in relationship—and I hoped in affection.

I could not help a shamed and humiliated feeling, however, when, after we were seated in the train, Mary opened her bag, and after the first careless glance, searched it hurriedly, with a face reflecting lively dismay.

"What's the matter, Kit cat," her uncle asked from the other side of the car. "Lost your letter of credit?"

Mary forced a metallic little laugh.

"No, nothing so valuable," she said. "But I have dropped a note book with some addresses and notes I couldn't replace."

She adroitly was telling part of the truth, I noted, for I was familiar with the flat leather case fitting snugly into her bag which held bank book, folding check book, address book and stamp case. I had had occasion before to pay tribute to her histrionic powers, and I mentally hailed her again as she turned to me with a pretty apologetic air.

"Will it be too much trouble if I telephone Katie as soon as we get into the city?" she asked. "I'd hate to lose that note book, and it must be in the house, for I've had tight hold of my bag ever since we left the house."

"Of course you may telephone her," I said warmly, feeling the most arrant hypocrite. To my astonishment Dickey put in a demurrer.

"I'll telephone Katie," he said. "You girls will never get started if you stop for everything. I'll just tell her to look everywhere for what—that flat leather case I've seen in your bag with your different note and address books in it?"

"Yes," Mary said tremulously.

But I kept my face carefully averted from Dicky. With the clairvoyance which long association brings, I knew that he had guessed the whereabouts of the case—he had given it to her on the preceding Christmas—and was abetting me in keeping it in custody. But whether or not he approved of my action I had no means of knowing and my cheeks burned as I imagined the things he might be thinking of me.

It seemed to me that the journey to the city would never hold any other topic than Mary's missing note book. Marion recalled that the purse had been open when Mary came into the dining room, and that I had closed it for her.

"It must have dropped in the hall just before you came into the dining room," she said, and that was the decision to which after much idle discussion they all came, while I was miserably conscious that I must not open my own bag where Mary could possibly see its contents.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

Why Wives Elope With Their Chauffeurs.

A man can be so adorably wholesome and kissable looking, just by a turn of the wrist! But the average man won't turn that wrist, except under the pressure of love, necessity, or his wife's jiu jitsu.

It seldom occurs to a man, after marriage, that while his good sense and flawless judgment may impress his wife, it was his good grooming and flawless manners that probably won her.

A woman's love, like a cat, has nine lives; but every time a man shocks her aesthetic sensibilities or offends her artistic taste, it loses one of them.

More marital love has been killed by a man's secret passion for onions, than by all the rest of the seven deadly sins put together.

It takes nine beauty doctors to make the average woman sufficiently attractive to hold a man's love; but a man is supposed to hold a woman's love entirely by beauties of the mind.

The first time she sees her darling in his new art pajamas, with his chin covered with shaving lather and his Adam's apple working, the average bride has to close her eyes, clutch her wedding ring and remind herself how GOOD he is.

The convict hair-cut above the ears is the mark of a married man. A bachelor wants a trim that is becoming, but a married man wants one that will LAST!

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Mode of Living May Increase Pulse Rate

DR. COPELAND

IF YOU live to be 70, your heart will beat two and a half billion times, almost 40 million times a year. I can't tell you offhand what quantity of fluid is pumped during a lifetime. But it is a great river.

How can the heart keep on, hour after hour, day after day? Why doesn't it break down from sheer weariness?

From early times it has been customary to divide the day into three equal parts: Eight hours for labor, eight hours for recreation, eight hours for sleep and refreshment.

This is the pretty general acceptance of the idea that eight hours of work is the outside limit of what should be undertaken. If you were to stick to this rule it is probable your life would be prolonged.

With this division of time in mind, what does the heart do? It is interesting to find that this organ works almost exactly one-third of the time, resting the other two-thirds.

I stand amazed at the perfection of nature's works. It is impossible for man to suggest improvements in the machinery of the body which is properly used.

It isn't fair to the heart for you to live such a life that its pulsation is materially above the average of that 70 beats per minute. At the average rate, the heart has ample time between pulsations to rebuild its tissues and to renew its energy.

Suppose there is some physical condition that results in a constant rate 100 or 105 per minute? You can see that this reduces the rest period very materially. Instead of working a third of the time, it is increased fully one-half.

Comparing this to normal labor it is the same as a man working 12 hours out of the 24.

If the pulsations are doubled the average number, tearing along at the rate of 140 per minute, then the poor old heart works twice as much as it rests. This is the same as if the man at manual labor worked 18 hours out of 24.

You know the man is not born who can work day in and day out, year in and year out, under such pressure. Neither can a heart continue forever to work at such speed.

Rapid pulse is rather a common symptom. Please bear in mind that it may be caused by some condition entirely apart from the mechanism of the heart itself. It is the nervous system that is most likely to be out of order. In consequence, the brake is off the heart, control of its speed and regularity is temporarily lost.

Of course the rate of 70 beats, which I have mentioned, is the average rate of heart pulsation. It may be 80 or 85 per minute and yet be regarded as "normal." It may be as low as 60 or even lower, and not be a sign of disease.

If your heart suddenly develops rapid action or, in any event, if it beats so fast as to disturb or worry you, talk with your doctor about it. He will advise you and, if need be, prescribe for your ailment.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Thursday, January 10

WITH the cosmical nature of the stellar operations in the ascendant today, it is probable that there will be a tendency to dream, speculate and plan rather than to work constructively. The mind will be keen and alert, dwelling on metaphysical problems, scientific inventions, original thought or immersed in nature's finer operations. Literary pursuits of every kind should flourish, also publishing and scientific inventions. At the same time there is hint of some secret grievance.

Those whose birthday it is may find it a year of planning, scheming and preparing for future operations rather than for real constructive work externally expressed. The mind will be high pitched to invention, research and speculative thought, scientific, metaphysical and literary. All these phases should flourish, but there may be some secret anxiety.

A child born on this day may have a mind attuned to high projects and purposes, being keen, alert, original and inventive. It should succeed in science, invention or literature.

Dreams full oft are found for real events the forms and shadows.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

For the Matinee

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

You can, and I know you will help me settle a dispute in which a friend and I have different views. I was invited to a matinee recently and donned sport clothes, after consulting the book of etiquette. My friend insists that it was not the proper thing to wear even to a matinee. Will you be good enough to tell me whether or not I am in the wrong?

M. A. B.

YOUR friend is right in maintaining that you would have been more appropriately dressed for the matinee if you had worn formal day clothes—an ensemble such as is appropriate for town wear, or a suit, or a dress and coat. (I am interested to know why you wore sports clothes to a matinee in town, after you "consulted the book of etiquette.")

Wear Afternoon Costume

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I would greatly appreciate a little advice as to the dress of a bride when she is to be remarried. I will be married four months very shortly, and as I was not married in church, my husband and I consider being remarried. What do you think of a pink veil and wedding dress for the bride?

READER.

FOR such an occasion either an afternoon dress and coat or a suit, an ensemble, would be better than the costume that you suggest.

FIRST HEARINGS IN GRAFT PROBE CASES NEXT WEEK

The first of the preliminary hearings for the 46 alleged grafters and racketeers, who were arrested on informations sworn out by District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner, will be held next Wednesday before Alderman Thomas Jones, of the South Side. County detectives are busy arranging their witnesses for these hearings.

The defendants were those recommended for indictment by the probing grand jury but the district attorney decided to bring them before an alderman and have them arraigned in the usual fashion, rather than have another grand jury indict them.

Assistant District Attorney George F. P. Langfitt will prosecute the cases and present the evidence against the accused men. A number of persons accused of conducting lotteries will be among the first arraigned. After the lottery cases have been heard the liquor cases will be started.

It is expected more than 100 witnesses in the cases will be brought before Alderman Jones. Their testimony will be similar to that presented before the grand jury which resulted in the jury's recommendations.

TOWN HALL SITE MEETING

The ways and means committee of representative downtown business interests and property holders, considering the advisability of a downtown location for Pittsburgh's new town hall, will meet tomorrow at a luncheon in the William Penn Hotel.

The committee expects to hear a report on a proposal of employing an engineer to make a study of the whole question, with particular reference to the business section site, and to prepare a case for presentation to the public.

The meeting, called by James C. Chaplin, committee chairman, will be attended by W. M. Jacoby, Joseph Dilworth, W. D. George, E. C. Eppley, T. C. Jenkins and Walter Rosenbaum.

Sick Man Rescued In 9th St. Hotel Fire

A sick man was carried to safety early today by firemen who fought a fire in the Bridge Hotel, 107 Ninth street. The fire spread through the first floor, and smoke filled the bedroom of Joseph Kuhn, 46, confined to his bed on the third floor. He was carried to the street and taken to another hotel.

An overheated stove in a restaurant on the first floor is thought to have caused the fire, which resulted in $1,000 damage. Large crowds returning from theaters watched the firemen fight the blaze.

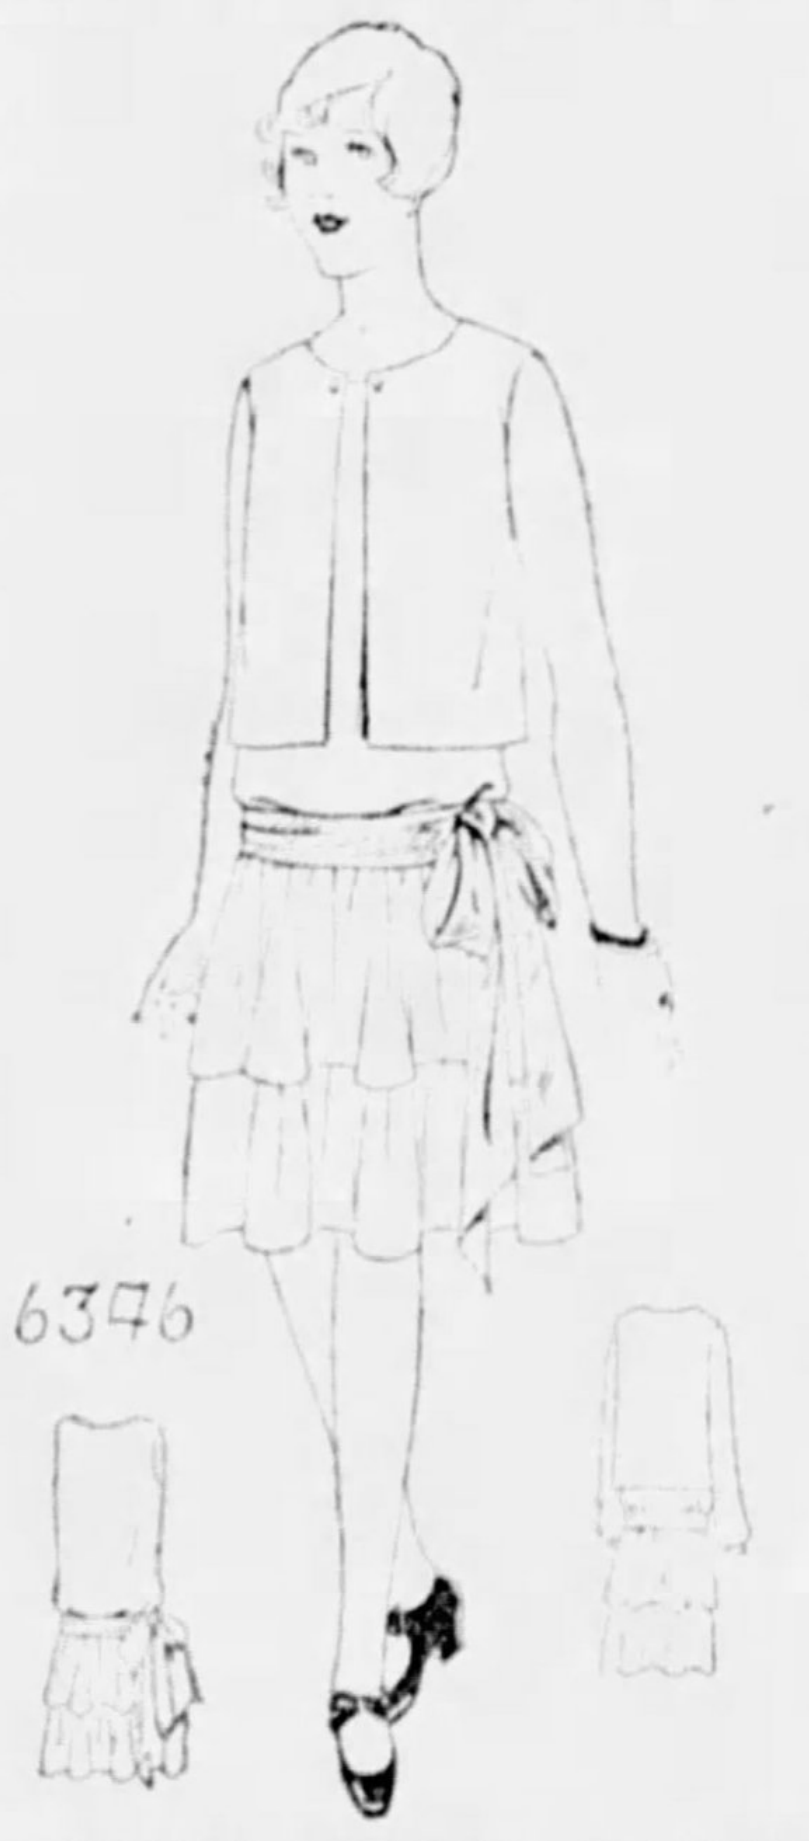
The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern



A CHARMING DANCE OR PARTY FROCK FOR THE GROWING GIRL.

This model may be made with or without the sleeves or the bolero. As pictured white crepe de chine was used, with a sash of satin ribbon for decoration. The waist blouses softly above the flounced skirt. The flounces are mounted on an under section. Velvet and crepe could be combined in this dress, using the velvet for the flounces and bolero, and crepe for the waist and sash, and also for the sleeves if they are desired. Chiffon in the new shade or in white, also taffeta is suggested for this pretty frock.

The pattern is cut in four sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. To make the dress with sleeves and bolero will require 4½ yards of 39-inch material for a 12-year size. If made without sleeves and bolero 3¼ yards will be required. If made without sleeves or without bolero 3⅞ yards will be required. The foundation skirt may be of lining for which ¾ yard is required. A ribbon sash and girdle as illustrated will require 2⅝ yards of wide ribbon.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

AGED BUTCHER FOUND FROZEN

Thirty-six hours after he is believed to have fallen and died of exposure, the body of Louis Gersbrein, 61, retired butcher, was found at noon today on a hillside within 500 yards of his home, 1347 Romanoff street.

The frozen corpse was noticed by John Kleer, 65, of Harver street, who notified police. In the dead man's pockets was found $19.53. His face was cut and bruised, evidently from falling, but there was no evidence of foul play, deputy coroners said.

Mrs. Barbara Gersbrein, wife of the dead man, told police her husband left home Monday night to pay his dues at the Knights of St. George, Rhine street, apparently taking a short cut over a hill. When he failed to return, she thought he was at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Mary Witch, 1805 Rhine street, she said.

What Shall I Do for Gray Hair?

By ALICE STRAWN

I am often asked for a good way to restore gray, faded or streaked hair. While there are many preparations on the market for the purpose, I know of nothing better than a mixture of good old sage tea and sulphur. You can either prepare the mixture at home yourself, or as most women prefer, buy it already prepared and ready to use.

The correct recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, may be had in Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur Compound. All druggists carry it and since the cost is only 75c a bottle, there is really no need for any woman to go to the bother of preparing it herself. You would be surprised if you knew the number of men and women who employ Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur because its use is undetectable.

You simply moisten a comb or a soft brush with it and draw it through your hair, one small strand at a time. By morning the gray disappears and another application or two sees your hair beautifully and evenly restored to its full original color. There is no suggestion of that hard, dyed look that repels fastidious women. I advise any woman—or man—whose hair is turning gray to try Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur.

No Rheumatism Now!

ARE you one of those unfortunates who suffer with pains in your muscles and joints, commonly called rheumatism, making you miserable, less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep?

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.?

S.S.S. is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Get the larger size. It is more economical.

"After suffering several years, six bottles of S.S.S. completely relieved me of rheumatism. It also cleared up a skin eruption and gave me a good appetite. I think S.S.S. is a wonderful medicine."

WHEN FLU THREATENS

Never Let a Cough or Cold Hang On

Break a cold the first day and it is unlikely that you will contract pneumonia or influenza. "Common" colds are dangerous. When flu threatens it's criminal to let a cough or cold hang on.

Turpo will break a cold right up. Rubbed on the chest or throat it relieves congestion, loosens phlegm. Instantly you will feel the improvement.

As a preventive against flu, snuff a little up each nostril several times a day and flu germs will have little chance of getting a lodging or breeding place.

Turpo is an effective antiseptic combining the old fashioned remedies of turpentine, camphor and menthol. Any doctor or trained nurse will tell you that these ingredients have long been recognized as effective antiseptics as well as having really wonderful qualities in relieving colds or congestions. Turpo costs only 35c at any drug store.

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Triple Coaching Shift.
McCracken Will Stay.
Swetonic Adds Weight.
Foes Praise Riegels.
Mat Result Questioned.
Mokan Moves Again.

BUCS PASS UP RING AND HENLINE

WHEN the 1929 football season rolls around, as football seasons have a habit of doing, a three-cornered shift of former Pitt linemen now in the coaching ranks may be in evidence. The possibility of this hinges on Cullen Gourley's being able to get away from business and return to Lafayette as assistant coach to Herb McCracken, who, by the way, has at last definitely decided to remain in Easton and has rejected an offer to become mentor at another institution. Lee Frank, line coach at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, and Ulhardt Hangartner, former assistant mentor at Bucknell, are the other former Panthers involved.

Herb McCracken

McCracken wants to have Gourley back with him at Lafayette for another year, if it is possible for Cullen to leave his Pittsburgh business affairs temporarily. Gourley has been associated with McCracken since the latter took over the coaching reins at the Easton college. In the event that Cullen is unable to accept the position again, Frank is to get the job and will pass up an opportunity to return to V. P. I. as assistant to Andy Gustafson. Frank has already been tendered a contract by the Southerners.

HANGARTNER, for no apparent reason, was dropped by Bucknell a week ago, even though he turned out good lines during the two years he served at Lewisburg. Hangartner is a close friend of Gustafson, and it is likely that Andy will be more than willing to secure Hank, should Frank get the job at Lafayette.

All three men—Gourley, Frank and Hangartner—have met with more than the usual amount of success in their coaching ventures. Frank and Gustafson have had near championship teams at the Virginia school. Hangartner was given a great deal of praise for the fine showing made by Bucknell during the last two years, rival mentors and players awarding to the Bison linemen, developed by Hangartner, the major credit for the Bisons' successes. Gourley and McCracken have won the majority of their games at Lafayette during the four years they have been in charge.

STEVE SWETONIC, the North Side pitcher who made such a great record for Indianapolis last season that his services have been sought by several major league clubs, with the Pirates likely to win out in the competition, means to be in trim for the best year of his baseball life no matter what club he may be connected with in 1929.

Steve Swetonic

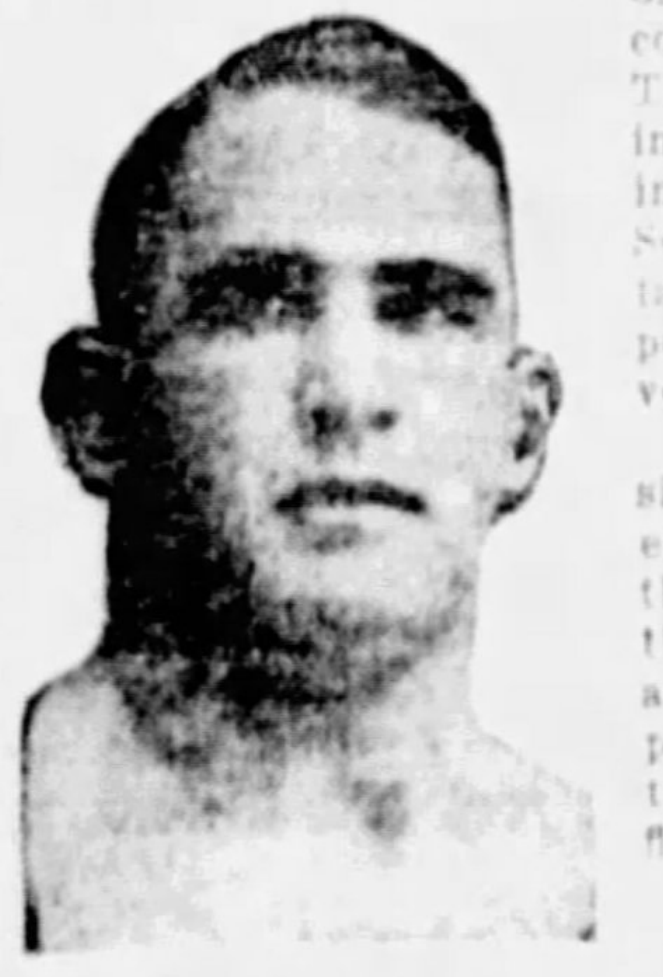
Steve, who is now in the employ of Webster Hinnau, manager of the McCully Engineering Company here, is following a course of winter training with a view to building up. He has taken on six pounds, and by the time he reports for spring practice will be heavier and stronger than ever before. It is probable that the deal bringing Swetonic to the Buccaneers will be closed at an early date.

THE Georgia Tech football players, against whom Roy Riegels, California center, made his wrong-way run at Pasadena on New Year's Day, declare that the brilliant game Riegels put up the remainder of the time more than offset his mistake. During a stop at Kansas City on the way home, Peter Pund, Georgia Tech's all-America center, who played opposite Riegels, was loud in his praise of the Californian. "What a battle Riegels put up in that second half," Pund said. "I could almost see him choking back the tears when he returned to the game. His individual playing was largely responsible for the touchdown that the Bears scored."

BILL ALEXANDER, Georgia Tech coach, takes exception to the conclusion jumped at by some dopesters that Riegels' error cost California the game. He thinks that is unjust to both the Georgians and to Riegels, and insists that his team won through superior playing.

"We would have defeated the Bears without the misplay of Riegels," Alexander asserts. "I believe that my boys could have made another touchdown in the second half if I had not instructed them to play a safe, conservative game and to protect their lead. We often punted on the third down with only a yard or two to go, whereas under different conditions we would have taken more chances and probably would have scored again."

ONE of the experienced wrestling men getting a laugh out of the passing of the world championship from Strangler Lewis to Gus Sonnenberg in their recent Boston meeting is Clifford Thorne, of Detroit, retired grappler and former mat coach at the University of Michigan. Thorne, who met Frank Gotch three times in handicap matches during his 15 years in the game, says it is inconceivable that Sonnenberg could get away with his flying-tackle methods against such a smart opponent as Lewis if the latter wanted to prevent him from doing so.



Strangler Lewis

"Where was Lewis' stiff-arm stuff, the side-stepping, the low crouch and the numerous other things that will easily block this football tackle?" asks Thorne. "Why, the first thing a wrestler is taught is to avert low tackling. In avoiding it, the expert wrestler gains the under hold. A third-class wrestler can easily avoid the flying tackle.

"LEWIS is a big man, but fast. He should easily beat Sonnenberg. From all accounts, he forgot even the fundamentals of his sport and must have stood up like a tackling dummy and let Sonnenberg hit him wide open. If Sonnenberg is a wrestler, then I don't know anything about wrestling. I will guarantee that I can produce a dozen welter and middleweight wrestlers in Detroit alone who can throw Sonnenberg. Two years ago, a Belle Isle bathing beach guard, who weighed only 160 pounds, threw Sonnenberg twice in 10 minutes on the beach in the presence of 50 witnesses. I am 43 years old and have not engaged in a wrestling match for several years, but I am still good enough to defeat Sonnenberg. He isn't fast on his feet. In fact, his feet often are in the way, and it would be an easy matter for even a fair wrestler to throw him."

JOHNNY MOKAN, former Pirate outfielder, who has done a lot of shifting around since the Pittsburgh club sent him to the Phillies in midseason of 1922, will make another change this year. The Buffalo club of the American Association has just sold him to Little Rock club in the Southern Association.

Mokan did not do so well for Buffalo after the Bisons obtained him from Rochester in exchange for Harry Felix. He incurred the displeasure of the management in the first place by refusing to re-

PANTHERS IN EASY VICTORY

By JESS CARVER.

PLANS are going apace, as plans will, for the annual football banquet for the Carnegie Tech varsity football squad, sponsored by the Varsity and Pittsburgh Clans, which is to be given at the William Penn Saturday noon.

Howard Harpster, back from the coast with tales galore of real interest, will be one of the principal speakers. Judge Wally Steffen is to come here to address the gathering. Bob Waddell will talk, so will Dr. Marks, Bert Munhall, Al Irwin and Buddy Overend.

This banquet is going to be the biggest in history, according to the Clan committeemen. A record crowd is assured, for the advance ticket sale alone has been great enough to presage a banner turnout. Several special features are being arranged for to add to the entertainment.

TECH, PITT WIN

Carnegie interrupted its 16-game losing streak last night by taking over Ken Loeffler's Genevans on the Tartan court. This was the big feature of the night, outshining Pitt's one-sided triumph at the expense of Waynesburg. Tech won by a 33-31 score in an extra period, while the Panthers, after a slow and soggy start, kicked the Yellow Jackets around 50 to 17.

It was Crum's field goal in the closing minutes of the extra time that brought to Carnegie its long-sought victory. Emerick, Geneva's captain, caged two baskets late in the struggle to tie the score, but the Skibos were equal to the occasion and put a game on the right side of the ledger.

All Tech has to look forward to now is Pitt on Friday night. That winning streak of one will have a tough time multiplying.

HYATT STARS

Hyatt and Baker led the Panther attack against Waynesburg. Charley dropped in six two-pointers and five foul shots for a high point total of 17, as many as were scored by the entire Waynesburg club. Baker bagged six field goals and four fouls.

Waynesburg showed a strong defense during the first half, led by the clever Jiggers White, captain of the Jackets. The lineups:

Pitt—50.		Waynesburg—17.
Arture	F	Allison
Zehfuss	F	Porter
L. Cohen	C	Ullom
Wunderlich (C)	G	(C) White
Baker	G	Smith

Fouls—Carnegie Tech, 5 out of 9; Geneva, 9 out of 13.

Substitutes—McKinney for Montgomery, Montgomery for Merriman, High for Fox, Fox for High, High for Nease, Bruce for McKinney.

Referee—Cal Bolster. Umpire—William Kummer.

PITT CUBS WIN

Pitt Fresh—35.		Westinghouse—34
S. Kowallis	F	Reynolds
Wrobleski	F	Miller
Brown	C	Lyons
Hirshberger	G	Bartlett
W. Kowallis	G	Blankenberger

Substitutes—Pitt: Lawry, Lytell, Kalb; Westinghouse: Wright, Hill. Field goals—S. Kowallis, Wrobleski 5, Brown 2, Hirshberger 2, W. Kowallis 3, Reynolds 5, Miller 3, Lyons 7, Bartlett, Blankenberger. Foul goals—Pitt, 9 out of 12; Westinghouse, 2 out of 2. Referee—Williams.

TEX As He Was Known to TAD

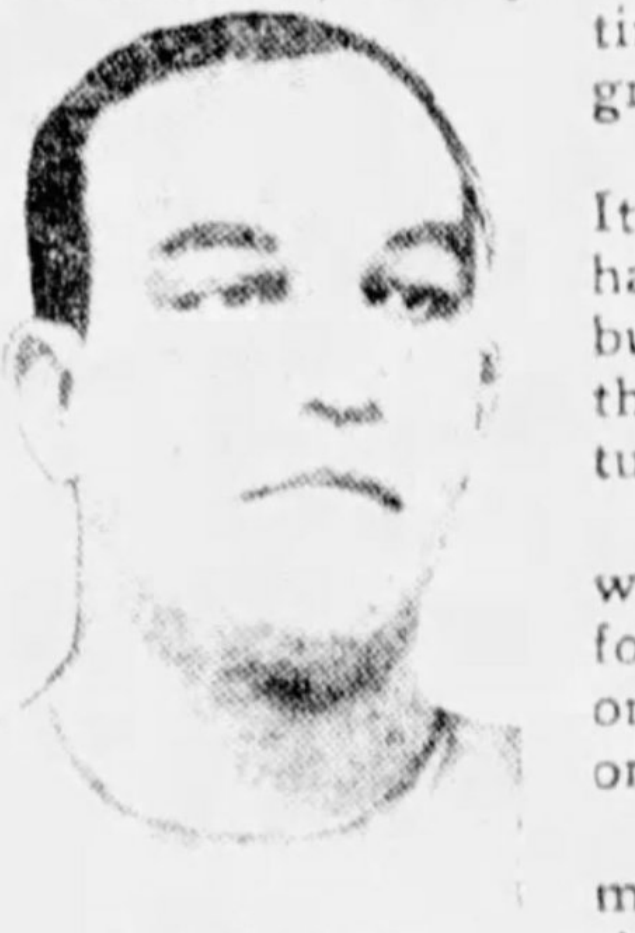
Rickard's Greatest Compliment

By TAD, Famous Cartoonist and Sports Writer.

"THERE'S a fellow we can trust."

That is what the sporting world said as it pointed a finger at Tex Rickard, the big promoter.

And that is what the sporting world said at Reno, Nev., back in 1910, when Jack Johnson, the greatest black man of his time, was to fight Jim Jeffries, the greatest white man of his time.



Jim Jeffries.

That was Rickard's pet promotion. It was his most colorful promotion. He had bigger crowds and greater gates, but Tex always looked back at Reno as the greatest card in the most picturesque surroundings.

That was a fight that stirred the world as no big fight ever had done before. Most heavyweight contests are one-sided and poor matches. Here was one that had EVERYTHING.

The world's most famous sporting men attended. Every boxer of note in the world was there. In that crowd were Nat Goodwin, Big Tim Sullivan, John L. Sullivan, Wilson Mizner, Stanley Ketchell, William Muldoon, Tom Sharkey, Frank Gotch, Tommy Burns, Walter Kelly, Eddie Leonard, Jim Thorley, Jack London, Sam Langford and thousands of others.

Those who had the money were there. Business was tossed aside in order to be in at the killing in this, the greatest of all big fights. There were many, many thousands of dollars bet on this fight. Some men bet young fortunes on it. The writer knows for a fact tht Jim Coffroth and a few others bet all they had on Johnson and ALL THEY had was SOME.

Jeffries was a 10-to-7 favorite and the more both sides talked the more both sides bet. Tom Corbett's public poolroom at Reno was packed to the doors daily. He took bets openly. It was not against the law in Reno. All gambling was within the law. At that time.

One single bet made at the bar of the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco shows how money was bet.

Mr. Fred Meyerstein, San Francisco banker, backed Jack Johnson for $35,000 against $50,000 put up on Jeffries by Mr. Clarence Berry, of Los Angeles.

Big Tim Sullivan Stakeholder

RICKARD offered a purse of $101,000, to be split any way the men wanted. Neither Jeffries nor Johnson was anxious to have the promoter hold such a big sum, so a stakeholder had to be picked. The fighters figured that Tex might not draw that much at the gate or run into a law case and have their purse held up, so for a couple of weeks they argued about a stakeholder. They wanted a man they could TRUST. They mentioned hundreds of names and it was finally decided that Big Tim Sullivan, the New York politician, liked and known by thousands, would be satisfactory. Tex turned the purse over to Big Tim and there was nothing else to be decided except the referee.

The most suspicious bunch of men that ever got together were present in Reno for this affair. There was talk of fake, frameup and doublecross, and, no matter where you went, you were sure to hear some sort of crooked chatter.

When it came to selecting a referee it looked as if the whole world had been scanned and not one man was found to be square enough.

Jeff's advisers wouldn't stand for anyone who even had the finger of suspicion partly aimed at him. Johnson's people wouldn't stand for anyone who even knew anyone who knew Jeff, and so it went on for weeks. After a while newspapermen who were out there digging up news decided that there would be no referee at all.

The names of the fairest and most famous referees were tossed aside. There was too much at stake. There was too much money bet. The man selected to be referee had to be purer than the driven snow.

They argued until way up close to the date of the fight and finally when the thing looked hopeless they decided to insist that the promoter (who never had refereed before), Tex Rickard, be named.

In all the world there was but one man both sides could agree upon. The writer, knowing all the fighters and all the names mentioned, considers that to be the greatest compliment ever paid to Tex Rickard or any other man in the world of sports.

Tex Rickard.

Tex refereed and was absolutely square. He was an ideal referee and showed no favoritism.

The fight itself was fought cleanly and there never was even a claim of foul made. The best man won and won without leaving any doubt.

It was the only time that Rickard ever appeared as third man in a ring.

GAMES TOMORROW NIGHT.

Pirates at Detroit.
Montreal at Chicago.
Toronto at Americans.
Boston at Canadiens.
Rangers at Ottawa.

By CARL W. SHATTO.

BENNY LEONARD'S ice Pirates tuned up for their game in Detroit tomorrow and their battle with the Ottawa Senators here Saturday by handing the Chicago Blackhawks a 1-0 setback in an overtime fray at Duquesne Garden last night.

And "tuned up" is an apt description of the Bucs' activities during the first 50 minutes of the 70-minute battle. Throughout the first two periods and during the first half of the third stanza the Bucs played as if they were giving instructions to willing students, but in the last 10 minutes of the regulation playing time the Hawks became so aggressive that they gave their teachers a couple of frights, and their teachers retaliated by giving them a spanking in the overtime.

MILLER SHARES GLORY

Joe Miller, Pirate goalie, shared honors with White and Cotton. He saved the Bucs from defeat late in the third period when he made a marvelous save at the expense of Alex McKinnon, and then protected the Pirates one-goal edge by deflecting bullet-like drives by Ripley and Irwin less than a minute after White had registered his tally.

McKinnon broke free and skated right in on top of Miller with the puck at his stick's end. He had only Miller to beat when he reached the cage, and had Miller been less brilliant the game never would have gone into overtime.

Immediately after Pittsburgh had counted, Ripley broke through the Pirate defense only to have Miller rob him of an apparently certain goal, and Irwin, following him in, smashed the rebound back at Goalie Joe before the Buc defenders were able to drive the disc out of the danger zone.

The start of the game provided an unusual thrill when Milks took the puck on the opening faceoff and dribbled through to the Chicago net. Nib, aiming for a corner, missed, but he lost his balance as he shot and skidded, head foremost, into the cage. Drury, Johnny McKinnon, Irwin and Cotton later made strong bids for scores.

The second period teemed with action, and the Bucs were the aggressors from start to finish, Herb Drury, skating, checking and shooting brilliantly, provided most of the thrills.

HAWKS OUTPLAYED

Close checking by the Pirate front lines made the Hawks look foolish until the last few minutes of the fight. The invaders were completely outclassed in every department of the game.

Miller played under a severe handicap. He has an ulcerated tooth and his jaw is badly swollen. Frederickson's hip is so badly bruised that he had to have it baked for two hours before he went into battle. Johnny McKinnon was added to the casualty list last night when Ripley thrust his stick into the Bus defender's eye.

Last night's was the Pirates' second home victory of the season. They previously had beaten the New York Americans by a 1-0 count here. The lineup:

PIRATES (1)		HAWKS (0)
Miller	G	C. Gardiner
Smith	D	Taylor
J. McKinnon	D	Wentworth
Frederickson	C	Ripley
Darragh	W	March
Milks	W	Arbour

BRUINS WIN, 5-2

BOSTON, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—The Boston Bruins celebrated George Owen's professional hockey debut here by defeating the Toronto Maple Leafs, 5 to 2, in a game that contained plenty of action.

MAROONS, OTTAWA TIE

MONTREAL, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—The Montreal Maroons lost a chance to tie the New York Americans for the top of the Canadian section of the National Hockey League when Ottawa came from behind in the third period to hold them to a 1-to-1 tie.

Farrell, Ayton Win Miami Event

My Pal, TEX RICKARD

Hard to Realize Loss

By JACK DEMPSEY
Former Heavyweight Champion of the World.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—My best pal has gone.

Quietly and nobly he slipped away. His greatest fight was lost. For days he had fought valiantly—his first words to me when I saw him:

"Jack, I've got this fight licked."

But the odds were too great against him.

Jack Dempsey.

Ten minutes before the end, Tex opened his eyes. His hand lay in mine. He was too weak to speak, but there seemed a slightly firmer pressure in his handclasp. He looked at me and nodded. His eyes carried the message that meant only one thing.

I knew then the battle was over.

It is hard now to realize that the great Tex is not here, stepping up to greet me with the smile of friendship that meant so much to me.

For 12 years, Tex was my loyal friend. His word was as good as gold. No one ever doubted it. Calm and cool under all circumstances, he would tell me in his quiet way: "Don't worry, Jack, everything will be all right." These were times when I was upset over matters that seemed like mountains to me.

But I always could go to Tex and be content to let him guide me through the shoals. No matter how swamped he was with what most men would deem gigantic jobs, Tex's mind would grasp every detail put before him, and when he told you anything he meant it.

There was no half-way business with him.

No one can say what the world of sport has lost in the passing of Tex Rickard. Death claimed him just when he was at the peak of his wonderful career. He was ever planning new ventures into fields that only he saw open for development. Where other failed Tex went through to glory and success.

And with it all he was the most modest man living. No better evidence of this can be offered than the fact that his intimate life story never was written.

"Later we will do that," he would answer when newspapermen requested his full biography. "There's too much to do now."

But for the men he championed he insisted that every avenue be opened to make them world-known and worshiped. Standing in the shadows he was content to see them take the center of the vast world spotlight that he had created by his genius as a promoter. To others more qualified than I am must be left the task of writing of his full life story and accomplishments in the sports world in which he was king. And this will include as well as his tender kindness and never failing generosity to the poor unknowns left stranded on the rocks of hardship and poverty.

To Carry on for Tex

IN MY own humble way, I can recount the details of our friendship that has lasted through 12 years—memorable years to me—that brought me from the bumper rods of freight cars a ragged unknown pugilist to the pinnacle of boxing success, fame and fortune.

Without Tex there would be no such story. In my next three articles I shall attempt to recall the incidents of our intimate relationship that may help to throw additional light on the character of a real man. A great sportsman and a firm friend.

Jack Sharkey

In this way, I hope that my readers will get a glimpse of the nobility of the man who had won the name of "Square Shooter" even in the rough, hectic "gold rush" days in the Yukon.

As to my own plans, I can only say now that I will carry on for him as Tex planned to carry on himself.

That I know he would want me to do. He has left his affairs in such order that they may be picked up where he left off. With others I will contribute my bit to the first of these, the Sharkey-Stribling bout in Miami.

Later I will have an announcement to make as to my personal plans for the future. At present, I can think only of the loss I have suffered in the passing of my best pal and of the deep tragedy brought to the grief-stricken family he loved, his wife and daughter and aged mother whom he was planning to visit in the spring.

TUBE CITY MITT CARD FILLED

Howard Mayberry, of Donora, meets Dave Adelman, of Philadelphia, in the 10-round main bout, and Phil Scello, of McKeesport, boxes Young Guido, of Sharon, in the semi-final.

In the two preliminaries, Luther Lash, of New Kensington, will oppose John Brucker, of Pittsburgh, at 160 pounds, and Jack McCarthy, of the North Side, will battle Johnny Brown, of Lawrenceville, at 145 pounds. Adelman and his manager, Sammy Hahn, arrived in Pittsburgh today.

Johnny Rooney has been matched with Pat Powers and Patsy Dugan with Alfred Partini in two of the bouts on the amateur boxing card of the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C. in St. Andrew's Lyceum, North Side, Friday night.

Armand Emanuel, who boxes Harry Dillon at Minneapolis, January 18, also is signed for a return battle with Tommy Loughran, a non-title affair, at Los Angeles, February 12.

GOOCH LIKELY TO STAR FOR DODGERS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

JOHNNY GOOCH, former Pirate catcher, who is reported to be dissatisfied with his Brooklyn connection, owns a fine contract with the Dodgers and is very likely to be one of Uncle Robbie's regular receivers next season, according to a statement made before he left Pittsburgh for his Tennessee home.

It appears that Gooch was not sitting so well after joining the Dodgers, but when the season closed he reached an agreement that apparently was very satisfactory.

"The Brooklyn club has tendered me a fine contract and I expect to have a big season in 1929," Gooch said in Pittsburgh on his way South at the conclusion of the race.

Johnny will get a big salary for his work in the next race. Moreover, he figured he would be in much better health than he has enjoyed in many years.

Gooch had his biggest season in 1922, when he caught 105 games for the Pirates and batted .329. At that time he was looked upon as one of the best catchers in baseball, but a subsequent attack of influenza took a severe toll on his physique and the following season found him in a mediocre stride. Gooch, however, caught fine ball, but he has never been in the same shape he exemplified in 1922. Evidently he expects to be close to that form in the next race.

Johnny's record as a hitter since he has come into the majors stands up well with that of any catcher in baseball. He is one of the best throwing catchers in the sport and all over the league he is regarded as a smart receiver.

BOSTON PROBES $500 PAYMENT TO OFFICIAL

BOSTON, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—Gerald J. Callahan, state assistant attorney general, will investigate an alleged payment of $500 to State Representative James J. Twohig, of South Boston by the Outdoor Recreation League, in the latter's recent campaign in behalf of the professional Sunday sports measure.

An official return of the receipts and expenditures of the league, filed with the Secretary of State, contained a record of the payment as having been made "for speaking at rallies and expenses."

Callahan is investigating charges that the list of contributors to the league's $30,000 fund is false, and that the money, in reality was contributed by Emil Fuchs, president of the Boston National League club.

None of the testimony before the Finance Commission yesterday was in support of the charges by Emil Fuchs that William G. Lynch, a Boston city councilman, had approached him for a bribe of $5,000 for each of 13 members of a "bloc" of councilmen, to vote for ratification of the Sunday sports law. In fact, one of the witnesses, Myles T. McSweeney, a Boston sports writer, admitted that the story he told Fuchs concerning two councilmen was false.

When the hearing first opened, Fuchs testified that McSweeney had told him he had "enough on two councilmen to hang them." Fuchs also had said that McSweeney informed him that his knowledge was verified by two witnesses. McSweeney told the commission that he had merely heard rumors that "some one wanted some money," and that the story he told Fuchs was a "mere presumption."

"I was just fishing for a story," he said.

The Finance Commission devoted much of the hearing to questioning Thomas H. Green, president of the Boston City Council last year. Green said that he had promised Fuchs he would vote in favor of the Sunday sports bill when it came before the Council. He said he and Fuchs had been friends for more than 20 years and that he (Green) always had been in favor of Sunday sports.

Green also said that when he called a special meeting of the Council to vote on the bill, he did it of his own volition. He sent out the notices of the meeting from Fuch's hotel room because he had accidentally met Edmund Cunningham, secretary of the Braves, at that time and Cunningham, he said, offered him the use of the room to write the notices.

Eddie Mack Hands Tod Morgan Beating

DENVER, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—Eddie Mack, of Denver, Rocky Mountain lightweight champion, mauled and slashed his way to a decision over Tod Morgan, world junior-lightweight champion, in a vicious 10-round non-title bout here last night.

Starting slowly, Mack unleased a sizzling attack in the last three rounds that kept 7,000 customers on their feet and had the champion bloody and groggy at the final bell. Mack weighed in at 134 pounds, five more than Morgan.

Mitt, Mat Gate Receipts $1,458,619

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—Gross receipts of all boxing and wrestling matches in Pennsylvania in 1928 were $1,458,619, Robert A. Young, secretary of the State Athletic Commission, has announced.

Young said there were 3,551 persons licensed by the commission during 1928, who paid $27,925 in license fees. Licenses to boxers alone numbered 2,096.

The five per cent tax on gross receipts of all bouts under jurisdiction of the commission amounted to $74,280.

Owen, Harvard Ice Star, Joins Bruins

BOSTON, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—George Owen, one of Harvard's most noted athletic figures and probably the greatest American college hockey player since the days of the immortal Hobey Baker, has decided to have his fling at professional hockey.

Owen has signed a one-year contract with the Boston Bruins. He stipulated he would not have to sever his connections with the Boston investment firm to which he became attached when he graduated in 1923.

Madison Square Suffers Loss Of $235,000

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—Madison Square Garden suffered a net loss of nearly $235,000 for the six months ending November 30, published financial reports reveal. The actual loss was $233,121 compared with a net profit of $381,008 for the same period of 1927.

For the quarter ending November 30 to the garden showed a net profit of $75,327 compared to a net profit of $319,912 for the same period in 1927.

The losses can be attributed to the failure of the Tunney-Heeney and Mandell-McLarnin bouts to arouse the popular interest that the Dempsey-Tunney and Dempsey-Sharkey bouts did in 1927.

CUT IN PURSES FORESEEN BY RED MASON

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

James (Red) Mason, Pittsburgh's veteran fight manager, returned this morning from a long visit to Chicago, and almost immediately began fanning about the late Tex Rickard.

He said he foresaw in the passing of Rickard a toppling of the era of big purses for boxers.

"Promoters all over the country have been crying for years that Rickard was making it tough for them," Mason said. "They couldn't compete with him in the matter of paying the fighters. Now that he's gone, I suppose they'll lose no time trying to get matters adjusted to suit their own ends. I suppose it will be up to the managers and fighters to organize unions for their protection."

Mason said he had none but the kindest recollections of the departed king of promoters.

"His word was his bond," he said. "When I was handling the late Harry Greb, we arranged several big money matches with Tex and found his simple, direct way of doing business very satisfactory. He offered us $27,000 for Greb's return bout with Johnny Wilson, in which Harry defended the middleweight title. Harry wanted an extra $500 for training expenses and Tex agreed without quibbling. Greb then asked him if he would put the money up. This drew a smile from Tex.

"'Jack Dempsey takes my word in such matters,' he said. 'How about you? But I'll put the money up if you say so.'

"And he did. He deposited our guarantee with a trust company in New York and we went around and collected it the next day.

"For Greb's first fight with Tiger Flowers, in Madison Square Garden, the one in which he lost the title, we received $36,700. This was 40 percent of the gross receipts. The State Commission rule stipulates that the champion must not receive more than 37½ percent. Rickard promised us the extra two and one-half percent on the side. We had only his word, but when time came for the payoff there was an extra voucher for us."

A. L. Calls Off Spring Meeting

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—The affairs of the American League are in such excellent shape that the club owners decided today that a spring meeting would not be necessary. This is the first time in history of the circuit that the club owners decided to forego the spring session.

All of the business was cleared up at the December meeting in Chicago. E. S. Barnard, president of the league, has gone to St. Petersburg, Fla., for a vacation until February 1.

EAST LIBERTY Y MEETS MOOSE

By JULIUS LEVIN.

The Washington Moose will be the attraction of the East Liberty Y. team tonight. The Moose passers defeated Dalton Williams' quintet at Washington earlier in the season, and the locals will be out to turn the tables tonight. The game will start at 8 o'clock to allow several Schneider Club stars to compete in a West Penn League game on the North Side.

One of the best games of the season is scheduled at the Braddock Knights of Columbus Hall tonight when the Morrys oppose the crack M. J. Conleys in a Pittsburgh & Ohio Valley League contest. Both teams have been showing championship form of late and indications are that tonight's battle will find the contestants in the pink of condition.

Duquesne Light and Reliance Life clash tonight in the only game scheduled in the Allegheny County League. The game will be played on the 176th Field Artillery armory floor.

The Lawrys meet the Millers and Boot Shop opposes the Wortherspoons in the two Homestead District League games on tonight's program. Both games will be played on the Homestead Elks' Temple floor.

The Mohawks would like to hear from junior and light first-class teams in regard to games on a home-and-home basis. Call Carnegie 9497—M, after 6 o'clock.

The F. M. C. Five of Duquesne, coached by Joe Gubby, star of the Lafayettes, is ready to book games with junior teams. Call Dukane 26170 between 6 and 7 o'clock and ask for Alex.

The S. E. Lutheran Choir, champion of the Duquesne Carnegie Library League last season as a result of winning 20 out of 21 games, has won nine out of 10 contests so far and is ready to meet the leading junior quintets in this section. Call Dukane 20600 between 6 and 7 o'clock, or write E. M. Dvorsky, 1011 Chestnut street, Duquesne, Pa.

The Wilmerding Lighting Club and the Employed Boys' Brotherhood teams are booking games at home and abroad. For games call D. E. Williams at Franklin 3049-J.

The Goldensons of the County League meet the crack Loendi Club in an independent game at the South Side Market House tonight. The Loendi team is making a comeback after a long absence from local floors.

Early Marriage Of Rickard Recalled

HENRIETTA, Tex., Jan. 9.—(AP.)—Facts concerning the late George Lewis (Tex) Rickard's first marriage, generally unknown to the public, have been recalled by friends here, where he spent his early life as a cowhand and later as city marshal.

Tex Rickard's first bride was Miss Leona Bittick, whom he married in 1894, while serving as marshal. The promoter then was 23 years old. Mrs. Rickard and an infant died about a year later and were buried here, near the graves of his father, Robert W. Rickard, who died in 1881, and his grandparents. Rickard visited the graveyard when he paid his first visit to his old home town in 1926. Years before the promoter had sent funds to a friend here to pay for upkeep of the ground, which no longer is used for burial.

Neale Gets Release To Sign With Cards

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Jan. 9.—(AP.)—Earle Neale, University of Virginia football and baseball coach, since 1923, was released from his contract so that he might become head coach of the St. Louis National League baseball club. The contract would not expire until 1930.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Jan. 9.—(AP.)—Chuck Collins, former Notre Dame star and head football coach at the University of North Carolina for the last three years, announced today that he had signed a two-year contract to remain here as coach.

port for several days, saying that he needed a rest, and after reporting he failed to give the service expected to him.

MOKAN is showing that he is still a business man, if nothing else, as he has demanded part of whatever amount of cash may have been involved in his latest transfer.

The Buffalo club announces that it is going to do considerable upbuilding, and in this connection it is said an effort will be made to get Infielder Andy Cohen back from the Giants now that Manager John McGraw has indicated Andy Reese as his probable second base choice. It is believed, however, that McGraw will be found unwilling to let Cohen go even if he could get waivers on him.

Jimmy Ring

REPORTS from Philadelphia that the Pittsburgh club may sign Jimmy Ring, the veteran pitcher who has been given his unconditional release by the Phillies, are denied at Pirate headquarters. It is considered unlikely that Ring, who is free to sign where he pleases, would be of any service to the Pirates in their efforts to build up their slab staff. Another player on the block for whom the Buccaneer management will not put in a claim is Catcher Butch Henline, of the Robins. Pittsburgh could have obtained Henline in the Johnny Gooch-Joe Harris trade on June 8, last year, but took Charley Hargreaves instead. Hargreaves batted .268 against Henline's .212. The Braves and Cardinals are said to be the only clubs claiming Henline since Brooklyn asked waivers.

Why Our Motor Executives Win Such Notable Success

By B. C. FORBES

WHY has motor-making become a three billion industry in so short a time? For many reasons, but especially one: The type of men engaged in developing it.

MOTOR executives, more than any other group I know, look upon their work as a thrilling adventure. They are engrossed in what they are doing. Always they are eargerly striving to accomplish something new, something better, something bigger. They never are content to let well enough alone. Good enough is not good enough for the giants of the United States who have supplied the world with three-fourths of all its automobiles.

PRESIDENT A. P. SLOAN, of General Motors, asks himself, and urges each one of his coexecutives to ask himself every day, "Is there not some better way of doing this?" Walter P. Chrysler attributes his success in large measure to the fact that when he started building his own cars he went on the assumption that it was necessary to give the public more style as well as more quality than they had ever received before at modest cost.

John N. Willys greatly increased his sales and profits by introducing a distinctly new type of car, the nimble Whippet. President Erskine of Studebaker was moved by this same motive of achieving something outstanding when he established all sorts of national and international speed records with the company's four principal lines of cars.

Chevrolet has scored notably by giving the people "a six at the price of a four." High-priced makers have turned to eight cylinders, combined with beauty of design, to capture buyers. Durant has hit upon four forward speeds as his new note. Auburn, Graham-Paige, Marmon, Moon and several others have originated sparkling new designs. Ford brought out a new product which took cognizance of attractiveness as well as quality and low cost.

AUTOMOBILE executives hardly ever talk about individual achievements. They always are enthusiastic about what their concern is doing. It is extremely rare for automobile executives ever to talk about making money for themselves, to talk about salaries or profit-sharing. They are, as a class, the most enthusiastic team-workers America has ever known.

Have you ever known a more optimistic lot of business men in your life? They never go around whining about hard times. Either things, they tell you, are going splendidly with them; or, if things are not going so very well at the moment, they proclaim confidently that everything is on the eve of a great improvement.

CHARACTERISTIC of the attitude of motor executives towards whiners was that expressed the other evening by Paul G. Hoffman, of Studebaker, at the annual banquet of dealers.

"Whenever you hear a dealer complain bitterly about how impossible it is nowadays to get real salesmen, you can be sure," he declared, "that the fault does not lie with the salesmen but with the man employing them. For a dealer to whine that his salesmen are no good is equal to a confession by him that he himself is no good at picking salesmen and training them properly. It is not an accident, it is no luck, that the best dealers are usually the ones who build up the best force of salesmen. Fault-finding should begin at home."

SOME of our older industries suffer because those engaged in them have sunk into ruts, have ceased to invest their daily activities with glamor, have allowed their zest and enthusiasm and initiative to become dulled. They have become too matter-of-fact, too prosaic, too unimaginative, too content to let well enough alone. That arrests progress.

The attitude, the spirit, the vision of our motor men have enabled them to improve tremendously their product and, at the same time, to lower the cost. Consequently, we readily buy automobiles in preference to many other things.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—Corn prices jumped today to the highest level which deferred deliveries have reached yet this season. Lively buying on the part of commission houses resulted from unfavorable weather curtailing the movement of the corn crop. Open ⅛@¼ to ½c higher, corn afterwards scoring a sharp further advance. Wheat, oats and provisions were also firmer, with wheat starting ⅛@¼ to ⅜c up, and subsequently holding near to the initial range.

Advices from various sections, Iowa and Kansas in particular, telling of moist conditions which have made many roads impassable and in numerous cases put a complete stop to hauling, did much today to increase demand here for corn future deliveries, consequent advances in which the market surpassed the season's top previous quotations were accompanied by word that other cities were outbidding Chicago for rural supplies.

Wheat values derived firmness at times today from estimates that new export business in North American wheat amounted to 1,500,000 bushels. There were also reports current that damage to the domestic winter wheat crop had been done by recent freeze-ups, especially in Missouri and in the northwestern section of Kansas.

STOCK MARKET TURNS ABOUT, GOES UP

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—The stock market, which had been on the down-grade since the latter part of last week, turned upward today in reflection of the more cheerful feeling in Wall street regarding the credit situation. Fears of an immediate increase in the Federal Reserve discount rate have practically disappeared, and the call money rate dropped from 7 to 6 percent today on the arrival of a large supply of out-of-town funds seeking temporary

Business and trade news continued favorable. Iron Age reported that "with the new year only a few days old, steel output has passed the high rate of Decemmer." The average output for all United States Steel Corporation subsidiaries is estimated at 86 per cent of capacity. Copper buying continues good, and there have been some new inquiries for railroad equipment.

Directors of F. W. Woolworth increased the annual dividend from $5 to $6. Archer Daniels Midland directors proposed a 100 per cent stock dividend, and raised the rate on the present issue. The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey acquired a controlling interest in the Beacon Oil Company, and a shipment of $2,000,000 in gold was received from Canada.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—The raw sugar market was unchanged early today, with Cuban available at last paid prices of 3.83c for spots, duty paid, but buyers holding off and showing interest only at fractionally less. No sales were reported.

The raw sugar futures market was quiet and after opening unchanged to 1 point lower, prices continued within that range throughout the remainder of the morning and at midday showed no variation from opening levels. There was some liquidation and selling by houses with European connections which accounted for the slightly easier ruling, chiefly of the distant positions. There was enough covering and trade buying, however, to absorb the offerings and hold values within narrow limits.

The refined market was unchanged at 5.15c for fine granulated, with only a light hand-to-mouth inquiry reported.

Metal Market.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 4 points to a decline of 5 points. Near months were relatively steady on covering, but there was a little selling of later deliveries promoted by disappointing cables, and the active months worked about 7 to 10 points net lower, with trading continuing quiet up to the end of the first half hour. The South was credited with selling a little cotton here, and there was a little selling supposed to be for Liverpool account. Private cables reported that trade calling had absorbed hedging and some Bombay selling in the Liverpool market and that there was further buying of cotton cloths by India and China, with an improved demand from the continent.

After selling off to 19.75c for March and 19.40c for July under the early offerings, prices turned steadier on trade buying and covering. There did not appear to be much cotton for sale and the early losses were fully recovered, with the buying evidently promoted by talk of a steadier spot situation in the South. At midday March was selling at 19.87c and July 19.51c, or about 2 points net higher.

Mrs. Stillman Quits Magazine Publishing

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—Mrs. James A. Stillman is retiring from magazine publishing. Her magazine has been discontinued. She invested $63,000 in it, but she says:

"I feel as free as if some one had given me $1,000,000. The money I sank in it was money I had made in stocks. It has been quite an adventure, but I think that after this I'll stick to aviation. Writing people are very temperamental."

Pope Names O'Hern Rochester Bishop

ROME, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—The Right Rev. Mgr. J. Francis O'Hern, vicar general of the diocese of Rochester, has been appointed bishop of that diocese by Pope Pius, succeeding Bishop Thomas F. Hickey.

The Rev. Robert J. Armstrong, pastor of St. Paul's Church, of Yakima, Wash., was appointed bishop of Sacramento, succeeding Bishop Patrick J. Keane.

Mauretania Day Late After Hard Crossing

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—The Cunard liner Mauretania docked a day late today after the roughest crossing in 33 years' experience of its Capt. S. G. S. McNeil. Windows were broken, lifeboats overturned and the bridge damaged, only for 17 hours was it possible to proceed at full speed.

Los Angeles Flies To Fete at Miami

WILMINGTON, N. C., Jan. 9.—(AP.)—The dirigible Los Angeles, en route to Miami, passed over Wrightsville Beach at 11:46 o'clock this morning. The big ship was flying low.

STEEL OUTPUT SPEEDS UP

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—The Iron Age says: With the new year only a few days old, steel output has passed the high rate of December. Here and there mill crews have been crippled by the influenza epidemic, but at Chicago ingot production has gone up two points to 87 per cent of capacity and at Buffalo a similar rate has been reached. Operations in Youngstown and Pittsburgh districts range from 80 to 85 per cent, while the average for all the Steel Corporation subsidiaries is estimated at 86 per cent.

In sheets, hot rolled strip, tin plate and wire products, mills are well booked.

Steel ingot production last month was 4,015,434 tons, the highest December total on record. Output for the year was 49,853,225 tons.

The Iron Age composite for pig iron, at $18.46 a ton, and that for finished steel, at 2.391c a pound, are unchanged from last week, but are higher than a year ago, the former by 92c and the latter by $1.54 a ton.

New York Bond Market

PITTSBURGH COAL GAINS; WEST. ELECTRIC STRONG

Prices were steady to firm on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today, reflecting the strong opening in the New York market. Trading here showed a little more spirit than yesterday and there was a more confident buying attitude than in either of the two previous sessions this week.

Activity on the local curb continued to center around Western Public Service, the new Crawford-Ohio Oil-Prairie Oil gas company recently formed to operate in the mid-west territory. The stock ranged around 25 during the forenoon, holding the gain recorded in yesterday's market. Liberty Dairy Products preferred was the strong feature of the early dealings in the official list. The stock came into the market at 107, up a full point from last night's close. The common stock was also strong and sold at the best level since listing. The preferred is a convertible issue, exchangeable into common on a three-for-one basis up to October, 1930, 2½ shares to October, 1931; two shares to October, 1932, and 1½ shares to October, 1933.

Fuel issues were dull but steady. Lone Star and Arkansas were handled at small fractional changes from yesterday's figures. Devonian Oil continued to change hands at 9½.

Pittsburgh Coal achieved a new high record on the "big board," but there was no trading in the stock in the early market here. Likewise, Westinghouse Electric sold at the best price since the rights were deducted from the market price a few days ago. Buying of Coal is as yet unexplained, although the Street is convinced that the strangest kind of sponsorship is identified with the movement. Westinghouse strength is also of the long pull character, in anticipation of several years' profitable business arising out of public utility expansion, electric railway installations and steamship electrification.

Pittsburgh Screw & Bolt developed pronounced strength in the early afternoon and moved up easily as demand for the issue uncovered a noticeable scarcity of the stock around current levels. Screw and Bolt is expected to show a material gain in earnings for 1928 and it is also anticipated that a substantial reduction in funded debt will be shown. There is a rumor in the Street that a merger with another prominent manufacturer in the same line is under consideration but nothing definite could be learned.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Market Stages Good Rally.

The stock market shook off the recent cloud of money fear today and worked higher on a distinctly improved buying attitude resulting from Washington reports that high officials there were inclined to deprecate rumors of an impending raise in the Federal Reserve rediscount rates. In addition, three statements of a favorable nature emanated from as many prominent men yesterday and served to encourage the traders favoring the upside of the market. President Coolidge, Secretary Mellon and Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City Bank of New York, were all quoted in the financial general situation with equanimity. President Coolidge having been informed as to conditions by various authorities and Secretary Mellon seeing the credit situation as comfortable for all legitimate enterprises. Mr. Mitchell sees no inflation in commodities and feels that the country is progressing along safe and sound lines. Buying of the market appeared at the opening and continued steadily. In the early dealings stocks rushed up sharply, but the pace of the advance halted around mid-day, apparently on second thought that a too-rapid rise would incur displeasure in quarters which would be able to put a quietus on the rally in short order. However, yesterday's 15-point jump in General Electric was interpreted in the Street as a pretty good sign that good stocks are in no danger no matter what may happen to some of the speculative pin wheels. Money opened again at 7 per cent and the market was reported comfortable but quiet. During the afternoon session ease in the money market became apparent and the rate dropped back to 6 per cent. Loan statment is due tomorrow night and there is hope in the Street that there may be a big reduction due to the fact that January dividend and interest money will be used to pay for stocks bought in the week ended January 2, when the loan item increased $238,000,000. The recovery today was market wide and included practically every major group.

Western Public Service.

Local financial interests feel that the future of Western Public Service Corporation is assured by the broad potential market in the district in which it operates and by the fact that the management has been uniformly successful in developing other utility companies into strong, profitable organization. A 300-mile gas line has been constructed by Western Public Service from the Wyoming and Colorado oil fields to Salt Lake City, Ogden and several other important cities, and aggressive development of the market is taking place. An artificial gas company with 70,000 meters has already been purchased in Salt Lake City. The point is made that the variety of industry in and about Salt Lake City, Ogden and the other cities served will afford Western Public Service a substantial market all year, without so noticeable a slack in demand as is experienced by some companies in the summer months. Followers of the company are unusually impressed by the large potential industrial gas markets and predict that in time Western Public Service's industrial gas distribution will exceed that of Lone Star Gas Corporation, which is operated in Texas by the same management. The board of directors consists of men well known in utility and financial circles. Among the directors are George W. Crawford, chairman of the board of Columbia Gas and Electric Corporation; T. B. Gregory and Fred W. Crawford, vice presidents and directors of Columbia Gas and directors of Lone Star Gas Corporation; L. B. Denning, president of Lone Star; O. D. Donnell, president of Ohio Oil Company, and N. K. Moody, president of Prairie Oil and Gas Company.

Studebaker-Pierce Arrow.

Studebaker and Pierce Arrow displayed further strength today and were among the leaders of a much improved market for automobile stocks. Pierce Arrow is expected to share in Studebaker's prosperity now that the policies of both companies are directed by a single management, and control is invested in a common ownership. Interests sponsoring the current advance in Studebaker predict earnings of $10 a share this year, and are looking for a more liberal dividend treatment. Buying of Pierce Arrow preferred has been based on the belief that the stock is in line for dividends sooner that Wall Street has been expecting.

Pennsylvania Railroad closed a satisfactory year from an operating standpoint, and in every month with one exception, the operating ratio was below that the corresponding month of 1927 and every month was below the corresponding month of 1926. Comparison of operating ratio in 1928 with corresponding months of 1926 shows the material progress which has been made in improving operating efficiency in two years. Pennsylvania Railroad started out in 1928 with the prospect that gross revenues for the year would fall somewhat below those of 1927, but with the definite purpose of showing as large a net operating income for 1928 as 1927 through greater operating efficiency, and this purpose has been achieved with a substantial margin over.

Steel Starts Year Auspiciously.

The Iron Trade Review says: "Tonnage requirements for finished steel, dominated by shipbuilding, structural and freight car projects, have expanded to extraordinary proportions in the past week and, considering that both production and demand bridged the year-end with much less than the usual subsidence, are getting the iron and steel markets away to an exceptionally good start for 1929. In price as well as inquiry and bookings, finished steel has opened 1929 auspiciously. Heavy finished material generally holds at the same level as in the fourth quarter. Bars at Cleveland are decidedly firmer. Sheet mills are gradually piling up tonage at the $2 per ton advance. New and higher extras on strip steel are netting producers a better return. Quality extras on flat rolled products are putting these lines on a more remunerative basis. The $2 rise in wire products impelled consumers to cover well ahead last month, but less opposition is claimed by makers."

AIRBRAKE AUTO PART SHOWS BIG SALES

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

SALES and production of brake amplifiers by the Westinghouse Air Brake Company have shown a continual growth during the past year. The Yellow Taxi Corporation of New York has adopted the new brake systems as standard equipment on its entire fleet.

The brake amplifier rounds out the company's line of automotive equipment. Air brakes were not found suitable for use on passenger cars, but the amplifier performs the equivalent operation, using in place of air pressure the vacuum created in the intake manifold of the motor to operate the brake cylinder.

The amplifier supplements the standard braking systems. It furnishes an improved means of applying the brakes, making greater pressure available with practically no effort on the part of the driver.

INCREASED buying of equipment by the railroads, is expected to help the earnings of the Westinghouse Air Brake Company in the first quarter of this year. Earnings in 1928 were just about equal to dividend requirements of $2 a share on the capital stock.

A note of warning was sounded by Albert H. Wiggin, chairmna of the board of the Chase National Bank, at that organization's annual meeting yesterday. He stated that the government and business should consider the possibility of a reduced national income when profits from capital appreciations are reduced.

"TO AN undue extent, in recent years, the American people have been selling capital assets at a profit and treating the profits as income," Mr. Wiggin states. "Fortunately they have recapitalized, by investment, part of the profit, but not all has been recapitalized. A substantial part has been spent in current consumption, partly luxury consumption, and the volume of consumer demand has undoubtedly been increased. Part of it has been taken by the government in taxation. Here, fortunately, the policy of reduction in public debt has helped to return part of these profits to the capital market.

"THE large revenues from profits, based on capital appreciation, can easily be made the excuse for increased appropriations by the government for current purposes. Neither the government nor the business world can afford to rely upon an indefinite continuance of a rising stock market."

Further explaining the relation of capital appreciation to the national income, Mr. Wiggin considers it remarkable that, despite the drop in corporate profits in 1927, individual incomes received in that year, and reported for taxation in 1928, show a gain, and that increased revenue on individual incomes largely offsets the government's loss in taxation on corporate income.

OTHER leaders in business and finance in recent statements, were universally of the opinion that current business volume is excellent but most of them expressed apprehension on the credit outlook.

While the active stock market probably helped business volume in 1928 by making increased luxury buying possible, there is the probability that if additional expansion in stock market credit should take place, it might put the brakes on general business activity by making funds for actual business too costly.

Against this is the fact that our large corporations are now in better financial shape than ever before and have less need of assistance from the banks than in the past. Such organizations do their financing by the sale of stock, but tight money may hinder many activities which are not so strong. Building would be one line of work which would be first to feel the influence of high money.

BRING THIS "SILENT PARTNER" INTO YOUR BUSINESS

WHY not create a sinking fund through life insurance and prevent financial complications in case a partner is suddenly stricken?

The Reliance partnership contract will improve and extend the credit of your firm. It may enable the surviving partner to become sole owner of the business, immediately pay the firm's debts and obligations, wind up all joint business accounts and settle the estate of the deceased partner.

Thus, the firm's capital is unimpaired, no costly, distracting litigation results, bank loans are promptly paid and the business sails on without serious interruption.

An annual premium investment of two to four per cent of the coverage desired is the moderate requirement to secure this ample business security.

Of the thirty-one million dollars disbursed on policies issued by the Company, in excess of twelve millions have been received by living policy-holders. The Perfect Protection Policy is LIFE insurance in the truest sense of the word. Ask for our illustrated booklet to-day.

Herbert is tanned by tropical banquets and bronzed by good-will speeches.

Arthur "Bugs" Baer

He immediately plunged into an executive session with President Cal on the steps of the White House.

It was a friendly contest. As Mr. Coolidge had nothing to say, Mr. Hoover had to agree with Him.

The conversation was sparse. The nodding was about even.

They might have spoken something like this:

"How are you feeling Mr. Coolidge?"

"Glad to see you, Herbert. You are back early, aren't you?"

"Well, I don't want to seem hasty—"

"That's all right, Herbert. How are you feeling?"

"I don't like that question, Cal. My Vice President has already asked me that six or seven times."

"Do me a favor, will you, Herbert?"

"Sure, Cal."

"Don't blame anything on the last administration."

"Speaking about March fourth, Cal—"

"You forget that next month is only February."

"What would you suggest, Mr. Coolidge?"

"Well, I think you took the wrong trip. You should have been with Commander Byrd."

"When we ride up Pennsylvania, Cal, you don't—"

"Go ahead, Herbert."

"Well, you don't mind riding in the rumble seat, do you?"

"Not at all. Call again sometime."

"Thanks."

"You're welcome anytime up until March Fourth."

"Goodbye, Cal."

"So long, Herbert. Look out for that doormat with 'welcome' on it. That has tripped many a sucker."

Now come complaints that persons desiring to get information on case No. 36-N 30,823 have been unable to find any policeman.

This is just what we feared might happen. It seems that nobody can find a policeman when one is needed.

However, let us make this proposal. Get in your car and park near a sign which says, "Parking Limit One Hour." Wait patiently for one hour and 30 seconds. A policeman will be sure to appear.

Our Civil Service Board Acts as Political Puppet

Confirmation of suspicion that the Civil Service Commission was just another of "those things," speaking politically, comes in the decision of the commission to remove from its jurisdiction the position of chief inspector of weights and measures, held until recently by Murray G. Livingston, who was fired by Mayor Charles H. Kline "for the good of the service."

There arose hope that the commission had resolved to be free from political dominance when it made some show of independence in the case directly responsible for the removal of Livingston. It decided that the firing of Inspector Andrew J. Nolan, by Livingston, was of no effect. Livingston testified at the Nolan hearing that he had acted on orders of Mayor Kline after he had failed to induce Nolan to perform a political service.

It seems that this revelation will cost Livingston his job. Mayor Kline, very shortly after the reinstatement of Nolan, notified Livingston that he was out—for the good of the service. Livingston appealed to the Civil Service Commission several weeks ago. Followed a move to exempt his position from civil service classification. Where this request came from seems obvious. There were protests from Livingston, but the commission has answered these objections in a sorry surrender of the position it took when it reinstated Nolan.

What a shame! What an illustration of the alacrity with which puppets act when the strings are pulled! The Civil Service Commission, designed to be the shield between the public servant and political domination, revealed as being only a political instrument in itself.

Naturally, the public has lost faith completely in the Civil Service Commission.

Credit for Pittsburgh In Porter Narcotic Act

Two Pittsburgh members of Congress, Representative Stephen G. Porter and Senator David A. Reed, share credit in one of the greatest humanitarian moves ever made by the United States—or any country. Mr. Porter's House bill, providing two correctional farms for the treatment of narcotic drug addicts, passed by the House in the last session, has just been approved by the Senate, where it was sponsored by Senator Reed.

Mr. Porter has said that credit should go, too, to a publisher of a Pittsburgh newspaper, William Randolph Hearst, head of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and 27 other newspapers, who made the suggestion that has resulted in the legislation. The Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst newspapers furthered the Porter bill through editorial comment and the publication in their news columns of a series of special articles detailing the grave consequences of the spread of the narcotic habit in America.

Mr. Porter, who originated the legislation and promoted it vigorously in the House, has done a great service for his country. For that he deserves a crown of public commendation. It remains for another Pittsburgh resident, Secretary Mellon, to bring the matter to fruition. As Secretary of the Treasury, it will be his duty to select the farm sites and request appropriations needed to service them for redemptive purposes.

Pessimists Should Look At Doughnut, Not Hole

A correspondent, "Old Timer," writes to the Sun-Telegraph that what Pittsburgh needs is "a real live wire Chamber of Commerce." With its natural advantages in coal, railroads and rivers, he feels that our district should have more diversified industries.

Perhaps the recent announcement of our Chamber of Commerce, outlining five objectives, of which one was the encouragement of industrial expansion, has escaped his attention. He also makes reference to "other cities which are prosperous while Pittsburgh is not." So another thing that may have escaped his attention is the fact that the average earning in Pittsburgh is $219 more per year than the average for the state.

Now, there is no question about our need for greater diversification in industry. That need has been felt especially during the period when coal and steel were depressed, with the effect felt by the railroads. But an effort is being made to remedy that.

So "Old Timer," and others who feel a little pessimistic, join the boosters. Don't expect them to do the boosting and permit you to do the knocking. The "live wire" spirit, which you hold so highly, is an infectious one. Catch it yourself and you will help to spread it. Look at the doughnut and forget the hole.

Dr. Shelton and 'Blue Law'

The Rev. Dr. George W. Shelton, commenting on the proposal to modify or repeal Pennsylvania's "Blue Law," says he fears "commercialized" Sunday sports and amusements.

They already are commercialized. If one is rich enough he can buy Sunday golf. If one is rich enough he can buy Sunday movies and other amusements in the clubs which give such entertainment for the families of members.

Only the poor man cannot have them now.

The blue law is of no benefit to the church. In fact it would harm the church more if enforced. How does Dr. Shelton's congregation get to church except through violation of the old law, made for a day and age that no longer exists?

The blue law is NOT enforced and is NOT enforceable. That is why it is discriminatory and unfair.

Did Hoover Promise?

Probably Not.

President Irigoyen of the Argentine is supposed to have said "Mr. Hoover is not in accordance with the ideas of President Coolidge," referring to the United States intervention in Nicaragua.

Mr. Hoover is alleged to have told the South American President that in future the United States would never intervene in the internal affairs of other countries.

It isn't likely that Mr. Hoover tied himself up by any such statement. Mr. Hoover, of course, would not intervene, unless the other country made intervention necessary and proper.

In that he is like President Coolidge.

Tales That Are Told

All of Them

WITH his shoes clasped firmly in his hand and his eyes glued to the stairs in front of him, the late-returning husband endeavored to make as little noise as possible.

"Where have you been?" asked his wife, appearing suddenly at the head of the stairs.

After a moment's reflection, in which he tried hard to collect himself, he ventured:

"The cemetery, my dear."

"Good gracious!" gasped his wife, her suspicions partially allayed by the seriousness of his reply. "Who's dead?"

"All of 'em, my dear," answered the prodigal cheerfully.

All the Difference

THE bookmaker had had a very bad day and he arrived home most disconsolate.

His wife met him in the hall. She already had her hat and coat on, and carried a big shopping basket in her hand.

With tears in his voice her husband explained the situation.

"But I can't understand it," protested the woman, almost in tears herself, "you always win at cards, don't you?"

"That's easy enough," he replied sadly. "But, you see, darling, they won't let me shuffle the horses."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

THEY say you can get anything you want to drink at any restaurant on Broadway, New York. Well, almost anything you want. I heard of a fellow from Kansas that was eating there, and the waiters were awful busy bringing in cocktails on trays, and this poor guy felt neglected. Finally he called one of the waiters and says, "Didn't I tell you three times to bring me a glass of water?"

"Yes," says the waiter, looking stern, "and I didn't do anything about it, but you don't want to carry a joke like that too far!"

Isn't It So?

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

ARDIS and Art, aged 19 and 20 respectively, have been giving the well known Human Race the once-over and they think it can stand a lot of improvement.

After mature consideration they have decided that we are, generally speaking, a bunch of convention-ridden compromising cowards.

"Why do people have to act alike?" they ask.

Why can't they Be Themselves?

Why are they so afraid of what other people will say?

Isn't it possible to defy convention and yet make a success of life?

It is.

It is possible to violate all public opinion and yet attain both fame and fortune. Whereupon the very people who have criticized you most severely will rise up and call you blessed. This feat has been performed by various persons in every generation. In fact, the most distinguished characters in history have acted in this high-handed manner.

All of which will be glad tidings to Ardis and Art.

BUT—there's a price to pay for such emancipation from the common thralldom. And it's such a very big price that the majority of human beings have neither the courage nor energy to pay it.

Conventionality may be a rather dull affair, but there's a sound reason for it. It is the concentrate of millions of years of human experience. Most of us are neither very brave nor bright. We're not prepared to lead dangerous or eccentric lives. So we've banded together and made a code which makes life possible, pleasant and profitable for the greatest number of people. This code we call convention.

It is, I admit, rather a stupid code but it's all that most of us can handle, and naturally we resent those who imperil our safety by defying it.

You CAN be different, Art and Ardis, but you'll find it the loneliest job on earth.

You CAN be your own boss, if you're willing to pay your own way and take your own risks.

You CAN do without other people —IF YOU'RE ABLE TO STAND HAVING THEM DO WITHOUT YOU.

But you musn't expect the benefits of a conventional life and the thrills of an unconventional one. You can't have your cake and eat it, too. If you're going to take other people's money and use other people's strength you must respect their system.

There's the whole case for and against unconventionality. It's a great little game. Some of the best and bravest people in human history have played it. But they paid a terrific price. If you can pay that price—go to it. But if you can't—stay out.

VENUS

By Garrett P. Serviss

IT CANNOT be but that millions of eyes in all parts of the world now admire the growing beauty of the planet Venus, displayed every evening in the sunset sky. She is visible everywhere men live. They see her at the same local hour in China, in India, in Australia, all over Asia, Europe, Africa, the Americas and the islands of the sea. She has many names in many tongues; myths and superstitious fancies are wreathed about her like flowers. Coming back after her long absence in the morning sky, where only the scanty race of early-risers were present to bow at her altar, she brings a breath of antique incense with the memory of the Oriental star-worshippers who gave her so many titles recording her beauty and splendor and mystery.

She was the only planet that Homer spoke of—"Callistos," the beautiful. In ancient India they called her "Sukra," the Dazzling. When she burned like a lamp before sunrise, Cicero said that the ancients (he has become an ancient himself now) called her "Lucifer," the Light Bearer. So when she lifted up her torch in the evening twilight she was called "Hesperus," Light of the West. For the Arabs she was "El Zobra," the Splendor of Heaven. The Egyptians made her the Bird of Osiris, i. e., of the Sun. The astrologers allow her qualities not inconsistent with the dubious reputation of the goddess Venus, but when she is "well dignified" they have good words for her. "Zadkiel" cryptically says that "in man Venus governs youth from 14 to 28."

Companion of retiring day,
Why at the closing gates of heaven,
Beloved star, dost thou delay?
"So fair thy pensile beauty burns
When soft the tear of twilight flows,
So due thy plighted love returns

The planet Venus is very nearly of the same size as the earth. She has an abundant atmosphere and receives from the sun, because of less distance—67,000,000 instead of 93,000,000 miles — about twice as much light and heat as the earth gets. The latest observations indicate that her rotation on her axis is slower, probably much slower than that of our planet, so that her days and nights are long compared with ours. Possibly they are weeks in length. Some years ago it was generally conceded that her rotation had been almost completely lost, so that she kept the same side always sunward, but this now seems to have been an error. Notwithstanding her greater receipt of solar radiation, favorable conditions for the existence of intelligent life probably prevail upon Venus. We may therefore, if we choose, look upon her as a "world" in the full sense, a rival of our own, filled with life and its activities, though they differ widely in detail from what we know here. What reciprocity could be brought about between the inhabitants of Venus and those of the earth, supposing them to be akin in intelligence, is, of course, purely a matter for conjecture. But astronomical means and methods of exploration are growing astonishingly, and a few years may throw a new light on this fascinating question.

Bible Passages

A Psalm of Praise

(Psalm 100.)

MAKE a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands.

Serve the Lord with gladness: come before his presence with singing.

Know ye that the Lord he is God: it is he that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture.

Enter into his gates with thanksgiving, and into his courts with praise: be thankful unto him, and bless his name.

Man's Greatest Folly

SOMETIMES man's greatest folly lies
In being what the world calls wise;
In thrusting present joys away
For visions of a distant day;
In stifling love through years until
The dream grows dim, the heart grows chill.

Sometimes the simplest things are best
To still the spirit's vague unrest;
Enchantment dwells in candlelight
That bravely beckons through the night,
And sweeter than the organ's notes

Sometimes man's greatest folly lies
In seeking always to be wise;
In counting life as but a debt,
Each day a claim that must be met,
Instead of living hours all spun
Of silver laughter, golden sun!

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER
To Your Friends in Other Cities

Ride High Tide

By Herbert Kaufman

FIGURES are full of half truths. That's why courts are full of receivers' suits.

So don't gulp any broad statement without the salt of analysis. And sprinkle it especially thick on statistics claiming to prove the average life span has recently been lengthened by 15 years.

Facts show that we're not living longer than heretofore—the gain is all at t'other end—fewer folk are dying as young as they used to.

Better feeding and saner care of infants is one salvaging factor. The wiping out of childhood scourges, like diphtheria and scarlet fever—together with adenoid and tonsil removal—are others.

And Nathan Straus' magnificent battle for pasteurization and milk inspection has also helped to give every seventh infant the chance for survival that previous ignorance denied.

We are managing to protect human seedlings from the blights that nipped their expectation, but the proverbial three-score-and-ten deadline still halts the same heavy percentage of adult careers.

Despite miracles of surgery, sanitation, inoculation and antisepsis, medical progress—calculating population by billions (not random exceptions)—as yet offers faint hope of raising the life limit.

Sensible diet, regular schedules, cautious habits and promptly repaired flaws will prevent its premature obsolescence, but only remarkable constitutions remain efficient and continue to hit on all cylinders beyond 70.

The hands of the clock wear points to prick laggards into action; every tick utters warning to invest your restricted capital of strength and imagination in season.

Make the most of your time—ride high tide.

"Step on it," while the motor's humming and the gears are in perfect mesh.

Opportunity has a one-word vocabulary. And every chance-misser and self-wrecker will tell you, that word is—NOW.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—The singed moths do not always return to the consuming Broadway flame. All over America and in Europe too will be found the scorched who are not even mildly interested in the street that whips the universe. They are content with the fun they had along the primrose path.

There are others, too, whom Broadway honored with its two-minute enthusiasms and who have found happiness elsewhere. Hollywood is filled with former Rialto idols who do not even return to their scenes of triumph for a visit. They are content with their Spanish castles and cute little patios.

Jack Gavin, an exhibition dancer, has been self-exiled in Paris 10 years. Lou Hauser, once a figure on Broadway, has retired to the peace of a Brittany chateaux. Tommy Milton, a crack newspaperman, has his apartment on the Bund in Shanghai. Brooks John, who twanged a banjo for night club patrons for years, now runs a farm in Virginia.

Near Lamy, N. M., there lives on a ranch a famous spender who for years "burnt up" Broadway nightly. One dawn in the famous Jack's he put down his highball glass. "This is the bunk," he exclaimed. The crowd at the table laughed and ordered another drink.

By noon he had all his securities from a vault and that afternoon entrained for Albuquerque — he doesn't know now exactly why he bought a ticket for that place. That's difficult for anyone to understand. This was 15 years ago and he has not set foot on Manhattan Isle since.

In London there is a group that rounds into the Savoy every afternoon for Scotch and soda. They call themselves "The Broadway Exiles." Each was for many years identified with various activities of that street. Not one has returned since leaving it.

One of the most fashionable restaurants in New York lists old fashioned apple-butter on its menu. It is 60 cents a portion—a mere dab. I remember when you had to hire a wagon to carry 60 cents' worth home.

A voyager from Paris returned with two dozen shirts made by a Parisian shirtmaker. He had not tried them on, but when he did, discovered they were about four sizes too small, so he cabled a message lacking the customary love and kisses. Two weeks later there arrived from Paris an emissary from the shirtmaker with shirts that were a perfect fit, and an abject apology. The good will expedition cost more than $1,000. There is no particular moral to this story except it is our prediction such rare service will in the end not cost the Paris shirtmaker a penny.

On the East Side an old time Sunday touch of the small town prevails. On various street corners in the Ghetto when days are pleasant are "for hire" teams of horses with canopied carriages. They are driven by bewhiskered patriarchs in plug hats. The modest sum of 50 cents is charged for a short drive. They are filled with tired tenement mothers and their children.

And there are two places in midtown where smart horse-drawn equipages may be rented by the hour. In the small town the prices for a horse and buggy was $1.50 for the entire afternoon. The New York price is $12 an hour—but a liveried coachman with a plume in his hat band is furnished. The horse-drawn cab for theater goers is still considered the ultra of all vehicles. It inspires the ultra Broadway phrase, "the carriage trade."

OH, THESE WOMEN

By Leola Allard

LADIES with nice voices and an inward charm which shows in them, are to have their day, thanks to the radio.

And the affected ladies, with their beauty and personality darkened, and their affectations emphasized in their voice, are piping over the radio and being hurriedly dialed out.

Folks stand for a great deal of affectation if they can look at a pretty face and some right smart clothes. But the "tweet tweets" will have to furnish pictures alongside if they hope to last in Radio Land.

Women served as judges of election in Springfield, Ill., and were convicted of irregularities. Then they pleaded their sex as defense, saying women were not legally authorized to serve as election judges.

If that isn't too feminine!

There are plenty of women who are prune politicians. No matter how young in the game they are full of such wrinkles.

A woman "down east" brought her husband to court. She was much the worse for wear and told the magistrate that this same husband had broken a whole set of dishes, hitting her with them, one at a time.

The husband went to jail.

It does sound as if there being so many dishes in a set, that by the time he reached the last cup and saucer, she might have been somewhere else.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

IF YOU become the guest of a person whom you know are you loyal in work, look and deed while accepting favors?

There is a nice little point of breeding concerned here.

Suppose you find your host or your hostess is different from what you expected, perhaps seems nicer than you thought?

Do you consider you have a right to accept that hospitality if you comment back of your hand that this is a new side to a character you thought you knew to be quite different?

When you become a guest, for a half hour, a day or a week, at least for the time being you should have too much sense of loyalty to make any remarks to others that you would not say to the face of the one entertaining.

How can anyone give or accept hospitality, while commenting unfavorably upon guest or hostess?

If this is your habit you deserve to be dropped.
